A Thorough and Effective Disease and Germ Destroyer—New Discovery Pronounced the Greatest Boon of the Age.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Again science has labored and brought forth a marvel. This time the product is one of electricity—the Magno Electric Vitalizer—and its inventor is none other than Thomas A. Edison, Jr., son of that great wizard who has given to the world so many wonders.

The Magno Electric Vitalizer is now being offered to the public with absolute assurance that it will fill a want long felt. Its mission is one of hope to the despairing and it will be welcomed by thousands throughout the land as a burst of golden sunlight on the black pathway of despair.

Electricity has transformed the world, and why should it not transform the world's methods of curing its sick? This is the reasoning of Thomas A. Edison, Jr., in his presentation of the Magno Electric Vitalizer. This invention has already commanded the attention of medical men and of the laity in all parts of the world. It has remarkable energizing and rejuvenating properties.

It is being placed on the market by Mr. Edison's own company, The Thomas A. Edison, Jr., Chemical Co., 4 Stone street, New York. A booklet containing complete information is being sent out free on application to those who suffer from consumption, bronchitis, malaria, rheumatism, debility, sleeplessness, nervous exhaustion, and to all who may be interested in cures of disease by electricity.

FRANK MOON MURDERED BY AN AVENGER

Evidence That Scottdale Shooting Was Done by Moonshiner.

STATEMENT BY THE DYING MAN

Says Assassin Declared Illicit Whisky Must Be Protected.

OFFICERS ON THE TRAIL

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

Connellsville, Pa., Nov. 10.—Frank Moon died today at the Cottage State hospital, where he lingered since he was shot down by a mysterious stranger in the barroom of the New Scottdale house, in Scottdale, last Thursday. With the death of Moon comes light on the deep mystery which has shrouded the killing since the fatal night.

New evidence points conclusively to the fact that Moon was murdered by a moonshiner, chosen and sent by the strange fraternity of lawbreakers who live in the fastnesses of Laurel hill, because he had aided the United States revenue men in their efforts to hound down the makers of illicit whisky. At first the dreadful suspicion could hardly be believed, but it now seems certain. Officers, straining every nerve to capture the slayer of Moon, have turned their faces mountainward and expect to find the murderer in the moonshine districts of Saltlick township or Somerset county.

Moaning piteously on his white cot at the hospital, Moon told the story of his murder.

"I was drinking with some friends in the barroom of the New Scottdale house," he said, "when the man who shot me walked in and along the length of the bar, as if looking for some one. Suddenly he stopped and looked me over, carefully, at the same time asking me to take a drink with him. Our conversation soon turned to the moonshine business, and the stranger remarked that hotel whisky was impure; that the only 'real stuff' was the mountain dew, made illegally. Then the stranger drew a revolver and twirled it around with the air of a man accustomed to firearms. I remarked that it was a dangerous looking weapon, and he replied, 'I am a moonshiner and we need protection.' Then, without another word, he lowered the weapon to the level of my breast and fired."

Moon did not fall at once, but, struggling helplessly, clung to the edge of the bar. The smoke of the shot was still wreathing in the room when the stranger replaced the revolver in his pocket and carelessly remarked, "He was shot through the window from the outside." Then he pushed his way through the gathering crowd to the door, and was gone.

W. J. Dickson, deputy United States collector, said to-day: "It is not the rule for revenue men to tell the names of their guides and informants. But I will say that three years ago, when Frank Campbell was deputy United States marshal, we had a guide, a very useful guide, who lived in Broad Ford. He had a feud of long standing with some of the moonshiners in Saltlick township, and at times they had him pretty badly frightened. One time we had a big raid arranged and this man backed out at the last minute, fearful of his life, which had been threatened repeatedly. I knew he was in danger. Once he went to Virginia, but later returned, and for the past two years has helped us considerably. That is all I have to say."

This leaves little doubt that Moon is the guide who provoked the wrath of the moonshiners. He was born in Drakestown, near the Somerset line, in the heart of the mountain region. Later he lived near Confluence, and until the last three years has always been in close touch with the men of the mountains. The remains of Moon will be claimed and buried by his friends.

THE SYNDICATE FORMED.

Another Step Taken in Financing the Shipbuilding Combine.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(Special.)—It was announced tonight by George R. Sheldon, manager of the syndicate which will take over certain loans of the Trust Company of the Republic, made in connection with the launching of the United States Shipbuilding Company, that the syndicate had been successfully formed.

The full amount of the subscription to the new syndicate exceeds the preliminary estimate of $4,000,000, the amount stated to be the total of the French underwriting participations in the United States Shipbuilding Company stocks.

FILLED PREACHER'S LEGS WITH SHOT

CANONSBURG, PA., Nov. 10.—The Rev. Isaac C. Boyce was wounded by a charge of shot from a gun in the hands of a hunter on the Boyce farm, near here, today. The Rev. Mr. Boyce had notified a party of hunters from Bridgeville to quit his premises, when one of them, it is alleged, turned upon him and fired, the charge taking effect in Mr. Boyce's legs. The wounds are not serious. The hunters were arrested.

DITCHES MADE FOR BIG LEAKS

Elmer E. Siebert Exposes the Condition of the New Reservoir.

ONLY ONE SPRING

Elmer E. Siebert, the superintendent of Highland park, who was removed yesterday by Director McCandless for activity in behalf of the Citizens ticket, confirms the stories of leaks in the new Highland reservoir and says that the condition of the basin is much worse than reported.

"The leakage in the new reservoir is a great deal worse than the papers have stated," said Mr. Siebert. "So serious has the matter become that the contractors and the department of public works are doing everything in their power to conceal the leaks.

"To do this they have built trenches in the hillside near the zoo to carry off the water that is escaping from the reservoir. On the side of the basin near Negley avenue there is a stream coming out large enough for a 12-inch pipe. The water is coming out so fast that the sewers cannot carry it off, and it is flowing into Haights run.

"I was examining the embankment of the reservoir the other day and met Patrick Ridge and City Engineer J. P. Trimble. They tried to convince me that most of the water came from springs, and that it would not be alarming if the entire embankment was soaked with water. Mr. Ridge claiming that the sediment in time would fill up the cracks.

"I disputed his assertion that the escaping water was from springs. I told him there was only one spring near the reservoir and that was on the south side of the basin. Long before there was a park or a reservoir there I hunted all over that ground, and always knew where to get a drink. They know that the reservoir is leaking and are simply trying to keep the facts from the public.

"I advised them to drain the basin and try to find the places where it is leaking, but they ridiculed the idea. There is now less than nine feet of water in the basin. It cannot hold water."

Superintendent Siebert was removed by Director McCandless because he worked openly for the Citizens ticket in the Eighteenth ward.

A few days previous to the election Mr. Siebert was indiscreet enough to make a statement through The Gazette that he was in favor of H. K. Porter for congress and the remainder of the Citizens ticket.

This interview aroused the ire of Director McCandless, who denounced Seibert as guilty of "ingratitude." "We stood by Siebert in his fight for his salary and helped him to get it. Now he turns his back on us," said the director. Siebert claims that Select Councilman Wainwright and Common Councilman Barr of the Eighteenth ward were responsible for his removal.

William Bailey, assistant chief clerk in the recorder's office, was appointed to succeed Siebert.

The vacancy in the recorder's clerical force is to be filled by the appointment of William Bradley, dismissed from the detective force last week.

PENNSY GETS CONTROL OF ALL NEW ENGLAND

Leases the Boston and Maine and New York, New Haven and Hartford.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—A statement comes from excellent sources that the Boston & Maine railroad and the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad systems have been leased to the Pennsylvania railroad.

It can be stated without fear of more than mere technical denial that terms were made last week whereby both properties will be operated under Pennsylvania auspices. While nothing definite as to terms has yet been made public, it is understood that both railroads are to be guaranteed a 10 per cent dividend. Indeed, nothing less would for a moment be acceptable to stockholders of either property.

This means that the entire control of New England's great railroad systems will be placed in the hands of the Morgan-Cassatt syndicate. Therefore, this deal, if successfully put through, means that the entire Atlantic seaboard will be in the hands of a half dozen men.

ELKIN NON-COMMITTAL.

Many of His Friends Urging Him to Continue as Attorney General Under Pennypacker.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—(Special.)—Attorney General Elkin met a large number of friends here today. There have been many conflicting reports concerning the probability of Mr. Elkin's reappointment by Gov. Pennypacker as attorney general.

"That is a matter I will not discuss for publication," said Mr. Elkin to The Gazette correspondent tonight. "I have not given the question any consideration." A few friends believe it might interfere with his gubernatorial ambition four years hence; but the great majority of his supporters think he should remain officially in the public eye. Two weeks ago Elkin decided not to remain in office under any circumstances, the conclusion hinging upon his gubernatorial candidacy. It is possible that his friends have influenced him differently.

DEMONSTRATION IN HAVANA FOR LEGALIZED COCK FIGHTS.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

Havana, Nov. 10.—A heavy rain interfered with the public demonstration which was held here today in the interest of legalizing cock fighting in Cuba and rescinding the military order prohibiting it. There were five bands of music in the procession which marched through the streets of Havana, but only 500 countrymen, on foot and horseback, turned out for the occasion.

Banners proclaiming cock fighting to be the national sport of Cuba were much in evidence. Several winning game cocks were proudly exhibited in the procession.

The demonstrators were refused an audience by President Palma, but presented their petition in favor of cock fighting to the senate. Other petitions in favor of the sport have been presented to congress from all parts of the island.

RUSHING STREAMS LIKE MOUNTAIN TORRENTS GUSH FROM RESERVOIR.

(Photographed by a Gazette Artist.)

This picture shows the largest of the four leaks in the northwest embankment of the new Highland reservoir. The stream is picturesque as it tumbles down through fallen timbers and underbrush, but when one considers what all these leaks mean—the money that has been squandered and the scandal that attaches to the job—the picturesqueness fades. The latest story afloat about the reservoir is that Director J. Guy McCandless, of the department of public works, intends to give the basin a supreme test this week. He will have the reservoir filled to its utmost capacity—127,000,000 gallons—provided the pumps at Brilliant station can be worked fast enough to beat the leaks. Director McCandless says that when the reservoir is completely filled it can be told whether the work has been properly done.

COURT DELIVERS OFFENDER TO HIS IRATE NEIGHBORS

Forced to Sit Still and Look His Tormentors in the Eyes While They Jaw Him to Their Hearts' Content.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 10.—Judge Kennedy in police court this morning tried an original way of punishing a man. John Polecek was the prisoner. Polecek had been arrested three times for allowing his horses and cows to run at large near his place of business.

Last Saturday he was arrested again, and this morning the usual crowd of neighbors was on hand to witness vengeance wreaked upon Polecek. Judge Kennedy turned Polecek over to his irate neighbors and let them tell him what they thought of him. For over a half-hour Polecek sat on the witness chair while his neighbors, over whose front lawns Polecek's horses and cows have been running for a long time, took turns in pouring hot shot into him.

When one of them grew tired or became overcome with his feelings, the next in turn took up the talk. The accumulated wrath of an entire neighborhood was poured out upon Polecek's head.

Finally the judge picked out a Mrs. Kabitcek and delegated her to do the work for the rest of the crowd. The angry woman mounted the witness stand, and shaking her finger in Polecek's face, vented her wrath in such a tumultuous tide of abuse that Polecek was unable to say a word, but sat and listened silently. Whenever the victim tried to turn his face away from the accusing finger of the woman, Judge Kennedy ordered him to look her in the eyes, so as to miss nothing she said.

In the meantime, while Polecek withered under the scornful tirade of his neighbors, the court leaned back and enjoyed the performance.

"I intend you to be punished," said Judge Kennedy. "However, although you have been punished sufficiently, I think you have got a little more than your share in being compelled to listen to all these nice things your neighbors have to say about you."

Then the judge made Polecek and his principal accusers shake hands. Polecek was discharged.

LIGGINS CONFESSES TO JACKSON MURDER

When Arrested in Columbus He Says Trouble Was All About Woman.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

COLUMBUS, Nov. 10.—"I killed John Jackson, and it was all about a woman both of us wanted," declared Richard Liggens at the city prison today.

Liggens is wanted at McDonald, Pa., for the murder of John Jackson, December 19, 1901. Liggens was in Columbus about eight months ago and the detectives learning of his presence, laid their plans to catch him, but as he heard they were after him he disappeared.

Several days ago he again came to the city and a watch was set for him. Today the officers found him in Third street and arrested him.

When first confronted he denied most strenuously that his name was Liggens. He said it was William Lee, and denied he had ever been to McDonald, Pa. He was taken to the city prison, however, and soon after his arrival acknowledged that he was the man wanted.

He would make no statement other than that quoted above.

Capt. Russell telegraphed the authorities in McDonald, who answered that they would send for Liggens.

NINETY-SIX MISSING IN STEAMSHIP WRECK

British Vessel Dashed to Pieces Off the Coast of New Zealand.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

MELBOURNE, Nov. 10.—The British steamer Elingamite, bound from Sydney, N. S. W., for Auckland, has been wrecked on Three Kings Islands. Forty-one of those on board the steamer were saved and 96 are missing.

The steamer Elingamite belonged to Huddart-Berker & Co. of Melbourne. She was used in the general passenger and mail service carried on by this company between the colonies and along the coast of Australia. She was built in 1887 at Newcastle-on-Tyne, and was of 1,675 tons net register. She was 310 feet long, 40 feet wide and 19 feet deep.

Three Kings Islands are a group of small islands 38 miles northwest of New Zealand.

FIVE WORKERS ENTANGLED BY FIRE FESTOON

Toilers in Imminent Danger on the New East River Bridge.

CONTRACTORS LOSE VERY HEAVILY

False Work and Temporary Walks Burned and Heavy Steel Cable Ruined.

LOSS MILLION AND HALF

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Herald Building, Herald Square, NEW YORK, Nov. 10.

Fire tonight damaged the structure of the new East river bridge to the extent of about $1,500,000.

Five men, all of whom were employed upon the bridge structure, were for a time believed to have gone down with it. Many firemen had narrow escapes from death, but so far as known only one, a fireman on the fireboat William L. Strong, was seriously hurt.

James McKeon of Brooklyn is a foreman of cable construction on the Manhattan end. McKeon told the police and the firemen when they arrived that four or five men had remained at the summit of the tower and were perched there at a point where the fire had not yet reached. As far as known, these were Daniel Brophy, 30 years old, of Montreal; his brother John, 25 years old, and a workman known only as "Tom." Working with them was A. P. McBride, 18 years old.

Late tonight the statement was made that three men reported killed had been accounted for.

Two of the four great main cables destined to sustain the weight of the structure, it is feared, have been so seriously impaired by heat that they may have to be replaced. Each of these main cables is 18½ inches in diameter and consists of 7,696 steel strands, the thickness of each of which is three sixteenths of an inch.

Three of the four temporary footbridges spanning the river, together with the false work and the cables sustaining them, have been burned away and are a total loss.

Terry & Trench and the New Jersey Steel Company were the contractors who built the steel towers. Upon them will fall the greater part of the balance of the loss. None of the work had yet been formally turned over to the city.

The heat from the fire, which started 350 feet above the ground at the apex of the southernmost of the two structures on the Manhattan shore, has so warped and otherwise damaged much of the steel work, that it is feared it will have to be taken out and replaced.

The flame spread along the wooden footway and out over the East river like a festoon of fire. Finally the footbridges parted in the middle, deluging, under a rain of sparks, brands and pendeous redhot steel bolts, the decks and superstructures of half a dozen river craft. For two hours river traffic was practically suspended.

Today practically marked the completion of the task of John A. Roebling & Sons Company, who probably will have to stand more than $1,000,000 of the loss. They are the contractors for the structural portion of the bridge proper. Tomorrow the Pennsylvania Steel Company of Steelton, Pa., was to have begun the work of constructing the main roadways of steel.

One of the small forges used in heating the steel bolts had been carelessly left with its fire smouldering. It ignited the woodwork nearby, and then an explosion of several gallons of oil stored there spread the flame throughout the whole woodwork of the structure. One glance aloft was enough to daunt the stoutest firefighter. To get water to that tremendous altitude was an impossibility.

HENRY YOUTSEY HAS MADE A STATEMENT

Prisoner Tells His Story of the Goebel Murder, But at Present It Is Secret.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

FRANKFORT, KY., Nov. 10.—That Henry Youtsey, the Campbell county man convicted of complicity in the murder of the late William Goebel, now serving a life sentence in the state penitentiary, has made a statement concerning that affair there seems to be no longer any doubt.

The statement, or confession, was made, it is said, to Judge Cantrill, who presided at the trial of the prisoner. One attorney for the prosecution has said such a statement is in existence.

The statement will be kept from the public pending corroboration of its contents by the parties named in its detail.

Investigation of the killing of Goebel will be renewed with vigor, it is stated, at the January session of the Franklin county jury, and more new indictments are expected at that time.

BROOKLYN DEMOCRACY WILL HELP TAMMANY

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(Special.)—The Sun this morning says: It has practically been determined, as a result of the recent election, that Tammany and the Brooklyn Democracy will act in close alliance in the big political game for the recapture of the municipal administration next year. There is to be no preliminary skirmishing between the organizations on each side of the East river, such as disturbed the party councils in 1897 and 1901.

ALL TESTIMONY IN QUAY'S FAVOR

Postal Employes Tell of That Committee Letter for Contributions.

A PRINTER'S MISTAKE

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU, Public Ledger Building, PHILADELPHIA, PA., Nov. 10.

The hearing of witnesses summoned in the civil service suit against United States Senator Quay was concluded this afternoon in the office of District Attorney Holland.

At a hearing held in the matter last week it was testified by Thomas V. Cooper, treasurer of the state committee, that the letters were sent without the knowledge of Senator Quay. The witness also said it was a mistake of the printer to have put the name of Senator Quay on the letter. It was also shown that when it was found out that the letter was a violation of the civil service laws a second letter, recalling the first, was sent out.

There were six witnesses present today, all but one employes of the postoffice. The first put on the stand was Charles E. Baker, a clerk in the West Philadelphia trolley car postal service. He told about receiving a letter asking for a financial contribution to aid the Republican state campaign. He also said he had received a second letter in which he was told in substance to forget that the first letter was sent. He said he contributed some money, which he paid to Thomas V. Cooper.

Thomas Green, an assistant dispatcher in the postoffice, said he got two letters from the committee headquarters with the name of Senator Quay signed to them. He also received a copy of the Cooper letter. He did not contribute.

Robert Stevens, an employe of the postoffice, also received copies of the letters, but did not give anything to the fund.

Thomas J. Wright, a letter carrier, testified to receiving only one letter, which was the one by which the first letter was withdrawn. He did not receive any of the other letters and said he did not contribute.

William Zierley said he received copies of the letters, but had made a contribution before getting the first letter. He added that he always gave money to the committee.

J. W. Attenbaugh, a salesman for John T. Palmer, the printer who printed the letters, was the next witness. He told about getting the order for the printing of the letters. He got the order from Mr. Andrews, secretary of the committee. He was not sure whether or not the copy was on a letterhead bearing the name of Senator Quay. Witness said Senator Quay was not present. He was asked to send the original order to Mr. Holland.

All the witnesses have been examined. Mr. Holland expects to make his report to Attorney General Knox in a few days.

WAR COUNCIL WAS HELD AT FLINN'S HOUSE

He Had a Few Political Associates Meet in Conference.

ROBERTSON AND BROWN NOT IN IT

The Reorganization of City and County Committees Was Discussed.

SUGGEST NEW CHAIRMEN

There was a little meeting of old organization men at William Flinn's house Sunday afternoon. The invitation list is said to have contained none of the men who are advocating party unity.

The purpose of the gathering is said to have been to ascertain, if possible, what the future held in store for Senator Flinn and his political associates.

It was the general opinion that a reorganization of the city and county committees was a necessity. Among those who were not invited to the conference are said to be City Chairman Brown and County Chairman Robertson. In fact, the membership of the gathering was quite small, many of the leading lights of the old organization not being present.

Two men were considered for the chairmanship of the city committee. One was Dr. A. J. Barchfeld, who was defeated last Tuesday for congressman in the Thirty-second district, and the other was Max G. Leslie, common councilman from the Seventeenth ward. There is nothing in the records of the conference to show that either of these statesmen was elected to succeed Chairman Brown.

As for the chairmanship of the county committee, that was not definitely decided. There was a general desire on the part of the few present to become better acquainted with the desires of the many who were absent before finally determining what should be done.

Recorder Brown left the city last night for a week. He knew that the meeting had been held, but did not appear to be afraid that his successor as chairman of the city committee would be selected in his absence.

Representative George J. Hartman of Wilkesbarre is the latest Republican legislator to announce his candidacy for speaker of the next house. Yesterday he informed some of his friends in this city that he would ask his colleagues in the legislature to assist him in obtaining this honor. Mr. Hartman is a member of the present legislature, having been quite prominent in the session of 1901. Luzerne county has not had a speaker for many years, and the selection of Mr. Hartman will be strongly urged by the delegation from that county.

MASCAGNI RELEASED PENDING AN INQUIRY

After a Conference He Puts Up $4,000 Giving Immunity from Arrest.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—Pietro Mascagni, the composer, was before the superior court today, representing that he was held under arrest on mesne process by virtue of a writ in which Mittenthal Bros. are plaintiffs. In this suit the Mittenthals seek to recover $10,000 as damages. He filed a petition asking to be released from custody and also praying for a reduction of bail.

Mr. McClellan, his counsel, contended that it was Mittenthal Bros. who had broken the contract and not his client, and that, instead of Mascagni owing them $14,000, as they allege, they owe him $18,000.

Mr. McClellan said that under the contract Mittenthal Bros. had agreed to employ Mascagni for 15 weeks for $60,000, in weekly payments of $4,000. Before leaving Italy he was to receive $7,000 and upon his arriving in New York he was to receive $7,000, the total amount to be applied toward payment of the last weeks of the tour, which included various parts of America and Canada.

Mascagni arrived in New York October 4 and received the amount due him, making in all $14,000 paid him in advance. He pointed out a provision in the contract where, in the event of unforeseen circumstances, the tour should be interrupted, he should retain the $14,000.

At the suggestion of the judge there was a conference between Thomas J. Barry, counsel for the Mittenthals, Mr. McClellan, representing Mascagni, and Boardman Hall, representing the Kronbergs, which resulted in Mascagni agreeing to deposit $4,000, which insures him from arrest while the investigation is pending.

Mascagni immediately retaliated by suing the Mittenthals for $50,000 damages for alleged false arrest. It is said Mascagni will resume his tour.

Mascagni shows little concern over his troubles and laughed and talked with friends during the two hours he was in the court house. Afterward he made a call on Gov. Crane and was shown through the state house.

STRIKE ON NEW STOCK EXCHANGE

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—(Special.)—The World this morning says: The plumbers went on strike in the new stock exchange building in Wall street yesterday because steamfitters were doing work in the building which, the plumbers say, should have been done by them.

Root Defeats Hart.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—Tonight at the Lyceum Athletic club, Jack Root of Chicago was given the decision over Marvin Hart of Louisville, after six rounds of as hard fighting as ever was witnessed in Chicago. Root had the better of every round, notwithstanding that he received a severe drubbing himself. Hart was down for the first in the second round and was saved from a knockout by the gong.

PITTSBURGH DELEGATES IN PARKERSBURG

Arrived Late Because of Accidents to Train Engine.

ENTHUSIASTIC FOR WORK ON RIVER

Ohio Valley Improvement Association Opens Convention Today.

MEN OF NOTE PRESENT

By EDWARD C. SYKES,
Staff Correspondent.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Nov. 10.—The eighth annual convention of the Ohio Valley Improvement association convenes here tomorrow. Every hotel in town is filled with delegates and many are being quartered at private residences.

The Pittsburgh delegation arrived at 9 o'clock tonight, tired and hungry, the train being one hour and 30 minutes late, owing to three breakdowns to the engine. The first accident occurred at Moundsville, the next at New Martinsville, and when the train was in sight of Parkersburg something again went wrong with the engine. The equalizing rod was out of gear. Capt. John F. Dravo, who arrived tonight, is ill at the Blennerhassett hotel. He was quite weak when he left the train. He is suffering from a severe cold.

The Pittsburgh delegation came over the Panhandle to Wheeling and took the Ohio River railroad there to Parkersburg. The delegation is composed of Congressman-elect H. Kirke Porter, Capt. Dravo, J. Frank Tilley, Capt. W. B. Rodgers, Capt. W. L. Sibert, who originated the slogan, "On to Cairo!" George Heard, Capt. John A. Wood, Capt. James Morris, Capt. Thomas M. Rees, Capt. James A. Henderson and Secretary George H. Anderson.

Joined by Other Delegations.

At Wheeling the delegation was joined by the Wellsville and Mingo contingent. The Wellsville delegates include Charles Boyd, C. V. Shoun, A. J. Shannon, A. S. Rogers, E. A. Gerren, F. L. Wells, B. D. Beacom and Wallace L. Fago, the mayor. Mingo is represented by H. W. C. Becker, Harry A. Risner and Bert Sebold.

The Allegheny River Improvement association is represented by S. B. Cochrane, president; F. A. Moesta, F. L. Hervey, H. J. Sedwick, Edward W. Dewey and J. W. Ganoe.

Col. John L. Vance, president, and Col. E. F. Wilson, secretary of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, arrived this afternoon and are quartered at the Jackson hotel, the headquarters of the association. Both expressed the opinion that tomorrow's meeting would be the largest gathering ever held in the interest of the slackwater navigation.

From 600 to 800 delegates are expected. The convention will demand that the Ohio river be improved with a system of locks and dams from Pittsburgh to Cairo. The slow manner in which government improvements on the Ohio river have progressed this year may also be attacked. An interesting personage at tomorrow's meeting will be Capt. John A. Wood, who is the only riverman who favored the building of Davis island dam 25 years ago. He was fought by the river interests for advocating it, but the captain said it would prove a benefit and that Pittsburgh rivermen would go down on their knees and ask for more dams. His words are proving true.

Mr. Porter Is Pleased.

Congressman-elect Porter says he is delighted to be here. He says he is heart and soul in the movement. Congressman John Dalzell will arrive tomorrow.

Congressman B. E. Dovener of Wheeling came in with the Pittsburgh delegation. The Wheeling boomers arrive tomorrow morning.

Gov. Nash of Ohio and Gov. White of West Virginia will arrive tomorrow, also numerous congressmen and senators, including Senators Scott and Forsker. Senator Elkins wired that he cannot come.

Capt. Rodgers and George H. Anderson are the guests of J. E. Finley, chairman of the entertainment committee. Mr. Finley met the various delegations at the depot.

The East Liverpool and Beaver delegates arrived late tonight. Capt. J. D. Ellison of Cincinnati and Commodore Wise are here as the Cincinnati advance guard. The rest of the delegation arrives at 2 o'clock tomorrow morning in a special train of seven Pullman sleepers.

Nearly every town from Pittsburgh to Cincinnati is represented by from 1 to 12 delegates. An interesting personage here is Mayor B. Seamon of Moundsville. The Marietta contingent will arrive in the morning, accompanied by a band.

Laidley Is Enthusiastic.

Commodore F. A. Laidley of Cincinnati, who is so largely interested in traffic along the Ohio river, is in the city to remain until the work of the association has been concluded. Commodore Laidley is president of the national board of steam navigation, and is numbered among the most prominent men working with the association. A reporter for The Gazette talked with him today, and his views throw light on the question before the body in session here.

"I don't care a rap," said the commodore, "what the cost may be. We should have a 9-foot stage of water the year around from Pittsburgh to Cairo. In fact, the commerce of the Ohio valley demands that congress take such action as will give that stage to the people of the valley.

"Let it cost one dollar, or one hundred million dollars, so the necessary action is taken that will give the people what is wanted. The commerce of the valley has been neglected long enough, and I am in favor of making the strongest sort of a demand on the government for an appropriation sufficiently large to complete the work that will place a good boating stage in the Ohio river the entire year.

"The commerce of this valley has grown to such enormous proportions that it stands alone as a constant demand on the government to give the necessary aid. I am not in favor of begging any longer for what is wanted of congress. We will never obtain anything by crying. What we must do now on the eve of this great Association meeting, is agree to stand shoulder to shoulder and fight to a finish for what will not only benefit the Ohio valley, but the entire country as well."

In view of Congressman Dalzell's candidacy for the speakership of the national house of representatives, his presence at the convention will be an incident of much interest and importance.

ROOT OPPOSES HIGH BRIDGES

The Secretary of War Is Not Likely Now to Change His Mind.

BOAT OWNERS' SCHEME

William Roseburg Says Government Will Regard Proposition to Raise Allegheny Bridges in Same Light as Before.

As the time approaches for the hearing before the United States engineer on the advisability of raising the Allegheny bridges, the advocates of elevation are beginning to realize the magnitude of the obstacle, which common sense had erected before their proposed enterprise. Two short years ago Secretary Root declared against the proposal to elevate the bridges, and as no new arguments have been proposed by the rivermen, there is no likelihood that the secretary will change his mind.

Such is an epitome of expressions heard yesterday among downtown business men and some of the property owners on Sixth street, Duquesne way and other thoroughfares which would be damaged if the bridges should be raised. The bridge companies will be represented at the meeting in the engineer's office on Friday and Saturday and will protest against the proposal.

Resurrecting an Old Corpse.

William Roseburg, secretary of the corporation which owns the Sixth street bridge, said yesterday that he had concerned himself very little about the proposals and suggestions for lifting the structures, because there was not the slightest possibility of the secretary of war giving his acquiescence to the scheme of a few boat owners. Mr. Roseburg has been secretary of the Sixth street corporation since 1857, and is thoroughly familiar with the needs of the city in its thoroughfares, as well as the conveniences necessary to free navigation.

"In reviving the agitation for elevated bridges, the promoters of the scheme have dug up an old corpse," said Mr. Roseburg, "and it would be wise to keep it in its grave undisturbed. The whole question was settled two years ago, when a committee was appointed by city councils and representative business men to go to Washington and petition the secretary of war against the proposition which would deface the city.

Root Is Against Scheme.

"Secretary Root did not hesitate in the matter. He said the scheme was impractical and unwise, and that settled it. The committee did not go to Washington and the question decided itself.

"The same result is to be expected again. A few enthusiasts cannot work such revolutionary schemes, while the city sits dumb.

"The suggestions, which have been made for the building of viaducts may seem very good to rivermen, but it would ruin a score of streets, make the outlet to the bridges inconvenient to the patrons and seriously interrupt traffic between the two cities.

"Our engineer has figured out that it would cost over $300,000 to raise the Sixth street bridge. The work on this would sever traffic, while the raising would be in progress, and the downtown section would be practically isolated, so far as communication would be concerned. When those hearings are held, the old corpse will be reinterred and will stay where it belongs."

VANDERBILT IS GIVEN HIS DEGREE AT YALE

Name Among Those Announced at Autumn Meeting of Corporation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 10.—The autumn meeting of the Yale university corporation was held late this afternoon and tonight the following announcements were made by the secretary:

Prof. J. J. Thomson of Cambridge university, England, well known as a physicist, was appointed the first Silliman lecturer. This lectureship has an endowment of about $85,000.

The prudential committee chosen for the coming year consists of the following members of the corporation: The Rev. Charles Ray Palmer and Theodore T. Munger of New Haven; the Rev. Dr. Cooper of New Britain, Conn.; Henry F. Dilliock of New York; Alfred L. Ripley of Boston and Eli Whitney of New Haven.

The following degrees were voted to members of last year's class who had their diplomas withheld in June because of some scholarship deficiency which has since been made good: Bachelor of arts, Messrs. Clegg, Easton, Granberry, Hyatt, Lyon, Packer, Roberts, Vanderbilt and Wheerel; bachelor of philosophy: Messrs. Bartlett, Hill Jelke and Olle.

George McCurdy was appointed curator of the anthropological collection in the Peabody museum. Prof. A. D. Hopkins was appointed special lecturer in entomology in Yale forest school.

Contract Soon to Be Awarded by the Little Kanawha.

PARKERSBURG, W. VA., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—President J. T. Blair of the Little Kanawha railroad was seen today by a Gazette reporter relative to the letting of the contracts for the extension of the road between Palestine and Burnsville.

"Definite action will be taken in the matter the latter part of this week," said Mr. Blair. "The work of tabulating the bids from about 30 contractors has just been completed and at the meeting to be held in St. Louis in a day or so the contracts will be let."

CLOSE PARING OF FISCAL ESTIMATES

Allegheny Finance Committee to Inspect Those Submitted by Department Heads.

The many increases in the salaries of municipal employes in Allegheny may necessitate some close estimating by the heads of the departments. At the meeting of the Allegheny committee of finance last night, John R. Hendricks moved that a committee of five be appointed to consider the appropriations as presented by the city recorder and the directors of the departments. The motion was seconded by William A. Ford.

John M. Goehring, president of common council, moved that the city controller be directed to instruct the city recorder and the directors to present their estimates, saying that after that had been done, the committee could be appointed. Mr. Hendricks' motion was adopted, after he had explained that much money was owed to the city in taxes for telegraph and telephone poles and for switch licenses, and therefore the committee ought to be appointed that it might be learned how much money from these sources was due the city. Mr. Goehring's motion was tacked on to Mr. Hendricks' and adopted.

The committee recommended favorably an ordinance submitting to the vote of the people the question of increasing the city's indebtedness $48,400 to grade, pave and curb Fleming avenue.

TRANSPORT SUMNER ENCOUNTERS TYPHOON

Arrives Safely in Port, Bringing Home Gen. Chaffee and Party.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—The transport Sumner, with Gen. Chaffee aboard, arrived tonight. Shortly after leaving Yokohama the vessel encountered a typhoon. During the height of the storm a launch was torn from its fastenings and struck with terrific force the stateroom of Mrs. Chaffee, the shock prostrating that lady, who was ill when she boarded the vessel.

Gen. Chaffee has been absent from this country for over three years. In the course of a talk he said:

"When I left Manila everything was progressing in a most satisfactory manner. I could not be more pleased with the situation. Civilization has accomplished wonders and the natives are fast recognizing the institutions of this government and meeting them with a more friendly spirit.

"I am very much pleased with the situation in the province of Samar. What was once one of the most unruly and belligerents of the provinces is now as quiet and peaceful as this city of yours.

"The natives are becoming prosperous under the industry which has been fostered there, and they have a ready market for their rice and hemp."

LORILLARD'S DAUGHTER WEDS.

South Dakota Divorce Followed by an English Alliance.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(Special.)—Mrs. William Kent of Tuxedo, N. Y., today confirmed the report that her sister, Mrs. T. Suffern Taller, had been married in London on Saturday to Cecil Baring.

Mrs. Taller obtained a Dakota divorce last summer and her engagement to Mr. Baring was reported shortly afterward, in September. Mrs. Taller went abroad and Mr. Baring soon followed.

Mrs. Taller, who was Maude Lorillard, youngest daughter of the late Pierre Lorillard, made her debut in society about 12 years ago and was soon married to T. Suffern Taller, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Taller, a famous whip and a man well known in society.

Rankin's Big Plant Again Runs.

The big plant of the American Steel and Wire Company at Rankin, which has been closed for the last month on account of a break in the machinery, was started up again last night, and the 1,300 men who have been idle have returned to work. The company was rushed with orders, and the break was a serious hindrance.

WELL WORKED UP IN NEW ENGLAND

Fisheries and Dependent Industries Furious Against Hay-Bond Treaty.

WILL FIGHT IN SENATE

They Say It Means Free Trade in Finny Products With All Canada, and Is a Blow to Glue and Shipbuilding Interests.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

BOSTON, Nov. 10.—The terms of the Hay-Bond reciprocity treaty confirm the impression that it is practically the Blaine-Bond reciprocity treaty revived. Sylvanus Smith, the old Roman of the fisheries, and without question the best posted man in the city on fisheries topics, said this morning to The Gazette correspondent:

"I have no hesitation in saying that beyond any question, this is the worst treaty that could be made for Gloucester. It proposes a complete sacrifice of all our interests, more so than any other treaty ever negotiated.

"The clause in relation to green fish, which is claimed to be beneficial to Gloucester, is really one of its worst features; and I will say right here that if this treaty is to become a law, the fishery interests would much rather prefer to have green fish come in duty free. The green fish clause is really in the interest of New Foundland.

"Gloucester's interests are sacrificed all along the line, and a determined effort will be made to defeat the ratification of the treaty."

Fred L. Davis, one of the largest fishing outfitters, said: "It practically means free trade in fish for all Canada. Nova Scotia vessels can land their fish at Newfoundland, which, when cured, can be skinned and shipped directly to the United States as boneless at one-third less than the work can be done in the United States. It practically means the wiping out of Gloucester's great boneless industry and the throwing of probably 10,000 people, who depend on the fishing industry, out of employment.

"The little town of Essex, which builds the Gloucester fishing fleet, will be wiped out as a shipbuilding industrial center. Swampscott, which builds the dories for the fleet, will be seriously affected. The cod line and cordage factories will also be hit. The great fish glue interests, with a great amount of invested capital, employing large numbers, also will be wiped out. All these businesses, the result of the fisheries, will be gradually extinguished if this treaty becomes a law."

The course of the proposed treaty in the senate will be watched with anxiety by New England people, who, just prior to the recent elections were assured by Senators Hoar and Lodge that nothing inimical to the fishing interests would be considered in the national body.

OHIO OIL COMPANY STRIKES BIG GUSHER

Well Produces 550 Barrels the First Twenty-Four Hours.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

LIMA, O., Nov. 10.—The Ohio Oil Company has the best well in the entire western field, on the Boyer farm, southwest of Ohio City. The well made 20 barrels an hour for the first 24 hours and completed the full day with a production of 550 barrels.

The big well is No. 4, but No. 3 was not far behind in productiveness, it having made 245 barrels the first 24 hours Thursday, and 150 the second day. The second well, which was completed a couple of weeks ago, placed 250 barrels to its credit the first day.

The big production of these wells is very much a surprise, as adjacent property had not been of such excellent production, and it was hardly thought the Ohio City pool would be good for more big gushers.

The Boyer farm lies west and south of Ohio City, along the Willshire township line, near the big wells drilled during the early days of the Ohio City excitement.

SCHOOL CHILD WAS RUN DOWN BY CARS

Six-Year-Old William Black Ground to Death—Craneman's Fatal Fall.

While returning from school, William P. Black, aged about six years, was run down by a Perrysville avenue car and killed at the corner of Perrysville avenue and Wilson street, Allegheny, about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The Black lad was playing in the street with a companion and did not notice the approaching car until it was too late to get to a place of safety. The car ground the little fellow under its wheels and he was horribly crushed, bruised and mangled. The child's body was removed to the morgue, where it was identified last night by his father, a brother of Deputy Coroner John P. Black.

Patrick O'Neil, aged 26 years, employed as a craneman in the Homestead Steel works, was fatally injured by falling from a crane in the plant at 6 o'clock yesterday morning and died two hours after at the Mercy hospital, where he was taken. O'Neil had just completed his turn and was in the act of descending to the ground from his crane when he accidentally slipped and fell.

When picked up he was in an unconscious condition and fatally hurt. He was hurried to the Mercy hospital, where he died shortly afterward. O'Neil was married and lived in Ninth avenue, Homestead. The coroner's jury at the inquest yesterday rendered a verdict of accidental death.

A man about 25 years old, said to be Leslie Gribel, was killed at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at Roslyn station, on the Panhandle railroad. He was standing on a box car and was knocked off by an overhead bridge, falling under the cars and being instantly killed.

SOUTH SIDE GIRL HAS DISAPPEARED

Father Refused Consent to Her Marriage and Fears Suicide.

Because her father objected to her marriage, Mary Collins, a daughter of Patrick Collins of No. 42 South Thirty-third street, left her home on Friday morning and is believed by her parents to have committed suicide. Collins is a freight conductor on the Monongahela division of the Pennsylvania railroad, and the girl, who is 20 years of age, was engaged to be married to a fireman, a fellow worker with her father.

In reporting the matter to the police yesterday, Collins said that he had objected to the girl's marriage on account of her age and had asked her to wait a few years. In response to this she is said to have intimated that she would end her life if he withheld his consent. The girl arose at 5:30 o'clock on Friday morning and prepared breakfast for her father. Shortly afterward she left the house and has not been seen since. The members of the family are brokenhearted over the occurrence, and told a reporter for The Gazette last night that they would cheerfully agree to the marriage if it would bring the girl back.

RAILROAD BILLS COME UP TONIGHT

Chairman McNeil Calls Corporations Committee to Act on Franchise Measures.

SAYS THEY WILL PASS

Wabash and One Pennsylvania Ordinance Are Slated To Go Through—Rival Roads Will Not Oppose Each Other.

The Wabash and Pennsylvania railroad ordinances, which were presented in councils several meetings ago, will be considered tonight at a special meeting of the corporations committee, which has been called for that purpose, stated last night that the ordinances would be taken up in pairs, and that one ordinance of the Wabash and one of the Pennsylvania company would be acted upon tonight.

The Wabash ordinance provides for the entrance of the new system into the city and the erection of its terminals in the Point district. The first Pennsylvania ordinance to be considered will be the bill providing for the connection of the Allegheny Valley road with the Pennsylvania below the Brilliant pumping station, and the erection of a bridge at this point to extend across the Allegheny river to connect with the West Penn tracks on the other side at Torrance station.

Rival Roads Compromise.

Chairman McNeil is authority for the statement that the Wabash and Pennsylvania companies have buried the hatchet and have agreed upon a compromise to enable them to get their ordinances through the corporations committee without opposition from either side.

Chairman McNeil expressed the opinion that both the Wabash and the Pennsylvania ordinances would pass, regardless of the objections filed to them by the Twentieth Century club and the Allegheny county society of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

These patriotic organizations, at the meeting of common council two weeks ago, presented remonstrances to giving up the Point district to railroad traffic and suggesting an elaborate subway scheme for the relief of the downtown street railway and railroad congestion.

After select council had adjourned yesterday afternoon the special committee on finance of the select branch, the "rump" committee, met and recommended favorably the ordinance transferring $40,000 from the contingent fund to the bureau of health appropriation. Director A. H. Leslie of the department of public safety, attended the meeting and asked for the transfer.

MURPHY'S SLEUTHS GET ONE SUSPECT

Pittsburgh Detectives Have Little Faith in Allegheny Arrests.

The Allegheny detectives last night arrested one suspect, who will be held pending the investigation of the Walker-Siratman safe robbery. The prisoner is J. Leoffler, who says his home is in Braddock. He was captured after an exciting chase by Detectives T. J. O'Brien and T. C. Johnston. The Pittsburgh detectives have little faith in the Allegheny sleuths, and think that the safe crackers, who had their rendezvous on the North Side, simply made their haul as a farewell to the Allegheny machine.

It is believed by the Pittsburgh detective bureau that a number of arrests may be made in Allegheny, but that the real burglars have made good their escape and will not return, since Allegheny is no longer a safe refuge. Johnston and O'Brien were casting around on Federal street, when they spied Leoffler and began "sweating" him on the street. Leoffler started to run and the detectives followed him several squares before catching their man. He was locked up on the charge of being a suspicious person.

Aged Man Disappears.

DUBOIS, PA., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—John Vasbinder, aged 75, one of the well-known citizens of the town, left his home to take a walk, on Sunday. A thorough search of the entire vicinity failed to bring any trace of him.

IS IN HANDS OF THE COMMITTEE

Window Glass Jobbers Fail to Adjust Differences That Agitate Trade.

MET MANUFACTURERS

After Joint Session of Five Hours It Was Announced That an Amicable Settlement Had Been Reached.

The National Window Glass Jobbers' association closed its conferences in the Hotel Henry after midnight last night. The session opened at 10 o'clock in the morning and the roll call was answered to by over 50 members. The demoralized condition of the window glass market, caused by jobbers shading the price list, caused the meeting to be called. It was thought when the meeting opened that it would be disrupted by a vote of the association. After a conference with the jobbers and manufacturers last night the whole matter was turned over to the executive committee of the jobbers and another meeting will be held within the next few days to settle the difference.

When the meeting of the jobbers was called to order 75 members were present. After passing several resolutions a vote was taken favoring the purchase of glass from the Federation Window Glass Company and the American Window Glass Company. The vote was 58 to 41.

A committee was appointed to meet the manufacturers at the close of the session, and for five hours they were in conference, but refused to divulge what had taken place. President W. T. Gray of the National Window Glass Jobbers' association, stated at the close of the conference that the situation had cleared off and that an amicable settlement had been reached. He said that there were some small differences, which had been referred to the executive committee, and would be settled at once.

After a discussion of several hours a peace commission was appointed and after wrangling with the question for two hours failed to agree. H. B. Van Cleve, secretary of the old Independent Glass Company, who has lately established a selling agency in Cleveland, attended the session. He controls 110 pots and is the owner of the large window glass plant at Kane, Pa. He came here to attend the session, but was not called into the conference.

THREE WERE INJURED.

Many Others Were Shaken Up in Trolley Collision in Penn Avenue.

By the collision of cars No. 12 and 35, of the Bloomfield line, at the corner of Penn avenue and Thirty-fourth street, at 7 o'clock last night, three persons were injured and both cars wrecked. The injured are:

WILLIAM BAIR, of Thirty-fourth and Carnegie streets; severe scalp wound; taken to his home.

MRS. A. SCHAFER, No. 1618 Jane street, South Side; jaw broken; taken home.

Car No. 35 ran away on the Penn avenue hill and crashed into No. 12, standing at the corner. The other passengers in both cars were badly shaken up, but not seriously hurt.

On Genuine New and Used Chickering, Steinway, Hardman, Schomacker, Behr Bros., McPhail, Haines & Co., and Others of Standard and Established Makes.

Frederick's Piano Store, 633 Smithfield Street, Crowded With Eager Buyers.

The store that can offer (genuine) Chickering, Steinway, Hardman, Schomacker and other high-standard Pianos to the public is not a store that can afford to stop half way when a bargain sale is necessary.

A bargain sale is necessary in this store now because even our six big floors are too small to hold the great stock we have contracted for for this holiday season.

We are not confronted with an accidental condition. We know exactly what we are about.

We tell you we have already received 75 beautiful new pianos, bought especially for our Christmas stocks, and have nearly twice as many more coming.

Now, we know we can sell them. We have the people with us. Twenty-five years selling pianos ought to be long enough to learn whether bold big operations will win. We have twenty-five years full of weeks and months of proof that our way does win.

Now for a big, bold stroke of business that no store in the state will be able to imitate.

WE OFFER TWO HUNDRED (200) PIANOS OF THE MAKES NAMED ABOVE, AT THE FOLLOWING DISCOUNT FROM THE REGULAR NET SELLING PRICES:

20 PER CENT ON CASH PURCHASES.
10 PER CENT ON TIME PURCHASES.

Storage would cost us less, but that is not our way. These pianos are on the road, but we will have room for them right in this big store before the cars arrive at the freight stations.

Who wants a piano?

Who will miss a chance to Save $100?

That is what this sale will enable you to do—to save $50 to $100 on new instruments that were never off the floor—never in use—not more than a few months out of the greatest factories of the world.

You know the prices of the pianos we name. Cut them down by the above discounts and see what you can save during this sale.

But that's not all. We have a number of Chickering, Steinway and Hardman pianos bought from a retiring dealer that we will sell at $150 to $300 below list price. They are new and perfect, but we bought them in a big deal recently.

Woman's Wealth is Health

Paine's Celery Compound

GIVES VITALITY, VIGOR AND STRENGTH TO DEBILITATED AND RUNDOWN WOMEN.

It is maintained by many distinguished writers that the greatness of a nation depends much upon the physical condition of its women. The general conditions which contribute to health and long life, are those which do not imply a rapid and unequal exhaustion of those powers by which life is maintained. While we assert that the women of our land stand peerless for beauty and the virtues that make them lovable, we cannot hide the fact that there are thousands in our midst who, owing to overwork, worry, household cares, and an unequal exhaustion of life power, have become weak, nervous, sleepless and debilitated.

We bring to the attention of all weary, despondent, hopeless and sickly women earth's great rescuer and health-builder, Paine's Celery Compound. Thousands of healthy women around us owe their present vigor, activity and robustness to Paine's Celery Compound. Mrs. Stephen Smith, St. Paul, Minn., tells how she was snatched from the grave; she says:

"I had a bad attack of la grippe this spring and was at death's door, and no one ever expected me to recover. I was so weak that as soon as they brought me out of one faint I was in another. I could not take any nourishment, and doctors' medicines did me no good. A friend advised my husband to get me a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, which he did. He had no faith in it. The second day after taking the Compound, I began to get real hungry and took an interest in things. I had everything that money and loving care could supply, and with that and Paine's Celery Compound, I am now doing my own work, while three months ago I was almost in the grave. I know that I owe my health and strength to Paine's Celery Compound, and shall always recommend it."

MONOPOLY ASKS FOR A FRANCHISE

Presents Ordinance for Extension of East End Traction Lines.

FRANCHISE PERPETUAL

New Road to Connect Butler Street With Negley Avenue via Highland Park—Diamond Street Improvement Repealed.

An ordinance in the interest of the street railway monopoly was presented in select council yesterday afternoon by Samuel J. Wainwright, Jr., of the Eighteenth ward, asking for an extension of the Butler street car line around Highland park to the East End, connecting with the Negley avenue line.

The ordinance grants the Morningside Street Railway Company, which represents the Pittsburgh Railways Company, the right to construct the connecting line and operate it for the term of the company's charter. It offers no compensation to the city. Councilman Wainwright stated that the grant provided in the ordinance was practically perpetual. He stated that the new line would be a great benefit to the people of the East End, those residing at the end of Butler street, in Aspinwall, Etna, Sharpsburg and other localities, who are now compelled to go clear around by way of Thirty-fourth street in going to and from the East End and Butler street.

Route of New Line.

The route prescribed in the ordinance is as follows: Beginning on Negley avenue, at its intersection with Stanton avenue, thence along Stanton avenue to Chislett street, along Chislett street to a point between Greenwood and Baker streets, thence along Jancey street to Baker street, along Baker street, as relocated, to Butler street, there connecting with the tracks on Butler street and also with the tracks on the approach to the new Highland bridge, and returning by the same route to the place of beginning.

Also beginning on Stanton avenue, at its intersection with Chislett street, along Stanton avenue to Jancey street, along Jancey street and its extension to the before mentioned new street, to be opened from Chislett street to Jancey street, and returning by the same route to the place of beginning.

Also beginning on Bryant street and its extension to Jancey street, and returning by the same route to the place of beginning.

The ordinance was referred to the corporations committee without being read or discussed.

Park Site Adopted.

The report of the joint committee on the Carnegie polytechnic school site and the resolution accompanying it, which indorses the Schenley park property near the Murdock street entrance, was adopted by a vote of 16 to 2. J. J. Booth of the Fourteenth ward objected to the resolution and the report, because it did not state specifically the property which it was proposed to buy in lieu of the ground to be taken for the school site. The adoption of the report and the resolution authorizes the presidents of the two branches to obtain, if possible, the permission of Mrs. Schenley to the use of the park land for the school, and to also secure the necessary changes in her deed of the park to the city.

The following new measures were presented: An ordinance for the letting of a contract for a combination chemical engine and hose wagon, for the Twenty-first ward, cost, $3,000; second-size steam fire engine for the East End, cost, $6,400; third-size steam fire engine, cost, $5,750, for the Twentieth ward; an ordinance and petition for the opening of Warden street, from Park way to McCartney street, Thirty-sixth ward;; a resolution requesting the finance committee to place $2,500 in the appropriation ordinance for 1903 for board walks in the Thirty-eighth ward.

Peter Donahue, whose seat in select council is contested, received a large bunch of carnations from admirers in the Fourth ward, which he distributed among members of council and friends.

A Harmonious Session.

Common council had an unusually harmonious session last night, and as a result considerable business of a routine nature was transacted. Among the new bills presented was a resolution requesting the finance committee to set aside $2,000 from the regular appropriations of 1903 for the repaving of Thirteenth street from the Pittsburgh Junction railroad southwardly.

M. G. Leslie presented an ordinance authorizing the sale by auction of a lot owned by the city at Second avenue and Brady street, and the application of the proceeds of the sale to the erection of an engine house at Center avenue and DeVilliers street, Thirteenth ward. A resolution was also introduced asking for a provision of $10,000 in the appropriation ordinance of next year for the purchase of fire hydrants.

The ordinance repealing the ordinance appropriating $18,000 from the bond fund for the erection of an engine house in the Thirty-second ward, and providing for the application of $6,000 from the fire bureau fund for the same, was passed finally; also the ordinance appropriating $18,000 from the bond fund for the erection of a diphtheretic pavilion at the municipal hospital.

The ordinance providing for the construction of a new system of water mains in the downtown district, which has been pending for some time, was passed finally, after a speech in its favor by Dr. J. P. Shaw, of the Sixth ward. The ordinance appropriates $215,000 out of next year's appropriations for the purpose.

Chris Beckert, Jr., of the Fourteenth ward presented a resolution requesting the city recorder to furnish councils with itemized estimates of the expenses of the several departments under his control for the fiscal year beginning February 1, 1903. The resolution was adopted.

Bills Were Illegal.

Bills for extra work on a number of contracts were presented by the public works committee. D. F. Crawford stated that the bills had been contracted in violation of the Wallace act, which requires all city work to be advertised and let by bids. Upon the motion of M. G. Leslie, seconded by W. H. Stevenson, the claims were referred to the public works department for explanation.

Bills from the Pittsburgh and Allegheny Telephone Company were sent back to the department of public works for correction.

The automobile ordinance, regulating the speed of self-propelling machines on public highways, came up again and again failed to pass for lack of a legal majority.

The Diamond street widening project received a jolt. The ordinance repealing the ordinance for this improvement was passed finally without a dissenting vote. There was no discussion over the measure.

An ordinance requiring the erection and maintenance of 4-inch stand-pipes in buildings 100 feet in height, and in buildings hereafter to be erected, not over 150 feet and not less than 85 feet in height, was laid over again for inquiry. An amendment to the measure, providing that the stand-pipes shall be installed by April 1, 1903, was adopted.

HYPNOTISM CAUSE OF SLEEP OF DEATH

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Details concerning the autopsy performed on the body of Nellie Corcoran, who died Saturday after a trance of 20 days, are interpreted as confirming the theory that her condition was due to hysteria. No sign of disease was found in any organ. The physicians believe the girl's original sleep was caused by self-hypnotism.

TO HELP PARENTS FIND THEIR BOYS

The Rev. John A. Jayne of Allegheny Will Carry on the Work.

HE HAS TRIED IT BEFORE

Effort Will Be Made to Assist Those Who Have Missing Relatives, Supposedly in Pittsburgh—No Charge Asked.

The Rev. John A. Jayne, pastor of the Observatory Hill Christian church, has inaugurated a system of finding lost boys in Greater Pittsburgh. Dr. Jayne has privately been carrying on this work on a small scale for over a year, and his efforts to reunite parents and sons have proved so successful that he was encouraged to extend the work.

The system is carried on entirely by Dr. Jayne, and all communications are confidential. Another feature of it is that there is no monetary expense attached to help of this kind. Dr. Jayne does the work as a labor of love, and no charge is made and none will be taken. Dr. Jayne outlined his idea to a Gazette reporter last night.

"For over a year," he said, "I have been instrumental in restoring lost or misguided youths to their parents. Frequently a letter would reach me from a mother in some country town, telling me that her boy was in Pittsburgh, had not written home for many weeks, and that she was worried. I made it my duty to look the boy up and frequently found him leading a dissipated life and on the brink of despair. All he needed was a kind word of encouragement. This he always received.

"Again, I have had occasion to find young men stranded in this city, and have helped them to secure positions. There are countless young men in Pittsburgh who have come here from out of town. Without the restraining influences of home life, they frequently sink into a degraded life. It is my purpose to find these young men and help them.

"My present plan is to advertise extensively in all the religious papers throughout the country that I am ready to help fathers, mothers, sisters, brothers and friends who have lost boys supposedly in Pittsburgh. I want information as to appearance and a photograph if possible. If it can be learned, I want to know where the young man last lived. If he came to Pittsburgh. Then I will look him up and either persuade him to return home or help him in some way, morally or financially.

"All I desire is to have those in trouble communicate with me at my residence, No. 1 Chester avenue, Allegheny, and I will do all I can to help them without cost. All communications will be treated confidentially. My experience in Pittsburgh and Allegheny in this work leads me to believe that I can materially assist hundreds of the young men in the two cities. This will not be a detective agency or anything of the kind, but it is simply work that I will take up in connection with my regular church duties."

RUN DOWN BY TRAINS.

Two Men Mangled on Railroad Tracks Near Pittsburgh.

Thomas S. Brown, 22 years old, had both his legs taken off yesterday afternoon by being run over by a Pittsburgh & Lake Erie railroad passenger train at Stoops ferry. He was taken to the West Penn hospital. It is thought his injuries will result fatally.

John Nixon, a Scotchman, 58 years old, of 2101 Penn avenue, met with a serious accident last evening at Wilmerding. He had got off a Pennsylvania railroad train at that station and in some unknown manner fell in under the wheels just as the train was leaving the station. He was taken to the West Penn hospital, where it was found necessary to amputate his right arm.

Gems of Winter Millinery--- New York Horse Show Effects.

A Gorgeous Exhibit Throughout the Week.

Whimsical as it may seem, the New York Horse Show sets the Winter Fashions in Millinery.

Paris is called upon for her most artistic pieces, and she usually sends revelations that set women agog.

In this general opening we present some of the most refined examples brought over for this great event which is attended by many Pittsburg women.

And we have copies of these handsome Horse Show Hats so admirable for assimilation that one will be puzzled to know Paris from Pittsburg.

In the French Room we will exhibit today new Paris models from Carlier, Alphonsine, Georgette, Carolina Raboux, Virot and others.

A very special feature of this general opening of Winter Millinery will be the inexpensive Hats and Toques—many of them being copies of the French pattern Hats and worth very much more than the modest prices that we ask for them.

Short Ends of Trimmings.

The extensive business of this department has left us with many short lengths of fine Trimming—pieces ranging from 3-4 yard to 3 1-2 yards.

Today we propose clearing them out at the round price of 50c a yard.

In the collection will be found Persian Bands, Appliques, Spangles, Galloons and fine Crochets. All this season's styles.

50c Buckles for 25c each.

These are on sale at the Button Counter, along main aisle from main entrance.

The Bric-a-Brac Department.

No other place in the whole store, as a matter of fact in the Greater City or in the United States, so interesting to early Christmas shoppers as this very elaborate Bric-a-Brac section of the 3d floor. No other place in the whole of Western Pennsylvania where variety is so great, the wares so exclusive, or the prices for these exclusive wares so small.

New things to interest both novices and connoisseurs arriving almost daily.

Today we invite attention to the beautiful Girandoles with very rich sparkling prisms—some in the old colonial styles with columns of brass and bases of marble, others of crystal.

We underprice them as follows:

In crystal—$8.50, $18, $20 and up to $150 each.
In bronze—$9, $10, $15, $17.50 each, and up to $100 a pair.

Imported Umbrellas.

$6 by easy stages to $20.

Twice each year we bring over the latest novelties in Umbrellas—principally from London. Our Holiday importation is now ready and comprises Umbrellas both for men and women.

Many different styles of fancy handles, as well as the severely plain, yet quite rich, natural sticks. These foreign Umbrellas are not only noted for the novelty of their handles, but are also entitled to the credit of wearing the longest of any Umbrellas made.

Many of the styles we bring over, in fact we may say all, are exclusive with us, as in quite a number of instances there is only one of a kind.

NOTE—We import separate handles so that any who prefers to do so can have Umbrellas mounted to their own notion. For something novelly odd we commend these separate handles.

All Umbrellas selected now, if requested, will be held until such time as delivery is desired at Christmas. And for those who desire to take advantage of the separate handles and have them mounted, we would request them to leave orders now. Work of this class is piling up with unusual briskness.

Special sale today of women's taffeta Umbrellas—fancy handles of gold, silver, ivory, pearl, dresden or trimmed natural wood. An Umbrella worthy in every way to bring $2, but for quick selling we will say for today $1.45.

New Features in Brass Beds.

The very latest down-to-date pattern will put the buyer, if he or she has ever been there, in mind of the land o' cakes.

It shows distinctly on the end fittings the Scotch thistle, and instead of knobs, the end posts are surmounted with the Glengarrie cap or the Tam O'Shanter. These posts are two inches in diameter. Very best construction and finish.

Other new ideas, in high grade Brass Beds, just introduced from the maker, are

LOUIS XVI. STYLES, EMPIRE STYLES, ROLLED TOP STYLES, SCROLL STYLES, GOOSE-NECK STYLES.

Of course we always carry the correct plain lines—curved and straight ends.

A very special number is a Brass Bed with solid tubes, 1 and 1½-inch posts, T bill connections, cast brass goose-neck corners—double or single size. This Bed is easily worth $45, but we are selling it for the special price of $37.50.

Utility Boxes.

These are on sale in the Bric-a-Brac Department of the 3d floor, and are made of solid heavy wood, with a hinged lid.

They are all covered with old hammered brass.

Prices $20 and $30 each.

PENN AND FIFTH.

ISAAC B. BROWN LEADS TICKET

His Plurality About 51,000 Larger Than What Pennypacker Received.

W. M BROWN DOES WELL

His Margin About Splits the Difference Between Those of the Candidates for Governor and Secretary of Internal Affairs.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

HARRISBURG, PA., Nov. 10.—Official and unofficial returns of the election from 48 counties of Pennsylvania indicate a plurality for Judge Pennypacker for governor in the whole state of about 123,000, which is 36,000 less than that obtained by William M. Brown, Republican candidate for lieutenant governor, and 51,000 below the plurality received by Isaac B. Brown, Republican candidate for secretary of internal affairs.

Pattison leads his Democratic colleagues in nearly every county from which the vote has been reported, while Pennypacker falls behind that of his associates on the Republican ticket in almost the same proportion. In the 48 counties indicated the plurality of the Republican candidate for governor is 95,967.

Philadelphia's vote is included in this result, but not that of Allegheny. The vote in these counties aggregates 737,775, of which Pennypacker received 416,871 and Pattison 320,904. William M. Brown's vote is 424,688; Guthrie's, 301,922; Isaac B. Brown's, 428,454, and Nolan's, 294,120. Pennypacker's vote falls short of that of William M. Brown nearly 8,000, and Pattison's exceeds that of Guthrie over 19,000.

Isaac B. Brown leads Pennypacker in votes nearly 12,000, and in plurality, over 38,000. Pattison's vote is ahead of that of Nolan nearly 27,000. The pluralities of the several Republican candidates are: Pennypacker, 95,967; William M. Brown, 123,086; Isaac B. Brown, 134,324.

The counties not represented in the foregoing figures will increase the pluralities of the Republican candidates for lieutenant governor and secretary of internal affairs. If the same ratio of difference should be maintained as in the counties which have reported their votes will be about as follows: William M. Brown, 153,000; Isaac B. Brown, 174,000.

The total vote will not vary much from 1,050,000, an increase of nearly 70,000 over that of 1898, when William A. Stone was chosen governor. Approximately 20,000 will be divided between the Prohibition and Socialist state candidates. Pennypacker will have about 561,500 votes, and Pattison 488,500, the latter about 20,000 less than he received in 1890 and 80,000 more than were obtained by George A. Jenks, the Democratic candidate for governor four years ago.

Pennypacker's vote will exceed that of Stone about 85,000, and the entire poll will be over 7 per cent greater than that of four years ago. The increase in 1894 and 1898, as compared with the elections in 1890 and 1894, respectively, was less than 3 per cent.

ISLE OF PINES' PERIL.

American Citizens There See Ruin Ahead If Cuba Is to Control and Appeal to President.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10.—A delegation consisting of F. M. Pearcy, J. H. H. Randall, T. J. Keenan and J. H. Hill, all citizens of the United States living in the Isle of Pines, and some former Pittsburghers, was introduced today to the president by Senator Cullom. The president was informed that more than half of the island is owned by American citizens.

As a result of the turning over of the Isle of Pines to the republic of Cuba for administrative purposes, things are said by the delegation to be in a chaotic state. There is not a notary public or a judicial officer on the island. The delegation is informed that the republic of Cuba claims the Isle of Pines and purposes to establish prisons, penal colonies and a large hospital there. Such a course, if pursued, the delegation indicated to the president, would wipe out every dollar invested in the island. President Roosevelt promised to consider the subject.

President Roosevelt has asked the secretary of war to make a report on the situation.

T. J. Keenan of Pittsburgh, president of the American Residents and Property Owners' association of the island, said the condition of affairs on the island is so bad that United States Minister Squiers had virtually advised a delegation of American Pine Islanders, who recently called on him in Havana, to take matters into their own hands and establish a provisional government.

Two New Water Companies Were Organized Yesterday.

Two water companies were organized yesterday that will furnish water for a large section of Lawrence county. The district to be covered includes the new industrial town of Cascaskee, the Belmont and West Pittsburgh plans, East Moravia and West Moravia.

The companies are organized under the names of the Cascaskee Water Company of North Beaver and the Cascaskee Water Company of Taylor township, and will work under one management. The officers of both are John B. Brown, president; John P. Graham, vice president; James E. Mooney, treasurer, and Stuart Thompson, secretary. These four, with Hon. W. D. Wallace, form the board of directors.

Hamilton's Splendid Array of Christmas Pianos Attracts Many Customers

Partly because times are better and partly, no doubt, because more and more people learning every year of the advantages obtained by purchasing at this old reliable music house, Hamilton's are selling more pianos at this season than at any corresponding period in the history of the establishment. Another noteworthy thing is that the unusually large proportion of the orders now being received are for instruments of the highest grade, in fact, many of them are for A. B. Chase pianos—both grands and uprights—and it is a well-known fact that the A. B. Chase pianos are the best in the world. Orders for pianos for Christmas delivery are unusually numerous at this time. We anticipated the demand for pianos and other musical instruments to be used as Christmas gifts by making our display more complete than ever before. Among the A. B. Chase grands and uprights are some of the most artistic piano creations ever designed. There are hand-painted cases, plain and white mahogany cases, some in beautifully enameled woods and many others the beauty of which no description possible could give an adequate idea.

It is seldom that the opportunity occurs to view such a magnificent collection of pianos. And those who appreciate the advantage of a large selection will make it a point to come at once.

The choice Christmas offerings are not confined to the high-priced instruments. There are pianos here to suit every taste. There is the famous J. & C. Fischer piano, whose brilliantly vibrant tone has made it popular everywhere; the sweetly sympathetic Schumann, favorite in many homes throughout the whole country; the well-known Smith & Barnes and Hamilton pianos, justly popular among lovers of good music.

Prices of pianos here range from $200 up. And for those who prefer it, easy terms of payment can be arranged.

Our new consignment of Angelus piano players is attracting many pleased buyers. As they were especially designed for the Christmas trade, the cases are of exceptional beauty. Music lovers people everywhere have come to realize the wonderful possibilities of the Angelus piano player, and people of wealth and culture now regard them as indispensable. What could be more appropriate as a Christmas gift?

PERSONALS.

Passengers hurrying through the Union station yesterday to catch accommodation trains, glanced curiously at a man who sat in one of the seats holding a cage containing two "hawks," as somebody called them. The birds were wild looking creatures, with hooked beaks, but they willingly ate pieces of meat which the man cautiously handed to them through the bars of the cage. They were as big as small chickens. "These are not hawks," said the man to a person who was interested enough to question him about the odd-looking fowl. "They are the true falcon, the only kind of true falcon known east of the Rocky mountains. I have just come up from Arkansas and brought these birds along. They are quite common there." The man said he was Frederick R. Harkness and that he has a 200-acre farm midway between Cambridge Springs, Pa., and Lake Le Boeuf, historic from the French and Indian war. "Last year," he continued, "I happened to see the article on falconry in the encyclopedia. I read it with interest, and then I got books on the subject, until I finally concluded that I would become a falconer myself. I captured a few sparrow hawks and started in to train them, and believing I would meet with success, I caught some chicken hawks, females, of course, for the female of the hawk is much larger and stronger than the male. Hawks are good to hunt for quail and other low-flying birds, but I wanted some falcons, and in Arkansas I came across them. They fly much higher than hawks and will engage a heron or a wild goose or swan in its highest flights. I have built me a mews, where I train the hawks. I have all the paraphernalia, the jesses, the gyves, the gloves and the hoods with which to blind the birds before setting them forth on their flight. I have not yet flown them in the open, but those that I have will pounce on a pigeon or a sparrow flying in the mews and mark it down with unerring aim. Each of my birds at home is an eyas, the falconry term for a hawk or falcon captured just after leaving the nest; both these falcons are full grown, and while harder to train, are bolder and stronger than the eyas."

James E. Roderick of Hazleton, chief of the bureau of mines and mine inspection, is at the Monongahela house. He will attend the examination for mine inspectors to be held here today. Mr. Roderick said the mines in the anthracite region were in fair condition, except a few in the Schuylkill district, and, in view of the fact that the mines had been idle for more than five months and no repair work had been done during the time, the number of fatal accidents was relatively small. The mines of the Independent operators were still idle, he said, because the miners had refused to sign a contract, not to molest the non-union miners who might remain at work. "The contract amounts to nothing," said Mr. Roderick, "and it is foolish for the men to refuse to sign, and just as foolish for the operators to insist that they accept the contract. The operators and miners are hanging out on a technicality. The Independent operators are A. Markle & Co., Cox Brothers & Co., A. Pardee & Co. and J. S. Wentz."

The members of the Pittsburgh delegation to the American Federation of Labor's convention in New Orleans left last night on the Baltimore & Ohio. Among them were T. H. Flinn, general organizer of the federation; W. J. Kelly of the Iron City Central Labor council, and Edward McKay of the United Mine Workers. T. J. Shaffer and John Chapelle of the Amalgamated association deserted earlier in the day. Between Pittsburgh and Cincinnati the delegation was to pick up other delegates going to the convention.

The Allegheny college, Meadville, football team, which will play W. U. P. here tomorrow, will be the guests of George S. Ward while in Pittsburgh. Mr. Ward's son is attending the college. The program of entertainment for the young collegians includes trolley rides, a banquet and a theater party.

"The bubble of speculation has turned, pricked by the substantial banking interests of the country," remarked Cyrus Peirce of the Philadelphia brokerage firm of Cyrus Peirce & Co., last night, on his way to Louisville, Ky. "Speculation was overdone and the money interest produced a stiffer money market by curtailing loans."

John P. White of the White Glass Company, Glassboro, N. J., was a passenger to Chicago on the limited last night.

ALL THE BENEFITS THIS STORE REAPS ARE SHARED WITH YOU!

Simultaneously with the news of "wonderful Joyce purchases" comes the announcement of grand bargains to our patrons. It's our close adherence to this method that has made us the mightiest success from a mercantile standpoint in this entire section of the country.

It would be an utter impossibility to give a detailed account of the multitude of bargains in Ladies' Fall and Winter Made-Up Garments, Millinery and Dress Goods. It would be just as hard to tell of the money we'll save you on the small furnishings, Shoes, Children's Wear, etc. When our buyers came across this wonderful sacrifice purchase of Suits, Skirts, Jackets, Waists, etc., they knew they would crowd us unmercifully for the Holiday business if they accepted the offer—but they simply couldn't resist—Now our only process is to SELL THE SAME WAY WE BOUGHT if we want to make room for the carloads of Xmas novelties, etc., scheduled for this week.

The biggest inducements are on top—so if you want to take your pick of $20,000 worth of correct goods at a clean sacrifice of 50 per cent put all home duties aside and come at once to Joyce's.

Where's the woman in Allegheny County who'll willingly stay away from this Wonderful Trade Event In the Ladies' Made-Up Garment Department

There has never been a period in the entire annals of retailing when prices were so much in favor of the economists! We could talk all day and then not give you the slightest conception of the grand inducements—You get the garments the swell dressers have indorsed at prices fully 50 per cent beneath the prices they were manufactured to sell for! If you want to measure the tremendous saving our prices give you just take a look at the values uptown dealers are making such a fuss about—you'll understand then why we are rushed here every hour of the day!

HARRY S. CORNISH ACCUSED OF MURDER

Ex-Gov. Black Charges Him With Crime Laid at Door of Molineux.

ARGUMENT IS BEGUN

Dramatic and Fervent Appeal Is Made in Behalf of Young Clubman—Case Will Go to Jury Early This Afternoon.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The fate of Roland B. Molineux will be determined tomorrow. When court adjourned this evening Justice Lambert announced that he would allow Assistant District Attorney Osborne but two hours and a half more to finish summing up, which means that the court will deliver its charge and the case will go to the jury during the afternoon.

The feature of the day was the denunciation by ex-Gov. Black, counsel for the defense, of Harry B. Cornish as the murderer of Mrs. Adams, instead of Molineux.

Cornish, who was in court, appeared to be little concerned by Mr. Black's line of argument. Once or twice when his name was mentioned, he laughed aloud.

The Crime and the Motive.

"There was a crime and there was a motive," said Mr. Black, "and the motive points to Harry S. Cornish."

He recited from the records the story of Cornish's divorce, his meeting with Mrs. Rogers, then separated from her husband, and her late divorce.

"Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Roger's mother, was a good woman," Mr. Black said. "Do you think she looked with complaisance on the conditions that prevailed?

"There is motive, the great consuming motive force for all things. The motive Cornish had against the life of Mrs. Adams, compared to the motive Molineux had against the life of Cornish, was as the volcano of Martinique to the lapping of waves against the statue of liberty in our own harbor."

Mr. Black called attention to the evidence given that the purchaser of the bottle holder in which the poison was sent, said he wanted the holder to match the silver on a lady's toilet table, and from that he argued that the purchaser knew the pattern of Mrs. Rogers' silver.

Evidence Made in Advance.

"Cornish took that dirty little bottle home," he continued, "but when did he take it? He did not take it home when he got it. He waited until he had arranged for five men to identify it in case of need. He knew Mrs. Adams was subject to headaches, and 12 hours after the bromo reached the flat Mrs. Adams had taken it. She was gone. There was nothing now to stand in the way of that unlimited passion which burns cities and destroys empires."

Mr. Black argued from the testimony of the chemical experts who analyzed the contents of the glass from which Mrs. Adams drank, that Cornish lied when he said he drank a "good swallow" of the mixture, and quoted from Prof. Witthaus to prove that half an inch depth of the mixture in the glass would have killed anyone who took it.

"Cornish never tasted that liquid," Mr. Black said.

At the afternoon session Mr. Black traced Cornish's actions after Mrs. Adams' death.

Wanted to Pose.

"Were his actions those of an honest man?" he asked. "Why did he not go home and help Mrs. Rogers in her trouble? No, he wanted to pose. He showed himself to his chemist friend, Yokum, and then went to bed in Yokum's room at the club. Then he called in five friends to tell them how sick he was. What else did he do? He stayed away from the Adams flat until after the funeral. He never dared to face that dead woman."

Ex-Gov. Black declared the case against Cornish far stronger than the case against Molineux.

"Every fact in the case," he said, "points to Cornish, and nothing except the testimony of the handwriting experts points to Molineux."

Mr. Black closed at 3:25, having spoken 3 hours and 55 minutes.

Assistant District Attorney Osborne, in opening for the prosecution, ridiculed the theory of the counsel for the defense that the death of Mrs. Adams was the result of a deliberate design by Cornish, and argued that it would be absurd to suppose that Cornish would go down town to mail a package to himself.

Clues Against Himself.

"If Gov. Black's assumptions are true," Mr. Osborne said, "Cornish, without any necessity for doing so, handed over to the authorities the only means of tracing

EX-GOV. FRANK S. BLACK.
The Able Lawyer Who Has Conducted the Defense of Roland B. Molineux.

the crime to him and his associates, the poison wrapper, the poison and the silver holder. Is that a fair reasoning?"

Referring to the statement made by Mr. Black that Cornish did not attend the funeral of Mrs. Adams, and dare not face the dead woman, Mr. Osborne read from the minutes to show that Cornish visited the flat before Mrs. Adams' body was removed, and that ex-Gov. Black had refused to let him tell on the witness stand why he was absent from the funeral.

Then counsel contradicted ex-Gov. Black's contention that Cornish was shamming sick, and read the evidence of the doctors who attended Cornish in the Knickerbocker Athletic club, who said they found him suffering from an irritant poison.

The insinuation that a motive for the murder of Mrs. Adams could be found in Cornish's feelings for Mrs. Rogers, the prosecuting attorney said was not worthy of consideration. All the evidence, he said, showed that Mrs. Adams and Cornish were on the best of terms, and he added that there was nothing against Mrs. Rogers' character except the insinuations of the defendant's lawyer.

Motive Is Found.

Coming to the question of motive Mr. Osborne went on to show that Molineux had attempted to injure Cornish even after Molineux had left the club, and cited as evidence of the enduring nature of Molineux's ill will the Scheffler letters, written nearly a year after his resignation from the Knickerbocker Athletic club, and the letter about Harpster, Cornish's friend, sent to Stearns & Co.

"We find," he went on, "that Molineux had the motive, and we find that he had or did have the poison. He was experimenting in the manufacture of ships' paint, and one of the uses of cyanide of mercury is for the manufacture of ship paint."

At 6 o'clock Justice Lambert announced a suspension of the proceedings until tomorrow morning.

Mr. Osborne said it would take him three hours to finish his address, but Justice Lambert said he would allow him only two and a half hours. That will take him to the time for adjourning for lunch and the afternoon session will be started with the charge of Justice Lambert.

DENIED BY CHAPELLE

That Prelate Contradicts the Stories That He Has Been Trying to Undermine Ireland.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—(Special.)—In a cable dispatch today from Rome, the Brooklyn Eagle says:

"Archbishop Chapelle today authorized the Eagle correspondent to say that the stories that the vatican authorities have been displeased with his course here are without foundation. The stories which are denied said that Archbishop Chapelle has not been prudent enough to conceal the true object of his presence in Rome, namely, to destroy the popularity and favor Archbishop Ireland enjoys in Rome, especially since the success of the Taft conference. The story continued that Archbishop Chapelle is supported by the Spanish cardinal, Vives y Tuto, and the Jesuit, Steinhuber, but principally by Cardinal Martinelli, who tries to make his late position at Washington give his anti-Ireland attitude more weight. Both the vatican and the propaganda are displeased by such maneuvers, the services rendered by Archbishop Ireland to church and state being highly appreciated."

GERMAN NAVY TO HAVE AN AMERICAN SQUADRON

Several Cruisers to Be Assigned to the Pacific Coast.

[ASSOCIATED PRESS CABLE TO THE GAZETTE.]

BERLIN, Nov. 10.—The imperial marine ministry has decided to assign several cruisers to duty on the Pacific coast of North and South America, when vessels now being completed become available. The Western American squadron will be permanently established, not for any specific purpose, but in accordance with general naval dispositions. Like the Eastern American squadron, it will not have a base. Vessels will be sent to various ports according to the requirements of the moment.

The creation of permanent stations in American waters, as well as elsewhere in the world, is in consequence of the expanding of the navy. The marine authorities recognize more clearly than ever the convenience which it would be if Germany owned land bases, but they perceive that there is no prospect of securing any such territorial privileges in the western hemisphere, and will, naturally, in time of peace, rely on refitting in American docks and ports.

Police Captains in Trouble.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 10.—A sensation was created in police circles today, when Police Director Dunn demanded the resignation of five captains of police for disobedience of instructions in connection with an order issued on election day to keep saloons closed. In many cases saloons were open.

ULTIMATUM ISSUED AGAINST BLACKLIST

Panther Creek Valley Miners Demand Reinstatement of Barred Union Officials.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

TAMAQUA, PA., Nov. 10.—At a meeting of the employes of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation Company a committee was appointed to await upon W. D. Zehner, the superintendent, and inform him that unless the 218 officials of the various local unions in the Panther Creek valley who, it is claimed, have been blacklisted, are reinstated in their old positions before the end of the week, a general strike will be ordered.

The committee called at Mr. Zehner's office today, but were informed that he is not at home.

The committee will endeavor to see the official before the end of the week, so as to present its report at a meeting to be held next Sunday at which President Mitchell will be present.

CANNON'S HARD FIGHT.

He Entertains Illinois Colleagues and They Declare for Him for the Speakership.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—(Special.)—Republican congressmen and congressmen-elect from Illinois met at the Union League club in Chicago today, the guests of Congressman Joseph G. Cannon. They were the guests of "Uncle Joe," who had invited them to discuss plans to further his candidacy for the speakership. Among the congressmen present were Reeves, Hopkins, Graff and Smith and Congressmen-elect Rodenberg, Snapp and Fuller.

The caucus decided to support the candidacy of Cannon. This formal action was more for the effect it will have on the general situation as the entire Republican membership of the Illinois delegation is for Cannon. He will have the 27 votes of his state delegation as a starter.

The caucus figured that the candidate would have the sport of Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Michigan and more than likely Ohio. It is believed by the supporters of Cannon that the talk of Babcock of Wisconsin as a candidate, is started as an effort to prevent a solid line-up of the middle west in the Cannon column.

MELLOR'S—THE OLDEST PIANO HOUSE IN PITTSBURGH

When it comes to the purchasing of a piano some persons consider price only. Others are impressed only by the price. But conservative customers weigh every factor before purchasing, and attach as much importance to the selection of the instrument to meet their peculiar needs as they do to anything else that enters into the consideration of the purchase.

It is a mistake to assume that one need spend a large sum of money for a piano simply because some well-known person has done so. The price of a piano, like that of every other thing that pertains to artistic workmanship, is increased in proportion as the embellishment is elaborate.

Now, the point of the foregoing paragraphs is that anyone can buy at Mellor's the exact piano required. The price will be found satisfactory. Mellor's have a special pride in the diversity of their stock, which at all times comprises such a variety as to meet the requirements of all possible cases.

It may be that you wish the most elegant piano made. If so, you can secure it at Mellor's. Or probably you wish a very moderate-priced instrument for the use of children. You can also get that here—and all the intermediate grades are included in this remarkable stock. So why not have a look at these pianos?

Mellor's is the oldest music house in Pittsburgh, and the record made is such as to win the confidence of the entire community. "Mellor" not only stands for melody—it also stands for all that is best in musical merchandise.

FOURTEEN PAGES.

To get the proper point of view with regard to the municipal budget the matter should be considered just as if it were the business of some private corporation. Talk about ignoring ring legacies and letting floating indebtedness go over to the future is not helpful. There is no economy in a hold back and cramp policy. The situation must be fairly faced and means provided to meet all obligations and to maintain efficient service to the public. An arbitrary decrease of the tax rate, such as is recommended by Controller Larkin, does not seem judicious in view of the fact that even with a 15-mill rate a large deficiency has accumulated, and the power of his own office to control the situation may not be so great as he imagines. According to the charter the problem is one which rests primarily upon the recorder and the city councils.

True economy for Pittsburgh lies not so much in curtailing expenditures as in developing sources of revenue. The chief delinquency of our municipal government has been in the waste of municipal resources. The city has had such a rapid growth that the cost of the ordinary functions of government has been necessarily augmented, but a proper set-off would be the value of the franchises created by municipal growth. At the present moment miles of Fifth avenue in the East End district are torn up by the construction of conduits for electric light wires. The resulting inconveniences are endless must be occasionally indorsed for the sake of progress, but it is simply an outrage that corporations should be thus allowed to use the public streets for their business without paying for the privilege. The city of Pittsburgh ought to be receiving at last half a million dollars a year from the various corporations using the city streets for their business.

We do not believe there is another city in the country, save Pittsburgh, where such franchises are given away. An application for a franchise for an electric street railway is pending in Manila, and we notice in the newspaper discussion there that this far-off community is more alert than Pittsburgh in regard to the value of such concessions. The Manila Freedom calls attention to the fact that recently in Shanghai, China, an electric street railway company has agreed to pay a royalty of 150 pounds sterling per year per mile of double track and 100 pounds for single track mileage, for a franchise limited to 21 years. Cars seating six first-class passengers and forty second-class passengers are to be used, with rate of fare six cents and two and one-half cents respectively. Here in Pittsburgh companies charging a five-cent fare get the use of hundreds of miles of street trackage without paying anything. To scrimp public service and pare down appropriations while such a waste of municipal resources is going on is like tightening the spigot while a flood is pouring out of the bung hole.

A gratifying indication of the growth of common sense principles in the conduct of municipal business is the agreement reached in favor of an enlargement of the municipal hospital. Parsimony in such matters is really a costly extravagance. Unless persons afflicted with contagious disease are promptly isolated, fresh centers of contagion are set up, entailing an increasing burden of expense. Apart from the question of economy it is due to common humanity that the city should provide hospital accommodations for afflicted citizens. The regular hospitals will not take in cases of contagious disease, so that unless the city has a place for them the only alternative is a house quarantine. A man living in lodgings—who may have an attack of measles—is in dire straits at present, owing to the smallpox scare. No lodging house will keep him and there is really no place where he can go. There ought to be a municipal hospital to which any case of contagious disease can be removed.

Nagging and scrimping will never achieve real economy or make the government of Pittsburgh what it ought to be. The situation calls for broad, executive ability, which can conceive and execute comprehensive plans. The industrial development of Pittsburgh is going on at a rate that baffles appreciation, although it is taking place under our eyes, and if capable municipal administration is provided the growth of the city will exceed all estimates. No more costly blunder could be made than to impoverish and restrict municipal convenience by poor and niggardly administration. To utilize properly the forces of development and make the city the abode of comfort and refinement, as well as a place where wealth is made, there must be sufficient outlay to sustain civic progress. We need street improvements, park improvements, bridge improvements, water improvements, better police service, better fire service, and all these things cost money. The purport of all this is a big, strong man for recorder and a party support that will secure the co-operation of councils. As a step toward this end the faction war in the Republican party must cease. There are gratifying evidences that a sentiment in favor of union is spreading among Republican leaders on both sides.

There is nothing to be gained from continual warfare. Enough has been accomplished to prove that citizens, generally, have not approved of past methods of administration and that they will heartily indorse a progressive program such as has been outlined. In fact the public spirit of the people of Pittsburgh is not one whit inferior to that of any other American city. It has found expression at home and abroad. There is abundant civic pride to be developed. With a big, strong man for recorder, wielding the comprehensive powers of that office, all else may be added to the municipality that could be reasonably desired, especially a man supported by a vast majority of citizens and representing dominant civic and party policies.

OHIO RIVER IMPROVEMENT.

At 10 o'clock this morning the annual convention of the Ohio River Improvement association will meet at Parkersburg. The Pittsburgh delegates departed last evening and will constitute an important part of the gathering. But it is expected the entire Ohio valley will be represented by leading business men from every quarter, the fact being appreciated that permanent navigation is not merely a matter of interest to rivermen. It is a work of vast importance to every citizen of the Ohio and Mississippi water sheds, and to many more beyond those confines.

Undoubtedly this convention will be the largest and most influential ever held by the association. It will be attended by many members of congress, who will have a vote upon the proposition when it comes before that body, and it will take measures by which the sentiments of the millions of citizens affected will be brought to the attention of members of congress who do not attend. In short, it will be a practical gathering to forward one of the greatest schemes of internal improvement ever begun in this country.

Readers of The Gazette are familiar with the facts in the case, for The Gazette has ever been foremost among the advocates of this important public work. They know the enormous tonnage that passes down the river in its present state, and they understand how the interests of shippers and consumers hang upon the chance floods that come at irregular intervals. They appreciate the enormous additional tonnage that would find an outlet by that channel if it was available at all times, instead of its usefulness being confined to periodical and uncertain floods. No one knows better than Gazette readers the inadequacy of the railroads to care for the traffic that has grown by leaps and bounds until its immensity fairly paralyzes the energies of the rail system—a condition that can be at least partly relieved by the improvement of the Ohio.

In addition to all this there is a new trade ready to grow in connection with the Panama canal. The canal is now a certainty, being merely a question of the time necessary to complete negotiations and construction. The Ohio and Mississippi will become potential factors in the equation of costs and revenues. An improved Ohio will mean an increase in tolls for the American canal and an increased activity of American industry. Essential as the isthmian canal is to the new commercial life of the nation, it will be of no more practical advantage to the American people than the improvement of the Ohio river at a cost comparatively small.

The Gazette wishes the Parkersburg meeting the abundant success its worthy object deserves. The action it takes will be earnestly supported by the communities along the Monongahela, Allegheny and Ohio rivers, and, we hope, by the populations tributary to the Mississippi, Missouri, the Gulf of Mexico and the Pacific coast, all of which are almost equally and directly interested. It is a good work to push forward and one that congress cannot treat too liberally. Greater sums have been spent upon other rivers and upon harbors of far less utility to the people and of advantage to far smaller numbers. It is time now for the Ohio to get consideration and to be let into its own.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IS RIGHT.

Control of the great corporations engaged in interstate commerce by the national government is opposed by the Textile Record. It asserts there are grave "perils that must accompany any attempt to permit the federal government, by constitutional amendment or otherwise, to obtain control of the great business interests of this country under pretense of making war on the so-called trusts." Moreover, the Record avers it is "quite sure the president should not have one particle more power than he now has to meddle with the business of commercial or manufacturing corporations," and it doubts if "congress should be permitted to exercise or to extend its authority in that direction."

In lieu of such control the Record relies upon the powers of the states and by way of argument for unrestrained control by the corporations, it cites the policy of the United States Steel Corporation in holding prices steady. This is a curious exhibition of naive shrewdness. State control would be sufficient if the states would control, but everybody knows they do not, because the corporations are able to concentrate their influence upon one of them and thereby obtain just such legislation as they desire. They cannot do that with the nation, for it is too big to handle in that way. The policy of the United States Steel Corporation, cited as argument, is almost unique in corporate history. That corporation has also adopted the policy of taking the public into its confidence in larger measure than any other. Prior to the organization of the United States Steel Corporation the Standard Oil Company had made a record trying to prevent inflation of prices and the alternative depression, and in making public statements of certain branches of its operations.

There is no reason why either of the gigantic combinations named should oppose federal control. Laws never injure those who do not violate them. The controlling spirit of the Standard Oil Company, testifying before the industrial commission, suggested national control of the big corporations and absolute publicity as the best means for exercising such control. President Roosevelt's recommendations have gone no farther than this. Attorney General Knox in his careful consideration of the subject of congressional power went no farther. There are many corporations engaged in secret practices, however, which will not go so far. They want no control that may prohibit secret rates, inflation by fictitious capital, unjust profits secured by squeezing producers of raw material, labor employed in production and consumers. It is such as these the Textile Record speaks for. They want neither publicity nor control. They neither set themselves against boom prices for finished products nor in favor of fair wages for labor.

Hold back as these corporations may, however, the people will be disposed to follow President Roosevelt in a policy of reasonable control. The president has not declared "war on the so-called trusts." He has advocated regulation and publicity, distinctly disavowing any intention to do anything that might prove hurtful to honest industry or commerce. Wise business men and managers of corporations will support him in that policy. Unless they do and that remedy is applied the popular demand that something shall be done will swing over to the Democratic idea to "smash the trusts" and to destroy the protective system. President Roosevelt stands for the rational consideration of both questions apart. There is no intimate connection between the corporate combinations and the tariff. The one is not dependent upon the other. Neither should be destroyed. The corporations need careful regulation and the tariff needs revision as to schedules without invalidating the protective principle.

The president and congress may be trusted to not use their powers injudiciously. Corporate managers cannot be trusted to the same extent. The class includes many types of men. They are forever beset by temptation to secure an additional profit by a shady method. For their own protection, quite as much as for the protection of the public, it is essential that their operations shall be made public; that the law shall clearly draw the lines beyond which they may not go. In former days, when business was in the hands of individuals, there were natural correctives for wrong methods. But there is nothing strong enough to control the huge combinations of the present day, except the national government, the embodiment of the sovereign people, and it is its duty to exercise that power wisely.

MEN TO OFFICER THE WAR SHIPS.

A navy without officers is no navy, and Uncle Sam's navy is rapidly getting into that condition. Our war ships will be no more numerous than they ought to be when the vessels now under contract or provided for by congress are completed, but there are not enough officers in the service to handle the ships now afloat. Foreign navies provide an average of 36 officers for vessels similar to our battleships, but while we make 17 officers do the work we are not able to provide even that number. When it is considered what vast interests depend on the effectiveness of our navy the deficiency appears truly deplorable.

The United States government has the money and is getting the ships, but lacks the men. Admiral Taylor, chief of the bureau of navigation, does not deal with the subject of enlisted men, but says that while the navy at present requires 1,600 officers, it is 577 short of the number. The completion of war vessels in the next four years, taking into account graduations from the naval academy, will bring the deficiency at the end of that time to above a thousand, not allowing for officers required for auxiliaries in the event of war. The situation is serious enough, but would be more serious were the evil not curable. It could have been avoided had congress exercised sufficient forethought. It fortunately remains within the power of the legislators to provide the needed officers at a future date, and they ought to lose no more time in doing it. The commissioned ranks of the navy are recruited from the graduates of the naval academy at Annapolis. It follows that if there be a sufficient number of entries there will be a sufficient number of graduates to officer all the war ships. But a mistaken economy or something else has limited the entries, so the naval service suffers and will continue to suffer until Annapolis gives a proper supply. To this end congress must open the doors wider for the host of young men who would be glad of an opportunity to make careers in their country's sea service. The complaint of a shortage of officers is of long standing. The needs of the navy became so great during the war with Spain that it was necessary to graduate the senior class from the naval academy in advance of its time, and the need has since been so much greater that the term of the cadets (or midshipmen, as they are now called,) has been shortened by one year. Congress at its last session made a step in the right direction, but not a long enough step, in providing for the appointment of an increased number of midshipmen, and the continued need being so apparent provision should be made for the additional increase that Admiral Taylor recommends and urges.

It is through our naval power that we will be able to hold our own. It was our war ships that dealt Spain the hardest blows. It is our war ships we must rely on, as has been pointed out by President Roosevelt, to compel and maintain the respect of other nations for the Monroe doctrine. But our finest war ships will be no better than old junk if not properly officered and manned. A fighting machine amounts to nothing if not intelligently directed and handled. "The shots that count are the shots that hit." Unless congress wakes up the navy will be without men to do the shooting, or without trained officers to train the men who do the shooting, which amounts to the same thing. But we expect congress to wake up.

The experience which Canada is having with the Doukhobors will make American communities chary hereafter of receiving en masse any of the queer sects which abound in Russia. The Russian government is tolerant of every form of religious belief, and when a religious sect clashes with the law it is because of some civic incompatibility, and not because of its religious faith as such. The Russian government is averse to proselyting, and any propaganda seeking religious recruits is discountenanced, but Mohammedans, Buddhists and Christians of every variety can live according to their own beliefs without interference so long as they do not molest other people's religious practices.

Now the campaign is over, will our Democratic friends have the candor to admit that the sworn evidence taken at Philadelphia exonerates Senator Quay from any intention to violate the civil service law? Could they go the whole length of justice and admit that so far from desiring to violate the law, the evidence is conclusive that Senator Quay was anxious the law should not be violated? Such are the facts, at any rate. Col. Quay had no knowledge of the letter soliciting contributions until it had been sent out, and hastened to follow it with the letter asking recipients to forget it.

Pennsylvania will have the largest Republican delegation in the Fifty-eighth congress. It will be larger than that in the Fifty-seventh. It should have the speaker of the house and Mr. Dalzell is thoroughly equipped for the place.

Allegheny river improvement is all right, but there would be no improvement for the community in taking over river traffic up to the sky and obstructing the wharves by mountainous approaches.

From the vigorous way in which political frauds are charged in both Hawaii and Porto Rico, it would seem that national assimilation is progressing beyond even the most sanguine hopes.

Ohio river improvement will have possession of Parkersburg and Blennerhasset island today and tomorrow. May it have complete possession of congress later.

That Rhode Island Democratic candidate who squeezed in ought to hold a mass meeting with himself and claim all the honors lying around loose.

Speaker Henderson has cleared up a considerable amount of anxiety by declaring that he has no idea of giving up until he has to

HOPE OF HALING ONE TO JUSTICE

Reformers Believe They Have One Ex-Police Captain They Can Convict.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
Herald Building, Herald Square,
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.

At last New York may get a police captain into the penitentiary. It has been the aim of reformers for nearly a decade, and now there is an ex-captain charged with accepting bribes from wrong-doers, with evidence enough to convict him, if the district attorney is sure of his position. Capt. Moynihan was charged with improper conduct some months ago and was "broke" forthwith. Ever since he was dropped from the force there has been a careful working up of evidence against him, and now a man comes forward who swears he was the go-between when Moynihan was levying tribute on keepers of illegal resorts, and who offers to bring corroborative witnesses. The ex-captain growls that it is all a lie. All policemen under fire do that. There is general satisfaction among those who have been trying to fasten the crime of bribe-taking and blackmailing on someone "higher up," because they think they have him this time. Since the days of the Lexow investigation there has been a strong effort to bring home to a captain the crookedness that everybody knows was rather the rule than the exception in most of the police precincts of Manhattan, to say nothing of other boroughs in what is now Greater New York. While the Lexow investigation was in progress and John W. Goff, as attorney for the committee, was electrifying the city with the fierceness and acumen of his questioning of trembling policemen, and putting himself on the road to the comfortable position of recorder at a salary of $7,000 a month, which he now holds, the efforts of all the reformers, including Mr. Goff, were directed toward getting one of the captains convicted. One or two had narrow escapes at that time, but all managed to get out. A dozen captains have been dropped from the force, but none has been convicted. Perhaps Capt. Moynihan may be able to clear himself. If he does, it is not too strong a statement that it will be a disappointment to this city at large.

Low Not Strong Enough for His Place.

Mayor Low is not likely to be a candidate for re-election. That is the general opinion, and considering how Tammany swept Greater New York for Coler last week, it looks as if a stronger candidate than the present amiable mayor would be needed to insure a Republican victory. It is generally believed, by people of all shades of political opinion, that Mayor Low's administration has not been vigorous enough for the situation, and that the Democratic sweep in Greater New York was to some extent an expression of that sentiment. At all events, it is more than likely that at the end of his two years Mayor Low will be glad to step down and out. It is said, on what seems good authority, that he has thus expressed himself when he was elected.

Illustrious Men to Participate.

A week's festivity in connection with the dedication of New York's new chamber of commerce will begin tomorrow. The actual dedication will take place tomorrow at noon, with ex-President Cleveland as the orator of the day, with President Roosevelt and many other distinguished men present; but there will be a dinner at the Waldorf-Astoria, with Prince Henry of Pless representing the German emperor and other foreign dignitaries participating, and such other doings as the committee of arrangements may think advisable. There will be several Pittsburghers at tomorrow's function.

Croker May Follow His Dogs Home.

Richard Croker is in England, but one of his $5,000 bulldogs, named for his owner, arrived in New York today on the Minnetonka of the Atlantic Transport line. The square-jawed beauty will be placed in the Croker kennels here. It is news to many persons that Richard Croker maintains kennels near New York, and even with the fact vouched for, one may well wonder why he sends his dogs across the Atlantic when they must be so very useful and ornamental at Wantage. Can it be that Mr. Croker intends soon to follow his dogs to the home of the Tiger and instigate mixed howls and yowls at the Wigwam in East Fourteenth street?

Aldermen Trim Their Sails.

Tammany seems to have its head turned by its large vote in Greater New York on election day. The newspaper that is one of its organs here announces this evening that fusion Democrats in the board of aldermen mean to vote with the Tammany members hereafter. Three fusionists are mentioned as about to take the step, and if they do Tammany will have a majority of one on the board. Considering the sapiency of most resolutions by the average open-city Republican, it will be rather creditable to the Republicans in it to have a minority.

A Stock Exchange Spectacle.

There was a large crowd of spectators at the stock exchange, as soon as it became noised about that there was a sensational break in prices. The visitors' gallery of the exchange is always attractive to the ordinary sightseer, as well as to men who are themselves in the Wall street vortex. Amalgamated Copper went down to 58½, and other stocks were slugged hard by the bears, but the watchers in the gallery took little note of such details. What interested them was the spectacle of excited men crowding around the different selling posts and howling as only a stock exchange mob can when prices are going to smash and everyone is trying to get from under. It was a great day in Wall street.

Deferred Cold Wave Surely Coming.

New York is still on the lookout for that cold wave. It was threatened first on Friday, and people here have been shivering in anticipation ever since. This was one of the warmest days we have had for a month and overcoats have been a pest; but the prophets at Washington say the norther will be here tomorrow, and if they keep on long enough they are bound to hit it at last, considering the time of year.

Nearing a Verdict on Molineux.

The thrilling question in New York tonight is: "Will Molineux be found guilty tomorrow, or will he be a free man?" The tremendous speech of ex-Gov. Black for the defense has made a profound impression, and although it is allowed that Osborne, for the prosecution, has answered it with all the skill at his command, and has given the jury something to think about, the odds are regarded as much in favor of Molineux. What will be done about Cornish, if the jury should acquit Molineux, is discussed to some degree; but few persons suppose there will be any serious attempt to fasten the crime upon him, with all the expense such proceedings would involve. Thousands of New Yorkers believe, with Molineux, that he will be a free man before tomorrow evening.

Dog Nuisance in Flats.

Now that a resolution forbidding the keeping of dogs in apartment houses has been presented in the board of aldermen, there are many flat-dwellers expressing their dislike of dogs in what have been called "human hives." It is said, and cogently, that if 30 families in a flat house each keep two dogs, the house would be one vast dog kennel. It is established that there are many houses harboring 50 families apiece. Now, if it can be shown that each family keeps two dogs there will be a clear chain of evidence to guide the city fathers. Aside from all this, dogs in flat houses are great nuisances, and the aldermen will do a popular thing if they turn the rascals out.

Platt's Finger Still in the Pie.

There will be a weighty conference at the Fifth Avenue hotel tomorrow. It will not take place in Amen corner, although the participants may sit there for a few minutes in preliminary session. Afterwards, however, they will go to an upper room, which will be guaranteed to be reporter-proof, and there they will lay out a plan of administration to be carried out at Albany. The conferees will be Gov. Odell, Senator Platt and George W. Dunn, chairman of the Republican state committee. While the governor is sure to do as he pleases in his second administration, just as he has in his first, he is quite willing to listen to the opinions of anyone that has any opinions at all. Besides, it will do Senator Platt good to think he has a finger in the Albany pie, even if he is not able to roll out any pastry with it.

Sentiment Dies With the Old.

One of those mysterious houses which are so numerous in New York, although widely scattered, where eccentric persons have lived hermit-like for many years, has been sold. It is at the corner of Seventh avenue and Fifteenth street, being part of nearly a whole block from 70 to 80 on the avenue. Three spinster sisters used to live in the corner house. They managed their own affairs, never spoke to neighbors and were reputed to be enormously rich. Two of them died in the 80's, within two years of each other, but the third survived until July 23 last, leaving an estate worth nearly $1,000,000. Her will was found in a locked settee in a hat-rack, together with $17,000 in bank notes and bank books of many savings banks showing deposits of $177,000 altogether. The heirs named in the will were all dead, and the heirs-at-law, common-place people who have an eye to business, got all the property. Now the old-fashioned block is to be brushed off the earth and a great modern apartment house, as excruciatingly convenient and ugly as most of them are, will take its place. There is little room for sentiment in New York real estate nowadays.

Danger from Drunken Truck Drivers.

Among the perils that threaten one daily in the streets of New York, are heavy trucks and wagons driven by careless or drunken men. A case in point this afternoon: A Miss Mary Gray, who lives in a swell neighborhood near Central park west, was riding in her carriage in Fifth avenue, when she was suddenly thrust from her seat by the pole of a brewery wagon. The driver of the wagon was drunk, the reins had dropped from his hands, and he had allowed the tongue of his great wagon to crash through the back of the carriage. It caught Miss Gray under the arm, throwing her upon the floor, while the carriage was smashed to flinders. The young woman was helped out by her coachman, bruised, but glad to find herself alive. The brewery driver was too drunk to talk when arraigned in court and will have to answer tomorrow. This incident will give a strong impetus to the movement to keep all vehicles, except carriages, automobiles and stages off Fifth avenue.

The Law on Sunday Games.

Sunday baseball is an institution in Harlem, but one must not pay to see the game. That is the law. Sabbath-breaking roustists not in playing a worldly game, but in receiving money for allowing others to witness it. So ruled a magistrate today. Two young men were charged with taking pay from spectators of a Sunday ball game, and it was only by swearing that any money received was voluntary contributions, that they escaped fine or imprisonment. There is another delicate point, by the way, characteristic of the twists of municipal law in this metropolis. Money can be given voluntarily without being illegal, but there must not be any fixed charge. How would such law and logic strike Pittsburgh?

Devery Interested in a Case.

"Big Bill" Devery appeared in the corridor of the courthouse this afternoon while the case of Capt. Moynihan was under consideration in special sessions. Everyone supposed that Devery was there to take a hand in the Moynihan case, but it was no so. Asked why he was there, Devery winked and answered: "Oh, I'm just looking over the building here to see whether it suits me. If it does, I'll buy it." Then, perhaps, realizing that it would not suit to be regarded as interested in Moynihan, he added, more seriously: "I'm just here in a little excise case; that's all." Devery is a very staid citizen in these post-election days.

Coal Not Over-Abundant.

Scotch anthracite to the amount of 3,000 tons arrived today from Glasgow. There is still a scarcity of coal in New York, however, and when the threatened cold wave comes there will be a hustle, indeed. The prices quoted are $7.50 to $9 a ton, with little on the market. As a suggestion of the situation, it may be said that one dealer has 2,500 orders of from one to 20 tons each on file in his office. That is on the dealer's own word. There are many other dealers in the same shape, so that it can be seen that coal, while it may not be actually absent altogether, is certainly not plentiful. The warm weather has prevented actual suffering, but no one can tell what is in store. GEORGE C. JENKS.

The Free Trade Delusion.

From the New York Mail and Express.

After reading the election figures no misguided free trader can longer delude himself with the belief that the people, East or West, want another exhibition of Democratic incapacity in government, no anti-imperialist can hope to align the sentiment of the country with the scheming purposes of bolgand Filipinos. Protection has been unqualifiedly indorsed by the people, and the Republican party has a new commission to revise the tariff in the manner and at the time that it deems best for the industrial interests of the country. It will undoubtedly do so. As for "imperialism"—well, so much of it as there has ever been in our relations with the Filipinos will be continued, with the approval of our own countrymen and to the satisfaction of all others.

Indiana's Place in Politics.

From the Indianapolis News.

It looks as though Indiana had left the category of doubtful states and become reliably Republican. The large growth of manufacturing industries in the last few years and the influx of people from the east have probably had much to do with this. Besides there has been the distracted and demoralized condition of the Democratic party. A few years ago the Democrats of this state had many leaders of national recognition. Now they have only men in active strife for leadership like Shirley and Taggart and Mores, whom even the Democrats of the state are not a unit in commending and following.

Stalwart Republicanism.

From the Boston Journal.

Massachusetts is still stalwart in its Republicanism. The most strenuous Democratic campaign since William E. Russell was last elected governor, in 1892, has failed to shake the grip of the long-dominant party on the government of the commonwealth. Lieut.-Gov. Bates wins a plurality which in any year before 1894 would have been reckoned a large one. Out of 14 Bay State congressmen all but four are Republicans, and one of the four Democrats has avowed himself a protectionist.

All this is in an "off year"—the year midway between presidential elections, when a reverse to the majority party has come to be expected almost as a matter of course in the pendulum-swing of national politics. The coal strike, the crants, the high prices of many necessaries of life—such things as these have conspired to make the situation one of peculiar difficulty to the Republicans. Moreover, there is now no foreign war to appeal as with a bugle-blast to the instinctive loyalty of the nation, and to make support of the national government an obligation of fervent patriotism. That the Republican party in Massachusetts should have come through such a crisis so well is vivid proof of the vitality of the organization and the strength of its basic principles.

HAS A PASSION FOR HOUSEWORK

Philadelphia Produces the Long Expected New Man, But He Is in Trouble.

The "new man" has arrived. The alleged funny writers have been prophesying him for a long time. He was to have been the logical consequence of woman's emancipation, but, sad to relate, he is not a success, says the Philadelphia North American. Woman doesn't like him; at least one woman doesn't, and she is his wife, which has an important bearing on the question.

Warren Hoff is the "new man." His wife is Mrs. Anna Hoff. Both are young, scarcely more than 21, and they live in Manayunk. The evidence in the case is Mrs. Hoff's. She told Magistrate Rochersperger that Warren had a ladylike passion for cooking meals, making beds and sweeping floors.

She did not mind this so much, but he objected to doing any other work. She thought he ought to be the breadwinner of the family. Possibly it was this notion that induced her to smear him all over with dough and flour the other day. Warren said she had done this. "I was just going to a new job I got," he added, "and, of course, I couldn't go."

Mrs. Hoff admitted the smearing, but said it was because he had taken money from her. Then her husband complained that she had varied the punishment by throwing coffee at him as he sat at table, and tossing his clothes out of the window.

"And all the time, judge," he pitifully pleaded, "all the time I was making the beds, cooking the meals and sweeping the floors."

"Yes," interposed Mrs. Hoff, "and that's all you ever do. Why don't you support me instead of letting your mother do it?"

The magistrate saw nothing to do in the premises but to hold Hoff in $400 bail to answer in court.

THE KING OF DUDES.

"I have been on the road for a good many years," said Ernest Goodwille, a commercial traveler, to a representative of the Milwaukee Sentinel, "but in all my travels I can truthfully say I have never met a better fellow than Frank E. Jones. Frank is known as the king of dudes, and he utilizes five trunks in transporting his wearing apparel. I would not undertake to say how many hats and pairs of shoes he carries with him, but I know that his wardrobe consists of 42 fancy vests and 18 suits of clothes. Most people labor under the impression that these are furnished him gratis by various establishments for the purpose of advertising, but with the exception of the hats I do not believe this is true. I have known him intimately for a number of years, and have never heard him recommend any particular tailor or any particular brand of shoes.

"Frank has a rival in Waldere Kirk of New York, another commercial traveler, but I think the palm must be conceded to the former. Jones freely admits at all times the weakness for dress, but seriously dislikes to be known as, what common expression has it, a 'dude,' and this he emphatically emphasizes. He is a thoroughly good fellow, a man among men and wishes to be known as such. I was stopping at the same hotel with him in Louisville a few years ago and he was interviewed right and left by newspaper reporters. By and by he became the talk of the town, and wherever one would go the 'king of dudes' was being discussed.

"We took a stroll through the town one night and on stepping in a buffet heard Frank severely scored by two or three young men at the bar in the most vituperative fashion. After listening for a while Jones stepped up to the fellows and said:

"'Boys, will you have a drink on me?'

"Every one of them accepted the invitation and immediately asked their host his opinion of the king of dudes. Frank replied that he thought him a pretty nice sort of chap. This immediately brought forth a volley of protests and some of the fellows said they would not be seen on the street with him. Jones dried his lips with the bar towel and started to move away.

SHIRAS WINS OVER GRAHAM

Citizen Candidate Gets Seat in Congress by Majority of Eighteen.

WILL NOT BE A CONTEST

Figures Show That the Defeated Congressman Depended Upon Ford and Esler to Pull Him Through.

George Shiras III. has been elected to congress in the Twenty-ninth district, defeating Congressman William H. Graham by 18 votes out of a total of almost 30,000. The official count was completed yesterday. Mr. Graham accepts the result, and says that there will be no contest.

There was a large crowd in the court room when the board convened to complete the count in the district. This contest was the only one undecided and great interest was manifested. Neither Shiras nor Graham was in the room when the count was finished.

Shiras had 14,553 and Graham 14,535 votes. Shiras' majority in Allegheny was 1,001 and in the boroughs and townships Graham had a lead of 983. The determining of this contest gives the Citizens a victory in each of the four congressional districts.

Graham Will Not Contest.

Mr. Graham has issued this statement concerning his fight and the result:

In the first place I would state that I want it thoroughly understood that I have the most implicit confidence in the judges who sat as the returning board, and the result of the polling of almost 29,000 votes in the district defeats me by only 18 votes. It has been a long, hard fight, and I have had to bear the brunt of practically the whole fight, as head of the ticket in this district. All kinds of statements and allegations have been made which were utterly false and misleading, and intended to influence and excite prejudice against me personally. But, notwithstanding this, the returns show that I ran ahead of the ticket in the district.

As to my future course, information has come to me from various effects as to the illegalities practiced by parties representing the opposition, which upon investigation might change the result very materially, and the vote being so close it is hard for me to tell at this time just what my future action will be. I will say, however, that I am a Republican and believe in majority rule, even though that majority be smaller than the official count in this case shows. Had I been successful and the returning board had shown a balance in my favor, I would have expected Mr. Shiras to abide by the result. My feelings now are against all contests.

I desire to publicly and heartily all the good, loyal friends who stood by me in this fight, and the result shows that my friends are legion throughout the district, and that, though many of my associates on the ticket therein shown have gone down to defeat, their efforts almost brought victory to me.

Graham Depended on Others.

Mr. Shiras is well pleased with the result, having been confident that the official count would show a majority in his favor. He had the hardest fight of any man on the Citizen ticket. It was necessary for him to overcome a majority of 1,000.

"Wherever the fight was made along the lines laid down in this contest," said he, "I won.

"My majority in Allegheny was over 1,000. Down the river my lead was 450. I started up the Allegheny with a majority of 1,450. There I had great obstacles to overcome. Thomas J. Ford was battling to defeat W. S. Woods for senator and knew that to win he had to overcome a majority of 2,500 and do it in the up-river end of the Twenty-ninth congressional district. Ford made a great fight, and he carried Graham along with him. In the Tarentum district James M. Esler was fighting for a seat in the house, backed by men like Henry Breckenridge. Graham benefited by the results of their labors. It was by the efforts of others that he made the showing that he did.

"The only places where Graham gained was in some of the back townships of the up-river country. He was strong there because the voters were not so well informed of the nature of the fight and because of favors he had done for his constituents. I was the only Citizen congressional candidate who had a congressman for an opponent, and had more to overcome on this account."

FIRE DOES $8,000 DAMAGE.

Notion Store in Wylie Avenue Burned for Three Hours.

Fire broke out in the store of Harris Oppenheim, in Wylie avenue, near Tunnel street, yesterday morning and burned for three hours. The damage will amount to $8,000, mostly by water. The fire started in the cellar and communicated to a storeroom above, occupied by Mr. Oppenheim as a wholesale and retail drygoods and notion store.

After hard work for three hours, during which time it looked as if the entire block would go, the fire was subdued. The building is a three-story brick. The stock was totally destroyed, but is covered by insurance.

BUTCHERS STILL WINNING.

Two More Firms Signed the Scale Yesterday.

The striking butchers seem to be still winning their fight for better wages. Two more firms—L. & J. Schlelein, Pittsburgh market, and Simon Matheis, No. 2216 Fifth avenue—signed the scale yesterday.

At the meeting in Moorhead's hall yesterday morning it was reported that, while the drivers and cellar men did not all respond to the movement for a sympathetic strike, all but a few would be out today, and the firms who still refused to sign are tied up now.

BOGUS CHECK USED BY SLICK SWINDLER

Police Hear Complaints from Many Victims of Sharper's Neat Trick.

For three weeks numerous complaints have been received by the police from merchants that they have been swindled on forged checks. The latest report was made last evening when Homer F. Hanson, manager of the Little Shoe store at No. 1 Frankstown avenue, notified the detective bureau he had lost $45.

Shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon a telephone message was received by Hanson asking him to send a pair of No. 8 men's patent leather shoes to the residence of Attorney J. Scott Ferguson at the corner of Fifth and Shady avenues. The order was accompanied by a request to send $45 in money with the shoes to cash a $50 check.

An office boy was sent with shoes and cash to the Ferguson residence. At the Ferguson steps the boy was met by a man who was just coming out of the vestibule.

He asked the lad if he had the shoes and change, and when told he had, the swindler gave the lad a check for $50 and told him the shoes were to be delivered to a house at the corner of Lathrop street and Fifth avenue.

The boy gave up his money and took the shoes to the address given, but was told no one had ordered any shoes and went back to the store. Manager Hanson took the check to the Keystone bank, on which it was drawn, and was informed that C. A. Summers, the maker, did not have an account there. The check was made payable to the order of C. B. Calkins and indorsed by that name. The boy was unable to give any description of the swindler save that he was a tall man with black hair and a black mustache.

Shortly after noon yesterday the swindler called up Graff & Neiman's jewelry store in Sixth street and asked that a number of children's jewelry trinkets, to the value of $10, be sent to No. 6017 Fifth avenue. A request for $40 in change accompanied the order to cash a $50 check. The errand boy was instructed to deliver the goods and tell the purchaser his credit was good. The boy was intercepted and when the swindler learned he did not have any money the lad was told to return the goods to the firm and state that he always paid cash.

Last week Mrs. E. A. Williams of Penn avenue was swindled out of $15 in the same manner, and another Penn avenue merchant lost the same amount. The crook has a mania for working shoe stores and tried his game in a Smithfield street store a few days ago.

PROPER TO GO SLOW ON WIRELESS TELEGRAPHY

Admiral Bradford Thinks the Government Should Control the Coast Stations.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10.—Government control of all wireless telegraph stations along the coasts of the United States is recommended by Rear Admiral Bradford, chief of the bureau of equipment, in his annual report. Foreign governments, it is pointed out, are exercising careful supervision over the location of wireless stations within their waters.

Although other naval powers are far in advance of the United States in the installation of wireless telegraph appliances on board naval ships, Rear Admiral Bradford does not think any ground has been lost by the United States in pursuing a conservative policy in the adoption of some particular system. Many vessels are now ready for the installation of wireless apparatus and others are being prepared. No satisfactory results have yet been obtained by officers in charge of the tests of the various systems, and it is proposed to purchase other instruments for trial before a selection is made.

Rear Admiral Bradford reports that, so far as he is aware, the Commercial Pacific Cable Company has signified no intention of following the government requirements for building a cable, as specified by the president.

Admiral Bradford says that owing to the lack of naval coal depots the fleet narrowly escaped being left without coal last summer as a result of the strike. He adds:

"Should there be a general strike of bituminous coal miners or employes of railroads carrying coal to tidewater or in transportation lines generally, the ships of the navy would at present be helpless."

To overcome this danger it is recommended that large stocks of coal be kept on hand.

The most crying need of the navy, according to Admiral Taylor, chief of the bureau of navigation, is more officers to man our warships.

Gen. William Crozier, chief of the bureau of ordnance, in his annual report, says the improved musket has been completed and tried with very satisfactory results, the various changes not only improving the weapon but cheapening and accelerating the production.

DISCHARGED MEN PLACED.

Detectives Get New Places—One Political Removal That Did Not Operate.

Thomas Malloy, one of the deposed detectives, is given a clerkship in Director Leslie's office, and it is stated on good authority that ex-Detective Harry Jones and William Shore will be taken care of again by the city. It is given out that ex-Detectives Charles McGovern and William McElroy will be left out in the cold.

McGovern declares there will be an explosion under the feet of Supt. Demmel unless there is "something doing" in the detective bureau by Wednesday.

W. E. Manchester, assistant engineer in the Brilliant pumping station, was discharged yesterday by Director McCandless for working for the Citizens' ticket last Tuesday. Manchester is a resident of the Nineteenth ward. The other workmen at the Brilliant pumping station signed a paper, declaring their intention of quitting if Manchester were not reinstated at once. This threat brought Director McCandless to terms, and he announced at noon that he had decided not to remove Manchester.

The discharge of William Kramer, clerk in the Schenley park office, was another political removal made yesterday by Director McCandless.

KNOCKED DOWN ASHORE; RECOVERED AFLOAT

Strange Trick Played on Watchman John Costello by Three Thieves.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

FREEPORT, PA., Nov. 10.—Jack Costello, the night watchman at Guckenheimer's distillery, was knocked unconscious by robbers last night and when he recovered his senses he was in a skiff, floating down the middle of the Allegheny river.

While Costello was walking near the river bank two men spoke to him. They attracted his attention till a third man struck him from behind, and he was beaten into unconsciousness. The thieves took his money and watch and then placed him in his own skiff, which was moored near.

Costello floated nearly two miles. It took him some time to get his bearings when he came to on the dark river, but he soon discovered that he was near the bridge at Garver ferry. He pulled ashore, dragged his boat into the bushes and walked painfully home.

OVERSEERS ARE NUMEROUS.

Men Break Ground for State Capitol Under Critical Eyes.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 10.—(Special.)—Work on the excavations of the new capitol began in earnest today under the critical eyes of a self-appointed and entirely unofficial building commission, which sat on a sun-bathed bench all day and watched with close attention the work of men who are receiving $1.25 per day.

The man who handled the plow had the hardest job of any in breaking up the packed earth for the men with picks and shovels. It wasn't an ordinary piece of plowing, and if the furrows fell short of the mathematical problem of the experienced farmer, the value of the work wasn't the least bit impaired. A large number of cars is in commission and the work will be pushed rapidly while the weather is favorable.

TWO HELD FOR MURDER.

Young Men Charged With Killing Citizen of Charleston, W. Va.

CHARLESTON, W. VA., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—The coroner's jury, after spending a week investigating the murder of W. O. Davis, who was found in an alley robbed and his skull crushed, on Sunday morning, Nov. 2, has returned a verdict that he came to his death at the hands of Kenna Russell and Frank Christy.

A special grand jury will be called. Immediate action is demanded, as threats of mob law have been prevalent ever since the murder. The accused are young men. This is Russell's second charge of murder.

THREE MURDER INDICTMENTS.

Strikers Held for Killing an Anthracite Miner.

SCRANTON, PA., Nov. 10.—True bills were returned today against Harry Simrauth, Thomas Pristosch and Harry Shubah for the murder of James Winston at Grassy Island, September 25 last. The trio were strikers and Winston was working at the Grassy Island colliery during the strike. A crowd set upon Winston as he was bound for work and clubbed him to death.

The defendants, with two others, fled from the scene and took a night train at a country station for New York, where they were arrested the next day. The two others were released by the grand jury.

Found a New Intoxicant.

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—A jury today decided that "pomona," a beverage manufactured in Pittsburgh and sold largely in Westmoreland county, is intoxicating and convicted Martin Pfiester of Jeannette of illegal liquor selling. Pfiester admitted on the stand that he had sold pomona without a special license to minors and on Sunday, but he claims that the drink was not intoxicating. Expert testimony proved that the drink contained alcohol. Sentence was suspended on condition that he pay the costs and discontinue the sale of pomona.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Digests what you eat.

We would like to call your attention to the following letter:

Dear Sirs:—I have been suffering from dyspepsia for 21 years. Whenever I would take a strong diet I would bloat up in the stomach. I would suffer great pains in the head and stomach and would be obliged to take to my bed and remain sometimes for a day and night. I would be unable to attend to my household duties at all. I tried home physicians, but they failed to do me any good. Nothing did me any good until last winter, when some one advised my husband to get for me a bottle of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE, which he did. I used several bottles of it and I am happy to say I can eat any kind of strong diet I please. I can sleep well at night and I feel like another person altogether. I cannot give Kodol Dyspepsia Cure too much praise, and I will highly recommend it to all sufferers of dyspepsia.—Mrs. Peter Kline, Hopewell, Pa.

It can't help but do you good

There is a very simple reason why Kodol Dyspepsia Cure invariably cures the worst cases of indigestion even after everything else fails, and that is because it is the only preparation known that contains all the digestants and completely digests what you eat.

Kodol Dyspepsia Cure

Prepared only by E. O. DeWitt & Co., Chicago. The $1 bottle contains 2½ times the 50c. size.

THE KISKI ELEVEN UPSET GUESSERS OF FOOTBALL FORM

BIG COLLEGE TEAMS ARE SHAPING FOR FINAL GAMES

THE KISKI TEAM SHOWED ITS FORM

Easily Defeated the High School Eleven in Fine Contest.

MANY PRETTY RUNS

The people who were figuring that because the Shadyside eleven had defeated the Kiskiminetas team 51 to 0, the High school eleven would have a walkover against Kiski, were very badly left. The contest between Kiski and High school took place yesterday afternoon at Friendship park and the Saltsburg boys sprung a surprise by walking off with a 22 to 0 victory.

The Kiski eleven must have been in a sadly demoralized condition when Shadyside ran up such a big score against it, and it is a good bet that there will be no such walkover when these same teams meet for the second time next week. The team sprang on High school yesterday was heavy and fast enough to put up a mighty stiff argument against W. U. P. or any equally strong eleven. Certainly it was too heavy and strong for High school, and from the clever team work shown it was no wonder the red and black went down to defeat.

Showed Fine Team Work.

The visitors played a dashing game all the way, and their mass and end plays were irresistible. There was the very best kind of interference, which formed quickly and never broke away until the man with the ball was clear of harm. The mass plays were strong and cleverly executed, and the man with the ball wriggling along the ground for good gains even after he had been downed. The team was not only good on offense, but it was equally good on defense work. And High school found a stone wall when it tried to work plays against the line.

The High school team appeared on the field in a badly wrecked condition through the loss of Nickel, Crookston and Diebold, all of whom were reported on the sick list. Some time after the game had been going, Diebold put in an appearance, but too late to help his team, as 11 points had already been scored against it. The High school rooters were out in force, and they rooted long and loud and bravely until after the last minute of playing time.

The clever work of the Saltsburg team was marred somewhat by bad displays of fumbling. No less than half a dozen times, and at very important junctures were fumbles made, but Kiski was very lucky and all but once recovered the ball. The one unlucky fumble was a costly affair in the second half after the ball had been carried down to within half a yard of High school's goal. The signal went out for Capt. McClintock to take the ball over, but the pass was a bad one and High school secured the ball and carried it out of harm's way.

Made Many Clever Runs.

Mead Porterfield, who was at left half back for Kiski, was that team's bright particular star, and his long runs for 30, 40 and 50 yards brought out loud cheers. Capt. "Spooks" McClintock also did clever ground gaining for the visitors, while Patterson and Jackson showed the best work for High school.

The Kiski eleven scored 17 of the points in the first half and it was well on toward the close of this half before High school could even make a first down on the visitors. With but two minutes of playing time left, High school took a much-needed brace and for that short period of time outplayed Kiski and scored its only touchdown. The credit for the score goes to Patterson, who worked his way through center and made a 20-yard run.

The second half was stubbornly fought all the way. The visiting team managed to score one touchdown and should have had another but for the bad fumble on High school's half-yard line. The playing was so fierce that almost on every down some player was stretched out for breath. The agreement called for 20-minute halves, but the timekeepers must have gone asleep, and allowed the teams to battle with each other until darkness settled over the park and it was difficult to see the players, let alone the ball. The score and lineup:

Kiski—23.		High School—6.
J. Porterfield	L. E.	Simpson
Over	L. T.	Zeich
Wood	L. G.	Lauderbaugh
McKeesh	Center	Campbell
Kelley	R. G.	Palmer
McKennon	R. T.	Laffelle
Kilpatrick	R. E.	Spoehler
Lupo	Q. B.	Baker
M. Porterfield	L. H.	Harper
W. McLane	R. H.	Patterson
McClintock	F. B.	Jackson

Touchdowns—McClintock, McLane, M. Porterfield 2, Patterson. Kicked goal—McKeesh. Substitutions—Diebold for Smith, Smith for Barnes, Zeigler for Campbell. Referee—Charles Sligh. Umpire—Harry McChesney. Time of halves—20 minutes.

Ready for the Bout.

Everything is now in readiness for the bantam weight boxing contest between Frank McCloskey and Eddie Zang tomorrow night before the Nonpariel Athletic club of Beaver Falls. The boys weigh in tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock at 114 pounds, and they must be in the ring at 9 o'clock.

SHADYSIDE BEAT ALLEGHENY PREPS

The Academy Second Team Won Hard Fought Contest Over Lighter Eleven.

In a pretty game of football the Shadyside academy second team yesterday afternoon defeated the Allegheny Preparatory school eleven by 18 to 0. The Preps, who have not played a team of their own weight this season and have one of the best perfected teams in this end of the state, averaged 15 pounds less than their victors, but played a remarkably plucky game throughout. The feature of the contest was the playing of Knox, the Prep school's star. He never failed to gain when given the ball, and saved the smaller team's bacon several times by unerring tackling when the heavy Shadyside backs passed all but him.

In the first half Allegheny played a remarkable defensive game and in the 20 minutes the only score was Shadyside's touchdown, after getting the ball on a fumble 15 yards from the Preps goal line. The Preps forced Shadyside to kick in this half, the only time the heavier team was held during the game. The Preps after making a gallant stand, got the ball on a fumble close to their own goal line just as the half ended.

In the second 15-minute half there was nothing to it but Shadyside. The latter scored in seven minutes without losing the ball from kickoff, and again in similar manner. The Preps had the ball but once when Shadyside kicked out of preference. The score and line-up:

Shadyside—18.		Allegheny Prep.—0.
Mellinish	L. E.	Smith
Reem	L. T.	John Carson
Swanson	L. G.	Zimmer
Gable	Center	Mayer
Kohne	R. G.	Gilg
Caldwell	R. T.	R. Carson
Mueller	R. E.	Denny
McKaig	Q. B.	Fleming
Schmertz	L. H.	Knox
Hemphill	R. H.	Reiter
H. Curry	F. B.	Tustin

Halves—Twenty and 15 minutes. Touchdowns—H. Curry, Barntrager and Reas. Goals—McKaig 2.

THE STAR PLAYERS ARE GIVEN A REST

Pittsburgh Team Took It Easy Yesterday—Gammons and Fultz May Play Here.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

GREENSBURG, PA., Nov. 10.—This was an off day in practice for the Pittsburgh Stars. Lawler went from the game at Philadelphia to his home in Paterson to visit friends, Kerkhoff remained over in Philadelphia to visit friends, and John Lang dropped off at South Fork to see his family. Schrontz went to Washington to resurrect the W. and J. team from its overwhelming defeat on Saturday.

The men at the quarters were not broken up or bruised, but Coach Richardson thought a day's rest would do them good, as some of the men seem stale from their hard work. Tomorrow evening the members of the team expect to go on a tally-ho ride at the invitation of a prominent Greensburger. Hard practice will begin tomorrow, and Coach Richardson intends to devote special attention to the defense. Kerkhoff will be tried at half back for line smashing.

Today Richardson received a telegram from Gammons, and the fleet-footed halfback may be in for the Stars Thanksgiving Day. The Philadelphia Athletics are also after Gammons for the same game. If it is possible to get Davy Fultz, he will be brought here to play in the game against the Athletics Thanksgiving Day.

Through some misunderstanding Creighton was not on hand Saturday, and the team was weak in his position. The Stars expect to be in great shape for State next Saturday, and there will be some hustling in perfecting new formations for this game.

PRESIDENT WILL BE THERE.

Chief Executive Will Attend Army and Navy Game.

ANNAPOLIS, MD., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—President Roosevelt will attend the annual football game between the naval and military academies at Philadelphia on November 29. Final arrangements have not yet been completed, yet it is said that he will be the guest of the navy during one-half of the game and of the army the other half, crossing the field during the intermission, as he did last year.

The locality of the navy boxes are not yet known, but it is understood that ten boxes will be placed at their disposal. These will be occupied by the president and party, the secretary of the navy, the assistant secretary, the admiral of the navy, the chief of the bureau of navigation, superintendent of the naval academy, the commandant of the Philadelphia navy yard and the remainder for the accommodation of as many chiefs of naval bureaus as possible.

Smith Had Shade the Best.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—"Sammy" Smith of this city fought six rounds with Austin Rice tonight at the Washington Sporting club, in which the local man had a shade the better of the bout. The fight was a fast one.

The Coming Stars Are Ready for the Snap of the Ball.

YALE PREPARES FOR THE TIGERS

Rafferty in Line, But Did Not Do Any Rough Work.

HARVARD HUSTLING

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW HAVEN, CONN., Nov. 10.—Yale football players were stiff and sore today as a result of their hard game last Saturday. Metcalf did not come near the field, Capt. Chadwick was in citizens clothes and Shevlin was late and did not line up. Kinney, whose knee was dislocated a week ago, reported and practiced, but was lame and may be unable to stand the strain of all of the Princeton game next Saturday.

Rafferty, whose head was cut Saturday, was in the signal lineup, but did not scrimmage. All the practice was devoted to breaking through on punts. This was taken because Princeton is expected to play a kicking game next Saturday against Yale. Frank Hickney, Yale's greatest end, telegraphed today that he would probably come late this week.

Getting Ready for Yale.

CAMBRIDGE, MASS., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—Harvard's football team began her final stages of her practice for the Yale game this afternoon, and owing to the hard fight put up by Pennsy against her varsity players Saturday there were no scrimmages in today's secret practice of the men who played against Pennsylvania. All were on the field today, except Sugden, who played a good game at center for the crimson. The men were put through light signal practice and the rest of the time was spent in teaching the men how to hold on to the ball, as fumbling was a feature of Harvard's weak playing Saturday.

Pennsy Cheered by Students.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 10.—(Special.)—In order that the University of Pennsylvania football squad might reap all the fruits of its good showing against Harvard on Saturday, the barriers were lifted, and the student body was allowed to view the practice of the team on Franklin field.

The practice consisted today entirely of open play. Coach Williams was assisted by Dr. Bull, Hedgesoff and "Bucky" Vail, and it seemed to be the chief object to get the team to work with rapidity. The scrubs were sub-divided and the men given a chance to show how quickly they could get down the field on kicks. Quarterback Dale and other back field candidates were down the field to catch the punts, and the squad had a chance to tackle a dodging runner.

Pennsylvania will practice straight football this week, as it is the general belief that the systematic plays, gotten off quickly, will bewilder the Indians, and that last year's score can be improved upon. The team is in splendid physical condition, and it is the intention of the coaches to keep it so.

Indians Are Working Hard.

CARLISLE, PA., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—"Now for Pennsy" is the word passed around among the Indians today, and all the players had a look of determination written on their faces that bodes ill for the Quakers. Coach Warner was at Cambridge Saturday and saw the Harvard-Pennsylvania game. He saw a few things that he will endeavor to instill into the Indians before Saturday.

The worst fault with the Indians at present is their fumbling. This cost them at least one touchdown in the Harvard game. Everybody is watching Johnson's condition. He is limping badly, and if he cannot play against Pennsylvania the team's chances of winning will be considerable lessened. Team work and perfecting the plays will be the main line of work during the week.

HART POURING OIL ON TROUBLED WATERS

Says Both Dreyfuss and Johnson Are Right, But Leach Will Play With Pirates.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—President Hart of the Chicago National League club, who has just returned from a trip through the south and Cuba, today placed the blame for the Johnson-Dreyfuss controversy on Tommy Leach.

"Both Johnson and Dreyfuss are right in one way," he said, "for Leach has signed with the American league while he had a previous contract with the Pittsburgh club. No matter how much controversy there will be over the affair, Leach will play with the Pittsburgh club next year. The only remedy for the American league will be to sue Leach and get damages for the loss of his services.

"All of the Pittsburgh players were signed last year on a contract which had a reserve clause. When this was shown them, Leach and his comrades saw the difficulty at once, for the Pennsylvania courts have held that the reserve clause is legal, in that state at least, and the players said they would give up their contracts with the American league."

MIXUP OVER GROUNDS.

Wash.-Jeff. Team Not Likely to Play at Friendship Park.

The announcement, made yesterday, that the Wash.-Jeff. and East End elevens would come together at Friendship park on Thanksgiving Day, is, according to William Martin, manager of the Verner college team, just a bit premature.

Mr. Martin, who has charge of the field, says that as yet no arrangements for such a game has been made with him, and none is likely to be, as his team will play there on the day mentioned. There is something of a mix up in the matter as the grounds belong to the High school authorities, and are under the control of the central board of education. The board placed the grounds in charge of City Assessor Gosser, who is a member of that body, and Mr. Gosser in turn placed Mr. Martin in control.

The East End players claim to have secured the use of the grounds from Recorder J. O. Brown, but just where he gets authority to rent the grounds is not known. Mr. Gosser says he has not given the East End team the use of the grounds for Thanksgiving Day.

The Turtle Creek Tigers would like to get a game for Saturday from some good 110 to 80-pound team. Full expenses will be given for twelve men. The Tigers are out for the championship of their class, only being scored against once this season, and that losing a game. Address Harry Campbell, Box 245, Turtle Creek, Pa.

The Sewickley basketball team has organized for the coming season, with Mr. D. O. Bartholomew as manager and Mr. Walter Neely as captain. They are out for the 15 and 14-year-old championship this year. Any team winning a game for the coming year, write to Mr. Bartholomew, Sewickley, Pa., care of Y. M. C. A.

The first basketball team to be organized in Sewickley is the Y. M. C. A. second team, with Walter Neely captain and Herbert Bartholomew manager. They want games with any 14 or 15-year-old teams, the Railroad third team preferred.

THE OPENING OF BENNINGS TRACK

Big Crowd Was Present to Watch Some Very Fast Going.

RECORDS BROKEN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Splendid weather and a good-sized crowd greeted the opening of the fall meeting of the Washington Jockey club at Benning today. Noticeable among those present were a large number of ladies. Many improvements have been made by the jockey club since the last meeting and the track has been reconstructed, making it several seconds faster than heretofore.

Today's events were warmly contested and the fields were generally large. The chief events were the Bladensburg steeplechase and the Columbia handicap. The steeplechase event went to Tip Gallant, the favorite, who won out by a length and a half from a field of a half dozen starters. The Columbia handicap was won by Harry New, an outsider who made the 7 furlongs in 1:26, breaking by 2 1-5 seconds the track record made by The Amazon in 1901. In the mile and a sixteenth event the track record was lowered 2-5 of a second. Two favorites, an even choice and three outsiders captured first money. Summaries:

BACK TO PRACTICE WORK.

Wash.-Jeff.'s Players in Bad Shape, But Are Trying Hard—State Game Called Off.

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 10.—(Special.)—The W. and J. football players, tired and sore from the effects of the game Saturday with the Cornell eleven, had their usual practice at College park this afternoon. All the men were able to get into the playing, with the exception of Sutter, who broke his wrist in the first part of the game Saturday. Sutter is laid up at his room with a very bad fracture of the wrist, and will not be able to get on the field again this year.

In spite of the awful defeat there was a large crowd of fans present on the field to see the team at work, and the college students are taking the defeat philosophically, and are making no open comment on the playing of the eleven last Saturday. The team had rather a good practice today and for cripples played fairly good ball. Coach Greene worked them hard and gave special attention to the defense playing, which was woefully weak in the Cornell game, while the ends were never in it with the Cornell players.

Hard practice will be on all week and the greatest effort will be made to get the men into good condition for the game next Saturday. State College will not appear here, but will play the Pittsburgh team. Manager Craig received word yesterday that they would not be here, and he is trying to secure another team for this date.

CORBETT FEELS SURE OF VICTORY

The Ex-Champion Thinks He Will Whip Jeffries In May.

FIGHT IN NEW YORK

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

CINCINNATI, Nov. 10.—James J. Corbett, former champion of the world, is in the city doing a vaudeville stunt at the Columbia. Corbett had little fight talk to make. He says that he is virtually matched with Champion Jeffries for a 20-round bout, to take place some time in May, and it is the fact that the definite location of the contest has not yet been made that prevents any positive statements on the subject.

In an interview Corbett says: "I feel confident that I can regain the championship from Jeffries. I would have done it the last time we met had it not been for my growing careless. I found Jeffries such easy game, and hit him when and where I pleased, that I did not think he could put it over if I walked around the ring with my hand hanging by my side. I just grew careless, and before I knew it I was down and out. The next time I will be more careful. But for that carelessness I would have been awarded the decision, for Jeffries had not laid a glove on me, while I had punched him whenever I wanted to.

"No, I'm not paying any attention to the Ruhlin challenge, for the very good reason that I am tied up with contracts until April, and I fight Jeffries in May. Ruhlin wants to meet me before that time, and there is not a chance of that. Jeffries knows better than any one else that I can not fight until May, and, besides, I will fight no one but Jeffries. After I defeat him I will be willing to listen to others, but not until then.

"There is a chance of the contest taking place in New York. As I understand it, a determined effort is to be made to have a law passed in that state legalizing boxing contests, and if that is done before next May I will box Jeffries there, for it is not telling a secret when I say that the gate receipts would be $50,000 greater there than anywhere else."

BASKETBALL OPENING.

Manchester Took First Game from East Liberty Team—Enterprise Team Shut Out.

The Manchester team administered defeat to Lou Seibel's East Liberty Juniors last night, by a score of 18 to 10. The 12-inch baskets alone were responsible for the low score, as both sides had numerous shots which would have been sure goals had the old 6-inch baskets been on the boards as last season. For nearly 10 minutes at the start of the game neither side could score a goal. Koch had the honor of being the first to do so. After the game had been on for about 10 minutes, both sides seemed to find the spot and the score was run up till, at the end of the first half, the score stood 9 to 6, in favor of Manchester.

In the second half, Skillinger was substituted for Hay, and, after five minutes' play, Mestkes took Walliser's place at center. The fresh men put new life into the game and field goals resulted a little more frequently than in the first half. Seibel and Lewis were most conspicuous for the visitors, most of the team work of that side being the result of their efforts.

The preliminary was unusually fast, the score ending 24 to 0 in favor of the Manchester Juniors. The new baskets troubled these teams considerably at the start, neither side scoring a field goal until near the end of the first half; then Thompson, of Manchester, caged the ball. After several brilliant passes, The Enterprise A. C. put up a strong game, considering the fact that this is their first season at the game, and they will probably give a good account of themselves before the end of the season. The lineup and scores of both games, follow:

Manchester—18.		East Liberty, Jr.—10.

APPROPRIATION LIKELY TO LAPSE

Senator Harris Foresees That Trouble If Canal Treaty Is Not Soon Ratified.

MARCH 4 THE TIME LIMIT

Money Not Applicable After Congress Expires—No Colombian Legislative Body to Act. Working on a Treaty.

THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE BUREAU,
602 Fifteenth St., N. W.,
WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10.

Senator Harris of Kansas, a Democratic member of the canals committee, said today that if President Roosevelt does not expend any of the $40,000,000 appropriated at the last session of congress for the purchase of the property of the Panama Canal company before March 4, the date of the expiration of the Fifty-seventh congress, the entire appropriation will lapse, a new law will have to be enacted and a new appropriation made if the negotiations are to be carried on after that time. Mr. Harris says all appropriations lapse with the expiration of the congress that made them.

The senator called attention to the fact that before the property could be acquired a treaty would have to be ratified by the senate and by the legislative body of the Colombian government. The Colombian government has had no legislative body for three years and is now in a state of revolution. It would seem, therefore, almost an impossibility for the president to have a treaty negotiated and ratified by the two governments in the short time remaining before the expiration of the present congress.

The senator thinks that to use any of the $40,000,000 to ascertain the validity of the title, for instance, such as paying the expenses of the attorney general to Paris, would not validate the appropriation. Whether or not the administration will take the same view is a question which officials decline to answer in a positive way. Attorney General Knox considers it a question which it would not be proper for him to answer. Controller Tracewell of the treasury, replied, when asked regarding the same point:

"I can give you the rule, but I cannot apply it, for the reason that it is a matter upon which I may be called upon to pass. The rule is that annual or continuing appropriations must be opened within the year, or there must be a proper contract made for their expenditure, or they lapse with the congress which made them. This rule does not apply to an appropriation which is not a continuing or annual one."

Secretary Hay was in conference today with Senator Cullom, chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations, and with Senator Morgan, senior member of the minority of the same committee. The secretary was able to show that substantial progress is making toward the completion of a treaty with the Colombian government. It is now expected that by the end of this week little will remain to be done to conclude the convention.

BIG SNAG IN THE WAY OF MARINE HOSPITAL

Either the Pennsylvania General Assembly or Congress May Have to Remove the Trouble.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10.—There has been an unexpected hitch in securing a site for the marine hospital to be built in Pittsburgh. Some years ago the Pennsylvania general assembly passed a law conferring jurisdiction upon the United States over all property purchased in the state for public buildings, and it was under the provisions of this law that it was expected to erect the hospital; but after the site has been virtually selected it is discovered that a later legislature passed a law prohibiting the construction of hospitals and pesthouses within the corporate limits of any city without first receiving permission from the legislature.

The treasury officials have referred the matter to the attorney general. Until his opinion is rendered no further steps will be taken. If the opinion sustains the last named law, no further steps will be taken until the legislature grants permission or congress amends the authorization act so that the hospital may be erected within the suburbs of Pittsburgh, and not exclusively within the city limits. Friends of the site on the high land at Bellevue and vicinity will undoubtedly take advantage of this situation.

REMOVED BY ROOSEVELT.

The President Will Not Stand for Exclusion of Negro Republicans from Political Rights.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10.—Julian W. Bingham, collector of internal revenue for the district of Alabama, has been removed from his office and Joseph O. Thompson appointed to succeed him.

The change was made as a result of a political condition which recently arose in Alamaba. Colored Republicans were excluded from participation in the Republican state convention, and Collector Bingham was held responsible, at least in a measure, for their exclusion.

Postmaster General Payne visited the White House today, and as he left the executive office, said:

"Neither the administration nor the Republican party of the north will stand for the exclusion of any section of our people by reason of their face or color, when, in other respects, such persons have complied with the laws and are eligible under the law to full and free participation in political action, and are of a high standard of personal character.

Not Too Much for Rural Delivery.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10.—The annual report of Robert J. Wynne, first assistant postmaster general, urges that, in view of the success of the rural free delivery system, the recommendation for $1,655,800 in the estimates for that purpose is reasonable. The amount is an increase of a little more than $5,000,000 for the current fiscal year.

Baer's Answer Filed.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10.—Carroll D. Wright, recorder of the anthracite coal strike commission, has received one of the replies of the coal operators to President Mitchell's statement filed with the commission, that of President Baer. The replies will not be made public until copies have been furnished Mr. Mitchell.

A ROUND OF THE THEATERS

Alvin—"Beauty and the Beast."

For once in his life we have caught the adjectivorous press agent in a truth. When he told us in many words and with great fervor that the Drury Lane spectacle, "Beauty and the Beast," that Klaw and Erlanger imported to this country, was the greatest spectacle America had ever seen of its kind, we, remembering Dave Henderson and recalling our unalloyed astonishment over the "Black Crook," did not believe him. We do now. "Beauty and the Beast" is a marvel of color, a revelation in scenic beauty, and an aggregation of pretty women, unique and novel stage effects and burlesque fun that in detail and as a whole eclipses any like entertainment that we have ever seen. This is said with a due appreciation of its moments when there seemed to be vacancies in the movement and flow of the mingled light and sparkle, when things seemed to be done just as "fillers" for a program already overcrowded. Perhaps Dave Henderson's skill for organization would never have allowed these, but then Dave Henderson never had the resources that are behind this mammoth kaleidoscope of changing hues and wonderful pictures. The reviewer is blase, indeed, who will not be tempted into adjectives at the sight of it.

The entertainment had its origin in Drury Lane theater, London. J. Hickory Wood and Arthur Collins are said to be the "inventors" of the piece. John J. McNally and J. Cheever Goodwin are responsible for the American book, which Frederick Solomon wrote, the music that Cole and Johnson did not contribute. The story has more continuity, with long lapses for specialties, than one would expect, but the old fairy legend of Beauty and the Beast is burlesqued in absurd style.

So much for the structure. Of the superstructure one knows hardly where to begin, or to leave off. The specialties by Harry Bulger, Joe Cawthorne, William H. Macart, John Hyams, Lella McIntyre, Viola Gillette and Annette Vasser, are all excellent. Of these Cawthorne's funny rolling "r" dialect songs and stories, and his marvelous concertina playing, stand easily first. Cawthorne is a burlesque humorist of immense resources for laughmaking, while his concertina solos, especially the "Narcissus," with variations, delighted the audience. Bulger, as the king and Macart as the queen, give burlesque impersonations that are fine in their grotesque humor. Lella McIntyre with her songs and costumed chorus effects was another enjoyable specialty. Of the cast Miss Phoebe Coyne, in the repellant role of the witch, captured the audience with a contralto song that was a gem of beauty and was sung in a voice of rare strength and range for an entertainment of promiscuous music requirements.

If in the scenery and spectacle features, however, that make "Beauty and the Beast" a wonderful entertainment. Of these it is hard to convey an intelligent idea by mere description. The wonderful ballet of the seasons and appearance of the flying Grigolatis were novelties, and the splendor of color and costume of the one and the eerie beauty of the other won enthusiastic applause.

Every stage setting is a high example of the scene painter's art. They seem to dissolve and blend in the changing and flashing prisms of light, the death of Beauty, the palace of the king, Beauty's awakening, the enchanted palace and last, as if to crown this dazzling array of scenic magnificence, the "Prismatic Fountain," which, with its accompanying effects, is one of the most beautiful and startling uses made of stage light seen since electricity became the handmaid of the fifth century inventor.

Of the burlesque and novelty effects there are so many that one need mention only the most amusing, that of the exploding automobile, which caught a whirlwind of laughter and applause. In short, the whole affair composed of the handsomest group of shapely young women one could find in a year's journey, sing with a fine harmony and skill. The curtain rises promptly at 8 o'clock and it should, for the program is long, too long, perhaps, but it would be hard to tell what to cut out.

Barring great deserts of dialogue and occasional awkward monologue moments, Madeline Lucette Ryley's comedy, "Christopher, Jr.," which the Grand stock company is using this week, is quite a cheerful and amusing bit of stage literature. Under the efficiency of Maud Adams and the strong comedy skill of John Drew, the dialogue deserts were not so apparent, possibly, and no doubt when the stock players get into harmony with the play, even these defects may be readily minimized. Mr. Ingersoll and Miss Taylor play the leading roles cleverly, though Mr. Ingersoll lacks repose and seemed to be playing in the air. There are a number of subsidiary roles that contribute to the fun of the piece. Mr. Abbey has a ridiculous role which he plays with great skill. It is a speechless part until the last act, but so admirably does the actor maintain his conception and so cleverly execute it, that it is one of the best parts in the play. Mr. Wilton Taylor, as Christopher Colt, Sr., also does excellent work. Miss Dalton, as Nellie, Miss Phillips as Mrs. Gibb and Miss Gale, as Mrs. Colt, Sr., add excellence to the performance, as do also Mr. Greenleaf, Mr. Cooper, Mr. Underwood and Mr. Harris.

But the chief roles are in the hands of the two leading people, and in Miss Taylor's case, the result is extremely satisfying, while Mr. Ingersoll will doubtless improve, as his lines become more familiar.

The stage settings are in every way admirable.

Empire—"Colorado."

In "Colorado," which opened before a well-filled house at the Empire last night, Augustus Thomas dips more into the lurid features of the real melodramatic melodrama than in any of the many popular plays which he has given to the public heretofore. The theme deals with that mining life most typical of Colorado just as the author's last effort dealt with the ranch and army life of "Arizona." As a whole "Colorado" is not up to the standard of "Arizona," but makes up for the rather strained and stiff faults of the sensational melodrama found in plenty with some excellent acting, a well developed climax and a plot which is human enough to hold the interest from the rise of the curtain to the fall. The army is brought into "Colorado" as in its sister play, and the machinations of an unscrupulous colonel and the usual gambling villain are directed against the young hero, who is crowded out of his interest in the mine. The bland army officer is also the cause of separation between the miner and mother of the heroine. A grand finale to the third act with three guns in use brings a thunder of applause from the gallery gods. Kitty Doyle ruptures the hand which has the drop on her father's heart, saving his life, and a general reconciliation, with attendant epidemic of marriages, takes place. The colonel at the close of the last act receives his well merited death wound at the hands of his fellow conspirator. John Morgan as the irresponsible old owner of the valuable property, and his determined wife, is good, especially in the third act, where he is tossed out for the wedding of his daughter Nancy. Miss Eva Randolph in the latter character made a hit in her portrayal of the rough, free and easy farm girl, with a will of her own and an abundance of gumption. She was also best in the third act, where, dressed to kill for the wedding, she was mightily suggestive of Rose Melville in "Sis Hopkins." Clement R. Kirby as Bill Miller, the honest, simple hearted westerner of an Abe Lincoln style and laconic manner, was well nigh faultless. Edward J. Hein as the gambling sharp, Ned Staples, filled the bill with a natural cussedness. Lilly Hall as Mrs. Doyle made a good mother of the boisterous, talkative, unvarnished type, who kept boarders and ruled the ranch.

Bijou—Andrew Mack.

Andrew Mack never had greater possibilities than are afforded him in Theodore Burt Sayer's drama, "Tom Moore." The career of the Irish poet is depicted in scenes around which the romantic life of Moore is ingeniously woven. In the title role there is every excuse in the world for Mr. Mack to entertain his audience with his sweet voice. Of course he sings that immortal song, "The Last Rose of Summer," and at the opening performances at the Bijou theater yesterday his singing of that melody alone would have won the heart of every person within the sound of his voice. Andrew Mack's support this season is the best he has enjoyed. The work of Miss Frances Ring, Miss Margie Fielding, Edward J. Heron and Giles Shine, is of especial merit. The play is well staged and the costumes faithfully follow the history of the period.

Avenue—Continuous Vaudeville.

The combination of vaudeville talent at the Avenue this week forms one of the best variety shows ever produced in this city. The mark of approval rarely seen in vaudeville productions, of a third and fourth encore, was twice in evidence last night. The acts which failed to receive these repeated recalls obtained a share of applause which ordinarily have been judged most satisfactory. The house was more than well filled. There were people standing on all three floors.

The special favorites in the bill were the O'Rourke and Burnett buck-dancing act in which a boy is introduced with great success; the Fitzgibbon-McCoy trio, in the comedy act, "A Mischievous Boy," and Talbot and Rodgers in what they call "A Vocal Skit—"The Two Has-Beens." The singing of Talbot especially was enjoyed. But there were several other acts which approached these in excellence. Cora Tanner is one of the best-known women on the American stage, and her act is fine. A ballet of seven have a performance that was well received. Mlle. Theo showed much skill in commanding a trick horse and three trick conch hounds. This act is a decided novelty and made a hit. George Graham does an unusually good monologue with imitations. Other acts include Ole and Poyser, acrobats; the Razorfs, illusionists; Barry and Connors, in an Irish sketch; the Wangdoodle four in coon songs, and Francis Wood, loop rolling. An unusually good cinematograph exhibition ends the program.

Duquesne—George Munroe.

Our old friend George W. Munroe opened the week at the Duquesne last evening, in a new farcical composition called "The Doings of Mrs. Dooley." "Mrs. Dooley" cannot be compared with "Aunt Bridget," Mr. Munroe's old success. The plot is thin, the dialogue is mediocre, and there is very little music one would care to hear the second time. The piece, however, is well staged and the costumes are pretty, but the company, with one or two exceptions, is not up to the standard of those usually seen at the Duquesne. Mr. Munroe as "Mrs. Dooley," is as jolly and as full of fun as in the old days. His monologue and his songs have all the Celtic wit and humor we used to like in old "Aunt Bridget." Misses Fannie Frankel and May Melbone entertained the audience with some good singing, and Raymond Finley and Lottie Burke were applauded for their musical comedy sketch. Anna Kenwick, the leading woman, seems to be out of her element, and the audience failed to conceal its dissatisfaction with her attempt at singing and dancing. With the exception of Munroe the performance reminds one of an amateur entertainment.

Academy—New York Stars.

A house packed to suffocation greeted the New York Stars, who appear in a greatly varied and lively program which is good from begining to end. Athletic business predominates in the bill, the leading feature of which is a wrestling match at each performance between Leo Pardello of New York and Joe Welsh of Braddock. Welsh gained a fall last night, to the delight of the big audience. Continuing the athletic features, a pretty girl named Mlle. Ani, appears in a trapeze act, which is quite sensational and a remarkable exhibition of muscular power. Martella and Lancaster, eccentric acrobats, have everything that is funny in the acrobatic line. The two Jacksons conclude their bag punching and club swinging act with a rough house boxing bout, in which the "Missus" steps in. Gardner was encored many times in his coon song act, as were Urline and Lyons in illustrated songs. A pretty swing act by Lillian Held, assisted by four show girls, is well received. In coast, Harris X. Brown in their "Wait a Minute" act went well received as usual. The usual burlesques are given at the opening and close of the performance.

"In the Palace of the King."

One of the most important attractions ever secured by Manager Davis was contracted for on Saturday last, when arrangements were made for the transportation to Pittsburgh, intact, of Viola Allen's splendid production of Marion Crawford's great play, and it will be presented by the stock company, week beginning next Monday afternoon.

Laura Biggar at the Avenue.

In addition to 14 other high-class vaudeville specialties, announced at the Avenue theater for next week, Manager Davis has an extraordinary headliner in Miss Laura Biggar and her company, who will be seen in a vaudeville sketch. Miss Biggar will come direct from New York, and at the close of her engagement here, will return to New Jersey.

TO TRY SLANDER SUIT.

Preparing to Reopen the Robinson-Wanamaker Case.

HARRISBURG, Nov. 10.—(Special.)—The Robinson-Wanamaker slander suit, which has been dragging along for four years, will be tried at Beaver during the first week of December. Superintendent of Public Printing Thomas Robinson of Butler brought suit for slander against John Wanamaker, alleging that he was slandered in a speech delivered by Wanamaker at Lykens, in which the latter intimated that Robinson had not discharged the duties of his office as he should, particularly in the case of the famous "bird book."

The suit was brought in Beaver and came to trial in December, 1900, when Mr. Robinson was non-suited. Subsequently the court opened the suit and ordered a new trial. Depositions in the case were taken in the office of Attorney McCarrell in this city today by Robinson.

SETTLED BY KNOX.

Medals of Honor Cannot be Granted to Men Who Have Left Service.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 10.—An opinion has been rendered by Attorney General Knox which will have far-reaching effect upon medals of honor and certificates of merit. It sustains an opinion of former Attorney General Devens, who held that a certificate of honor could not be granted to a man who is no longer in the service of the United States. It did not apply to men who have been recommended for such certificates previous to the time they left the service.

The latest opinion will put an end to such certificates, not only for the civil war, but also for the Spanish war, and in most instances for services in the Philippines when performed by volunteers.

CONVICTS PLOTTED TO ESCAPE OHIO PRISON

Had Secured Revolvers and Drugged One of the Guards.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE GAZETTE.]

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 10.—Convicts of the Ohio penitentiary last night made a bold attempt to escape after administering "dope" in coffee to one of the wall guards. The only two men detected are locked up, and a search of their cell and places of work disclosed revolvers and daggers, several complete suits of citizens' clothes and other things necessary when once freedom was gained.

Harry Davis and Charles Geske, both murderers, prepared knock-out drops from chloral hydrate, and this was poured into coffee sent to the guards with a piece of pie for lunch. He drank very little of the coffee, and to this fact is due the failure of the plan to get over the wall. He communicated with the guard room, and when the men later appeared at the bottom of the wall to reconnoiter and found the guard awake, they slipped away in the darkness to their cells, but two of them were followed.

So far they have refused to tell where they procured the arms, clothing and chloral, but in the meantime a systematic search of the big prison is being made with the hope of unearthing evidence to place the guilt where it belongs, and also to find the other men implicated in the plot.

It's a Matter of Business

Systematize your office details if you expect to have an adequate equipment. People are too busy to waste time on a concern that has to "look around" for things that should be systematically filed.

The Sectional Bookcase helps a lot—it's the only case which makes possible the convenient handling of books of any number. And it's a great convenience for the care of magazines and all such things.

The sections are complete in themselves. You simply place one on top or alongside another when you are ready to add to the size of your case. And you do this just as your needs indicate. One section is all you need buy at a time.

Suppose you take a look at these Sectional Bookcases and the numerous other office fixtures. This being the largest furniture house in the world, it follows that more worthy fixtures are found here than elsewhere.

Bought To Make a CARPET CARNIVAL This Week In Pittsburgh

DO YOU KNOW what a "drop pattern" carpet is? No; not a back number. Some of the most attractive carpets in Pittsburgh today are "drop patterns." This is how it is: When a carpet mill has woven a certain quantity of floor coverings of any one kind it stops making this particular pattern. Why? Because the American women want something entirely different from what they see on their neighbors' floors, and no store dares to sell more than three or four carpets of a kind in any city of moderate size. So the mills have to limit the production of even the prettiest designs, drop the patterns and be continually bringing out something new.

The last rolls of a "drop pattern" are usually slow sellers, accordingly great carpet concerns like the S. Sanford & Sons' Mills at Amsterdam do not hesitate to close them out at cut prices.

We have just received nearly 100 rolls of Sanford's drop patterns. They are nearly all in good dark grounds, well suited for Pittsburgh purposes—reds, greens and blues—and almost as many patterns as there are rolls. We bought them 'way under price and are going to sell them 'way under price to create the last "carpet flurry" before the holiday trade sets in. Here they are:

BIBLE'S PLACE IN LITERATURE

Discussion of Scriptures in First University Extension Lecture.

A BIG CROWD PRESENT

The Attendance That Greeted Dr. Moulton, the First Lecturer, Indicates a Successful Season for the Society.

The Bible, as viewed from a literary standpoint, was discussed last night at the opening of the course of lectures under the auspices of the University Extension society at the Carnegie institute. The subject was handled in a novel and attractive manner by Dr. Richard Green Moulton, professor of literature of the University of Chicago. Last night's lecture was the first of a series of lectures on "Literary Readings As a Means of Biblical Study."

Dr. Moulton kept in the open, omitting theological discussions and dogmas. He dealt only with the Bible as a literary work and pointed out the quality of literature in the various works which compose the Scriptures. He said the inspired writers differed in their style, moods and motives just as modern authors. The beauties of Biblical literature, he said, could not be gleaned by indiscriminate reading, and made a plea for a more intelligent understanding of the history of the translation of the Bible.

In the present form of the Scriptures, he declared, it was difficult to discern the literary excellence, because the matter was so divided in verses as to conceal the power and the beauty of its sentences. Dr. Moulton would have verses eliminated and use paragraphs as the subject matter indicated.

An audience of more than 500 persons attended the opening lecture. The large turn-out augurs well for the success of course. The sale of season tickets exceeds that of last year by more than 100. Dr. Moulton's course will continue regularly on Monday nights until December 15.

The second course will begin on Monday, January 5, by Dr. Albion W. Small, professor of sociology of the Chicago university. His subject will be "Problems of Democracy," and will discuss exhaustively many of the topics which engaged the thought of eminent sociologists, including the use and abuse of government, possible social adjustments and the indictment of society by anarchists and socialists.

The lectures by Edward Howard Griggs of Philadelphia promise to be so popular that the Carnegie music hall has been leased in order to provide accommodations for the crowds that will attend. Prof. Griggs will begin his series on February 16, and will discuss the "Moral Leaders From Socrates to Bruno." The topics of the six lectures are "The Function of the Moral Leader," "Socrates," "Marcus Aurelius," "St. Francis of Assisi," "Savonarola" and "Giordano Bruno."

SAW BLOCKHOUSE AND STEEL MILLS

Miss Rives May Weave Story About Either—Interested in Pittsburgh.

Miss Hallie Erminie Rives, the author of "Hearts Courageous," who is in Pittsburgh, gathering material for her forthcoming novel, yesterday followed the beaten path of all pilgrims to the Smoky City and visited the mills at Homestead and the Block House at the Point. Both were wonders for her and it was late in the afternoon when she returned to her hotel.

"Will your next hero be a millworker or a colonial warrior," Miss Rives was asked.

"I am in doubt," she answered. "These men, who toil before the blazing furnaces, are true heroes and they do their part quite as bravely as those sturdy old sires of Pittsburgh, who handled their trusty rifles behind yon stockade. I may be a little bit partial to that quaint, five-sided building at the Point. My inclinations run that way. When I rummaged through grandfather's old papers, I found many colonial documents relating to Ft. Duquesne and Ft. Pitt, and since childhood have longed to look upon its historic walls.

"It was here that Charles McKnight got the inspiration for his romance so cleverly woven around the fortunes of the fort. Every brick here seems to tell me a story. I wonder if Pittsburgh people appreciate this treasure of colonial times, as they should? I have heard that it was suggested to remove it to the parks. It should stay here forever. Shall I use it in a book? It is worthy of any author's best work."

Miss Rives will go to visit friends in the country near Pittsburgh and continue her researches. She went shopping yesterday and was recognized by many persons while on her jaunt downtown.

FOR THOSE WHO LOVE COFFEE.

Of Me You Can Make Many Things on Which an Epicure May Dine.

The making of a good cup of coffee is such a simple operation, and yet to have it just right is a matter of very considerable difficulty and worry to many housekeepers. More depends on the care and finesse in the preparation than in having the very best quality of the berry, and the very finest grade of coffee will give no better results than the poorest, in the hands of a careless and indifferent cook. The keeping of the roasted berry and the condition and care of the coffee pot mark the difference between the good and bad decoction much more often than the quality of the coffee. In our grandmother's time, when coffee was a luxury and it was the custom to roast and grind the berry at home, and when a fragrance greatly after, one caught the delicious fragrance of the east in the taste of amber made for gods to sip.

All who handle coffee do not understand that there is no form of food, not even excepting milk, so susceptible to foreign flavors as ground coffee; and it would be well if every coffee merchant furnished a printed list of "Don'ts" for the benefit of the housewives who do not have uniform success in the making of coffee.

Don't, in the first place, practice false economy by buying a cheap grade of coffee ground coarse; but get a good coffee ground fine, as this will give full strength and flavor and go three times as far as a poor coffee, even when the latter is ground fine.

Don't keep coffee near anything from which it may absorb flavor. Don't forget to keep it closely covered, especially when ground, or it will become "air-drawn" and make a stale, insipid beverage.

Don't wash the inside of the pot with soapy water. Scald well or boil, or forget to scald it out at least once each week with soda water; rinse thoroughly with clear cold water and air it well.

Don't allow stale coffee or the scum to collect in the spout of the coffee-pot or make fresh coffee before this is washed out.

Don't make your coffee with water that has been twice boiled or boiled for any length of time before using, and don't expect good coffee can be made with water that is not right at the boiling point when used.

Any coffee is made better by dripping, using more than double the quantity desired. Cafe au lait is black coffee made in this way and diluted with hot milk. Tin coffee pots should not be used, as it is difficult to keep them free from stale coffee flavor. Wood is best for any kind of coffee pot, as the aroma which makes coffee so enjoyable is the escaped volatile oil, and upon the loss or retention of any amount of this depends the flavor of your coffee.

Boiled Coffee.

This is not the most approved way of making it, as the drip coffee is, but one in most common use, and when carefully made in this manner by one who knows how, a very delicious beverage may be made. Put the ground coffee into the pot and pour the boiling water upon it. Let it come to the boiling point; remove to side of range and stir in the crushed shell and slightly beaten white of egg to tablespoonful of the white is sufficient for a quart of coffee.) Return to the fire and let it boil up one minute. Then pour a tablespoonful of cold water down the stout and set the pot where it will keep hot but perfectly still for five minutes; then carefully turn off coffee until the grounds settled pour carefully back and let it stand five minutes longer. Good coffee should not boil more than three minutes altogether or you will dispel a large share of the aroma.

Drip Coffee.

This is filtered coffee, and coffee made in this way is considered to possess finer flavor than any other and is more economical. Drip coffee is made in the French coffee biggin or filter. A substitute may be made of a bag to take the place of the perforated dripper, but it does not work so well. Fill the strainer or dripper nearly full of finely ground, or powdered coffee, leaving only room to pour on a little water at a time, put the upper strainer on the rod and then pour on the water. Add a tablespoonful boiling water for each cup, and let it fall in a shower upon the coffee and filters slowly through the coarser strainer at the bottom. As this process is slower than the ordinary "boiling," let your coffee stand near the fire or range, standing in boiling water while the coffee drips. One heaping tablespoonful of finely ground coffee to half a pint of water will make black coffee.

Prairie Coffee.

This is a novelty and not a bad substitute when the coffee supply is short, not to be obtained or coffee is too expensive a commodity to use freely. Take a pint of coarse cornmeal, a pint of entire wheat or Graham flour, half a cup of molasses, a teaspoonful of salt and enough water to mix it rather dry. Spread thin in a pan, mark out in cakes and set in a very moderate oven and dry thoroughly; then brown a rich dark color. Two or three cakes of this and one tablespoonful of coffee will make a very palatable and wholesome drink.

Inquiries Answered.

M. D. J. desires a recipe for French bread.

French Bread.

Scald one pint of milk and then add one pint of water, and let it cool. Dissolve one yeast cake in a little lukewarm water and add to the liquid when it is also of lukewarm temperature. Also add a teaspoonful each of salt and sugar and stir in enough sifted flour to make a thick batter; then beat hard for ten minutes. Add four to make a dough, turn out and knead on the board until soft and spongy. Let rise until it doubles its bulk, then form into loaves and let rise three hours in a moderately warm place and bake in moderate oven.

Chestnuts With Coffee Sauce.

Shell a pint of English chestnuts and take off the brown skin by throwing them into boiling water and bringing to the boiling point. Boil a cup of sugar with a cup of water until clear, skim and throw in the peeled chestnuts and cook them gently until tender with a stick of cinnamon. Carefully remove the chestnuts, placing them in a glass dish. Add to the syrup half a cup of strong black coffee and then slowly stir in two well beaten eggs. Flavor with a teaspoonful of vanilla extract and strain over the chestnuts and serve cold. Whipped cream may be served with this dish.

SOCIETY

THE largest and most brilliant social event of the early winter was the reception Mr. and Mrs. Alexander R. Peacock gave last evening at "Rowanlea," their new mansion in North Highland avenue, East End. It was a housewarming for "Rowanlea," which was completed only a few months ago. Eight hundred guests were easily entertained within the mansion, which is one of the largest in the city. The guests of honor were Senor de Madraza, the famous Spanish portrait painter, and his wife, Madam de Madraza, who are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Peacock, coming here directly on their arrival from Europe.

Immense Japanese lanterns extended along the driveway from the street to the porte cochere, which was traversed between the hours of 9 and 11, the reception hours, by countless carriages with their twinkling lights. Within "Rowanlea" was ablaze with light, sifted through opalescent globes, flashioned in fantastic forms, occasionally orchids, again a sun burst, and in the dining room, immense seashells of seeming pearl.

Mr. and Mrs. Peacock received their guests in the drawing room, a beautiful apartment finished in the French style of the renaissance period. Its gracefully paneled walls in white and gold, the dividing columns surmounted by oval portraits of noted French beauties, and the hangings in shades of rich purple orchids, were lighted with electric globes concealed within the graceful columns and by the rays of light passing through stained glass panels beneath the cornice. In the drawing room the floral decorations were purple orchids and maidenhair ferns.

Receiving with Mr. and Mrs. Peacock were Senor and Madame de Madraza, while assisting was a group of friends of the hostess, Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson, Mrs. Clifton A. Verner, Mrs. Murray A. Verner, Mrs. David L. Gillespie, Mrs. William S. Miller, Mrs. Samuel L. Seymour, Mrs. Omar Scott Decker, Mrs. Margaret Dallmeyer, Mrs. John Kennedy, Mrs. Charles H. Bedell, Mrs. James Norval, Miss Jean Wilson, Miss Josephine Laraque and Miss Marie Swalm.

The ladies were richly gowned, the hostess wearing the handsome gown of pink and white satin, trimmed with exquisite lace, which she wore when sitting for the portrait painted by Senor de Madraza, which hangs in the place of honor in the large reception hall and opposite the staircase of "Rowanlea." Madame de Madraza wore a beautiful gown of satin and lace, with handsome jewels, and the majority of the assisting ladies wore white. Mrs. Murray Verner wore white chiffon over pink silk, trimmed elaborately with lace; Mrs. Clemson was gowned in a rich white and lavender brocaded satin; Mrs. Miller wore an exquisite gown of soft white silk, charmingly combined with blue chiffon; Mrs. Clifton Verner appeared in white with beautiful lace; Mrs. Bedell wore violet peau de sole; Mrs. Norval wore a gown of white chiffon and Miss Wilson, Miss Laraque and Miss Swalm also appeared in pretty gowns of white chiffon.

"Rowanlea" has for its central architectural feature a great English reception hall of dark Flemish oak. It occupies the center of the first floor and extends to the third with an open gallery all around upon the second floor. The carving is rich and massive, and the open arches upon the second floor are supported by dignified columns, a balustrade of Flemish oak adding to the beauty and effectiveness of the whole. The walls are a deep crimson, harmonizing with the color of the immense rug covering the center of the parquet floor. Upon the walls hang many of the fine paintings owned by Mr. Peacock, who loaned several to the loan exhibition at the Carnegie institute this fall. Immense white chrysanthemums were the sole decoration of the hall last evening.

The library at the left of the front and main entrance is finished in Flemish oak, with walls of a rich green, upon which are a number of superb paintings. The floral decorations were American Beauty roses, filling a huge vase upon the table. The deep recessed windows admit the daylight and an immense hanging center cluster of lights with other smaller lights flood the apartment with artificial light by night.

The billiard room, opening out on an immense glass enclosed porch, adjoins the library. The dining room at the rear of the reception hall is finished in Flemish oak, with high wainscoting and tapestried walls above in the irridescent colors of green and blue, and with cabinets for fine table ware and cut glass. Here supper was served at small tables last evening. On a large central table was a center-piece of small yellow orchids, whose color was carried out in the candle shades and the electric globes. Through globes resembling large sea shells, suspended from the heavy panelled ceiling, the apartment was filled with light. Adjoining the dining room is the smaller Dutch breakfast room, a reproduction of a genuine Dutch room, with its small curtained windows, its tiled walls extending above the wainscoting and curious plates adorning the mantel shelf. Supper was also served at small tables there, the decorations being large yellow chrysanthemums. Coffee was poured in the billiard room.

Opening from the gallery upon the second floor are the guest rooms, the private family apartments, the nursery and the children's sun parlors. Harmony of color with beauty of furnishings and completeness of appointments characterize each apartment. Each suite of apartments has its sitting room, dressing room and marble-lined baths. The nursery is most complete; its walls are covered with scenes and stories taken from nursery rhymes; there is a pretty little sitting room and a sun parlor, one side consisting of glass, and the sleeping room, with walls upon which appear the special pets of the children.

The Turkish room is a den full of oriental hangings and bric-a-brac. Upon the floor above are additional guest rooms. The servants' apartments are in a separate wing, in which are the kitchen and pantries.

Last evening the Pittsburgh orchestra furnished the music. After inspecting the house the guests visited the conservatory, which was reached by a covered walk from the porte cochere. The conservatory is large and filled with a fine collection of tropical plants, a small but good collection of chrysanthemums and carnations. In the cellar beneath the green houses are mushroom beds, covering a space of nearly 200 square feet.

Ceramic Club Reception.

The Duquesne Ceramic club held its annual reception last evening in the private parlors of the Hotel Schenley, it being also the occasion of the opening of its annual exhibition. The parlors were thronged with guests, an orchestra played throughout the evening, and a constant source of interest and delight were the tables around the rooms, containing the examples of the work of the members of the club. All were marked and many received special awards. Miss Farren received first for a panel for cut cardboard design; her prize piece being a plate with a morning glory border; Miss Vandersan took the silver medal in figure work with a beautiful plaque entitled "Night and Waning Day." The bronze medal was given to Miss E. W. Beatty, Miss Peters for a vase decorated with hollyhocks. Honorable mentions were given Mrs. Albert Pettit for a bonbonniere; Miss Myra Boyd, for a stein, equisitely decorated, and Miss Katherine B. Focke, for a plate with a conventional design. The judges were John

MAN OF AFFAIRS VISITS THIS CITY

James H. Hyde Comes to Pittsburgh to Meet Business Associates.

HAS LOCAL INTERESTS

Big Men in the Equitable and Other Large Financial Concerns Are Entertained by Prominent Pittsburghers.

James H. Hyde, vice president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States, regarded by men of great affairs as one of the master minds of finance and insurance, is in Pittsburgh as the guest of H. C. Frick.

Mr. Hyde is accompanied by his secretary and by Gage E. Tarbell, second vice president of the Equitable, and Lawrence L. Gillespie, secretary of the Equitable Trust Company of New York. They have been over the west in the interest of the society and are returning to New York.

Mr. Hyde is probably identified with more important financial and business enterprises than any man of his years in the country. He is just past 30 years of age and is a director of nearly two score of the leading financial and industrial organizations of the United States, including the Union Pacific, Wabash, Southern Pacific and Long Island railroads; the Western Union Telegraph Company, the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company, the International Banking Corporation and various trust companies and banks throughout the country.

Mr. Hyde recently entered the directorate of the Union Trust Company, the Mellon National and the Union Savings banks of Pittsburgh, and his visit at this time afforded an opportunity to get acquainted with those of his official associates of the local institutions who were strangers to him. He was entertained at luncheon at the Pittsburgh club yesterday and met the directors of the Union Trust Company and a number of other prominent business men, including Col. J. M. Schoonmaker, R. B. Mellon, C. A. Painter, W. N. Frew, Reuben Miller, J. B. Jackson, Willis F. McCook, H. C. Mc-Eldowney, H. C. Fownes, J. J. Donnell, Col. F. J. Hearne and A. W. Mellon. L. L. Gillespie, Mr. Tarbell and E. A. Woods, Western Pennsylvania representative of the Equitable, and Mr. Frick were also of the party.

Last evening Mr. Hyde met another company of distinguished Pittsburgh women and men at dinner at Mr. Frick's home, "Clayton," Penn and Homewood avenues, while Mr. Tarbell and Mr. Gillespie were guests of Mr. Wood at his home in Sewickley.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. Woods to the district representatives of the Equitable to meet Mr. Hyde at an informal luncheon at the Frick building today. This will conclude the social features of Mr. Hyde's visit, and his party will leave for New York tonight.

The insurance business in which Mr. Hyde has achieved such pre-eminent distinction, is a family heritage. His grandfather was one of the Nestors in American insurance affairs, and his father, Henry B. Hyde, was the founder of the Equitable. James H. Hyde studied the theory and practice of life insurance under the practical wing of his father.

Mr. Hyde, although a native American, has a predilection for the French and particularly the language of the Gauls. He is a chevalier of the Legion of Honor, receiving this distinguished honor from the French government in recognition of his efforts for the advancement of French literature in the United States. Mr. Hyde was graduated from Harvard and is the principal supporter of the Cercle Francais de l'Universite Harvard.

ASKS BIG DAMAGES.

Pressed Steel Car Company Sues Standard Company for Alleged Infringement of Patents.

Suit was entered yesterday in the United States circuit court by the Morton Trust Company and the Pressed Steel Car Company, through Attorneys Bakewell and Byrnes, for $100,000 damages, for infringement of patents. The Morton Trust Company is a corporation of New York.

The bill sets forth that on or before December 22, 1896, Charles T. Schoen was the sole inventor of a certain new and useful improvement in metallic cars, not known or used before his invention, and not in public use or for sale in this country for more than two years prior to his application for a patent. A patent was granted to him under date of June 15, 1897, and by assignment this patent became the property of the Pressed Steel Car Company. On February 13, 1901, the Pressed Steel Car Company, under an agreement, assigned its interest in the patent to the Morton Trust Company as collateral security for a loan, the car company to retain exclusive use of the patent and power to sue or to join with the Morton Trust Company in suits touching infringements of the patent.

The bill then avers that the defendant company is manufacturing metallic cars in infringement of the patent, and is selling them at Pittsburgh, Butler, Pa., and elsewhere. The court is asked to compel the defendant to account for and pay over the income thus derived, restrain it from manufacturing other cars of the same patterns, and destroy or turn over to the plaintiffs, cars now in its possession. In addition to this, damages to the amount of $100,000 are asked.

A representative of the Standard Steel Car Company said last night that this action was similar to other suits instituted by the same companies; that it was thought the defendant has not infringed and that the Standard Steel Car Company is not worrying over suits of this nature.

The United States circuit court for the November term opened yesterday morning and after a brief session adjourned until this morning. Judge Acheson announced that by previous arrangement he would go to Scranton to hold court and that his place would be filled by Judge Archibald of the Middle district. The term will be very short, as Judge Archibald and Judge Buffington will hold court in separate rooms, and there are not many cases to be heard.

Judge Buffington sustained some and dismissed others of the exceptions in the answers filed in the case of E. & T. Fairbanks Company against the Standard Scale and Supply Company. The suit is over the use of the name "Standard."

The opinion of the referee was sustained in the bankruptcy case of John C. Fenzel in holding that the bankrupt was entitled to certain exemptions. H. F. Kresge and David Reams were refused the privilege to interfere in the bankruptcy case of S. K. Speers & Sons. S. R. Rush & Co. may interfere if they act with other creditors.

In the bankruptcy case of W. S. Mahaffey the order to show cause why he should not file a more specific answer was vacated.

To Organize Church.

At a presbyterial meeting yesterday afternoon in the First Presbyterian church, it was announced that the congregation of the new Friendship Avenue Presbyterian church would organize and would need no assistance from the committee on missions. The Rev. Dr. Joseph T. Gibson announced that already 50 names had been signed to the petition for organization. The congregation will take steps to build a church as soon as the presbytery takes action on the petition.

Steel Car, Little Damaged, Wrecks End of Union Station Yard Wall.

The end of the handsome white stone wall at the New Grant street side of the Panhandle freight yards just west of the Union station was wrecked yesterday by a steel car.

The car was being shifted to the yards and was sent over the track leading along the side of the wall. The brakes did not work and the bumper at the end of the track was struck with such force that the upper part of the car was torn from the trucks and slid over the bumper and against the wall.

The stone work was torn away and four wide cracks made in the wall. There is every appearance that the wall is about to fall. To protect passersby the Pennsylvania has erected a barrier on the pavement.

The steel car which did the damage is of the gondola type made by the Pressed Steel Car Company. The steel shapes are not hurt in the least, although the car was sent back with sufficient force to tear itself from the trucks and wreck a stone wall two feet thick.

READY FOR THE TIES.

Four Miles of the Wabash Extension Finished by Contractors.

Robert Hyslop, division engineer of the Pittsburgh, Carnegie & Western, the Wabash extension, said yesterday that four miles of the line, from Hickory to Mc-Clains bridge, Washington county, are ready for ties. The masonry and grading are completed, and the end of the week is likely to see the ties go down.

This work has been done by Contractor A. H. Jacoby of Pittsburgh, who has inished one mile, and James Hassett of Allegheny, who has three miles completed. This is the first part of the work to reach conclusion. There is one section of a mile, belonging to the Jacoby contract lying between the completed mile and the Hassett work on which a 400-foot tunnel is being rushed to completion.

WANTS GUATEMALA LINE.

Col. James McNaught Active in Financing a Central American Road.

Col. James McNaught, who was active first in the financing of the Great Northern railroad of Canada, and was heard from last spring in connection with the Varney syndicate bidding for the Western Maryland, has another plan. A dispatch from Milwaukee says that in conjunction with ex-Gov. W. R. Merriam of Minnesota, he will finance a railroad to be built through the mountains of Guatemala, connecting the Caribbean sea and the Pacific ocean.

The purpose is to save 1,500 miles in the shipment of fruit, etc., to the United States. The company, known as the Central American Improvement Company, is capitalized under New Jersey laws for $5,000,000. The concessions obtained from the Guatemalan government provide for the purchase of the road by that government for $6,400,000 at the end of 10 years, the earnings in the meanwhile to go to the improvement company.

USE PITTSBURGH STATION.

Connections With B. & O. Trains 9 and 10 Will Replace Trains 43 and 44.

It was announced yesterday that upon the reintroduction of the Pittsburgh-Cleveland service on trains 9 and 10 of the Baltimore & Ohio, November 23, trains 43 and 44, which now run into the Allegheny station, will be discontinued and the connections with 9 and 10 will be run from the Water street station. The Allegheny trains have been in this service for 12 years.

The trains on the lake division, running now between DeForest Junction and Niles, will run south to Youngstown after that date. The new equipment for the vestibuled service to be given on the Clarksburg express from Pittsburgh is expected this week. Beyond these changes none of local interest will be made in the new time schedules.

Clarion Also to Have Wabash.

Clarion, Pa., contributes the following to the various plans for Wabash extensions:

"Last week a survey was completed by engineers of the Wabash system between New York and Chicago. The present route, as surveyed, will pass through the county about six miles north of this town. Agents of the railroad company are taking options in the eastern part of the county at the present time. One of the engineers announced to a number of the farmers that work on the construction of this line will begin within a few months."

Union Pacific Annual Report.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The annual report of the Union Pacific Railway Company shows a total income of $26,321,653, against $20,010,279 last year. The surplus over fixed charges was $14,532,175, as compared with $12,568,000 last year, and the surplus, after the payment of all dividends, was $6,315,061, as against $4,554,081 last year.

George Heitzheuver, special agent of the passenger department of the Pennsylvania lines at Chicago, who brought the "Beauty and the Beast" Industrial Company into Pittsburgh from Chicago, is staying here for a couple of days to visit relatives. He was formerly city passenger agent of the Pennsylvania at Pittsburgh.

DOWIEISM SCORED BEFORE MINISTERS

The Rev. E. M. Wood Presents Paper on Subject—Creed Revision Talk.

The Rev. E. M. Wood, before the Methodist Ministerial association, severely scored Dowieism yesterday morning in a paper on "Dowieism Not a Christian Church, but a Commercial Enterprise." Dr. Wood said that a large fortune had been made by Dowie, who finds it easy to get money from the sick on the pretense that they might be cured.

A paper on "How Can Young People's Work Be Made More Effective?" was read by the Rev. J. A. Duff before the United Presbyterian ministerial. He said that the work of the young people is not sufficient, neither has it served its usefulness. The Rev. Wilbur F. Crafts addressed the meeting, urging petitions to congress for the passage of a bill to forbid the sale of liquors in all government buildings.

The annual convention of the Lutheran Ministerial Association of Pittsburgh and Allegheny convened in the Trinity church yesterday morning.

The Rev. S. B. Liggett of the Elairsville presbytery read a paper before the Presbyterian Ministerial association on "The University and Forward Religious Movements."

Much interest was taken among the Presbyterians in creed revision, which will be hotly discussed at the meeting of the presbytery today.

The Baptist association discussed the subject, "Higher Criticism," in which many members thought that the work of higher critics was in favor of the Bible.

EDGED TOOL COMBINE CAPITAL $43,000,000

Pittsburgh Firms Are Interested in Formation of Another Industrial Giant.

The cutting of prices by the manufacturers of edged tools throughout the country, will result in the formation of another combine to be called the International Ax and Tool Company. An organization for mutual protection has been under discussion for almost a year, and arrangements are now about completed. A meeting the large manufacturers was held in New York last Thursday. A prominent Pittsburgh manufacturer said yesterday that it would now be only a short time until the trust was incorporated.

The capital stock of the combine will be $48,000,000 and it will be organized under the laws of New Jersey. Bonds may be issued, which will increase this amount to $50,000,000.

The new combination will seek to put an end to the cutting of prices, and also attempt to adjust the present prices for tool steel. It was said yesterday that all the edged tool manufacturers will enter the combination.

A representative of one of the leading local firms volunteered the information that the money conditions existing at present in New York were not favorable for the formation of the combination. "The rates," he said "were very high."

If a combination is perfected a steel mill will be erected or purchased, as will be several grindstone factories. The combination will control the sale of axes, hatches, scythes, other edged tools; pickaxes, grindstones and hammers.

The local firms to be included are the Iron City tool works and the Kline-Logan Company.

The following other firms will be included in the combination:

American Ax and Tool Company, New York; Kelly Ax Manufacturing Company, Alexandria, Ind.; Mann Edge Tool Company, Lewiston, Pa.; James H. Mann, Lewiston, Pa.; Remer Ax Company, Dunkirk, N. Y.; Warren Ax and Tool Company, Warren, Pa.; Standard Ax and Tool Company, Ridgeway, Pa.; United States Edge Tool Company, Cattaraugus, N. Y.; Indiana Edge Tool Company, Gas City, Ind.; Fayette R. Plumb, Philadelphia; Warwood Tool Company, Wheeling, W. Va.; Peck Edge Tool Company, Canoes, N. Y.; Norton Tool Company, Cleveland; Winsted Manufacturing Company, Winsted, Conn.; Eagle Scythe Company, Winsted, Conn.; Turner, Day & Woolworth, Louisville, Southern Handle Company, Huntsville, Ala.; Dunn Edge Tool Company, Oakland, Me.; David Warsworth & Son, Auburn, N. Y.; Independent Stone Company, Cleveland; Central Tool Company, Jonesboro, Ind.; Evansville Tool works, Evansville, Ind.; Welland Vale Manufacturing Company, St. Catherines, Ont.

CHILDREN'S HOME.

A Well Run Place.

At a children's home in Fort Wayne, Ind., they have entirely abandoned coffee because of the bad effect of it.

Mrs. M. B. Gorsline, who is the matron, is meeting with grand success. She was compelled four years ago to discontinue the use of coffee and after making several experiments concluded that Postum filled the bill and has used it ever since.

She has charge of a family of children numbering from 22 to 30 and writes us: "I give Postum Coffee freely, using no coffee at all. The children are always well; we have had no sickness for two years, except such as they contract at school, like whooping cough, measles, etc. No bilious attacks, no fevers, no skin diseases. The children are all plump and in good condition. Clear complexions, no sallow or muddy looking faces, such as result from the use of coffee. We always make Postum strictly according to directions and it gives pleasure and health to all."

ALL STOCK MARKETS ACTIVE AND WEAK

In New York Sales Approximated 1,300,000 Shares, and in Pittsburgh 16,000 Shares---Moderate Rally at the Close.

By JOHN O. BAGLIN, Financial Editor.

All stock markets at home and abroad were active, weak and lower yesterday, and at times considerable demoralization prevailed. London sent over lower quotations for American securities, and is estimated to have sold about 20,000 shares on balance. There was a large accumulation of selling orders in the hands of brokers when the New York market opened, and during the first two hours transactions were on an enormous scales. The heaviest pressure of liquidation was in Baltimore & Ohio, Southern Pacific and the steel stocks. Baltimore & Ohio sold within a small fraction of par, Southern Pacific broke to 65⅝ and United States Steel to 36⅝ for the common and to 83⅛ for the preferred, being the lowest prices of the year for the latter. Amalgamated Copper broke to 58⅝, the lowest price ever quoted, and Sugar declined to 113⅝. After the first sharp break a slight rally occurred, but the outpouring of stock for sale was again so great that bearish traders returned to the short side and attacked other stocks. Reading broke to 57⅝, St. Paul to 170, Atchison to 84½, and so on through the list. From noon until within a half hour of the close there was practically no rallying power, but in the final dealings a sharp recovery took place, on heavy buying from the west, and in a number of instances all the early losses were recovered. The transactions for the day approximated 1,300,000 shares, the largest total for any day for months.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

There is no need to look below the surface for a good reason for the liquidation that has been under way for more than a week. Since the first week in September the rate for call loans has averaged about 6 per cent, and time loans have in some instances been unobtainable at that figure. Within the same length of time the market value of a score of leading railroad stocks advanced to the highest prices of the year. Pennsylvania reached 170, St. Paul 193¾, Baltimore & Ohio 118½, Illinois Central 173, and so on through the list. The return on the investmen, at these prices averaged between 3½ and 4 per cent. Meanwhile, buyers on margin have been fortunate if they could get their stocks carried at 6 per cent. Traders may be willing to pay the difference between the return and the cost for a week or two, and an advancing stock market in the face of a stringent money market has not infrequently been seen, but when this increased cost continues for more than two months, and when the outlook suggests that the extra cost will continue for two months more, there is bound to be some unloading. Even where individuals and institutions own securities outright, there is a strong temptation to sell the same and loan the money at high rates. The occasion does not often present itself where such an operation is promable; but this fall money has been continuously stringent and promises to remain so until the end of the year. There is, therefore every inducement to turn securities into cash with the object of loaning the proceeds in the money market. No doubt there has been considerable selling with this object in view, and the inability to obtain accommodation at bank has restricted the buying power of the public, which sees industrial and commercial business as active as ever and earnings steadily increasing, but are unable to purchase securities in anticipation of ultimately larger dividends. The same applies to a long list of non-dividend paying stocks, which have recently been sold under forced or voluntary liquidation.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

Although the closing rate on call money was 3 per cent, the tone of the market was if anything firmer, and the bulk of the loans was renewed at 5 to 6 per cent. Sterling exchange was easier, but international bankers expressed the opinion that no gold would be exported this week. Owing to continued large customs receipts, the government is still drawing money from circulation, the New York sub-treasury having gained $1,682,000 from the banks since last Friday. Yesterday's Philadelphia bank statement was in line with that of New York on Saturday. It showed a contraction of $806,000 in loans, but a loss of $791,000 in lawful money reserve, and in the item due to other banks there was a decrease of $1,025,000.

⊙ ⊙ ⊙

On the Pittsburgh board trading was more active than for months past, the sales reaching 15,602 shares stocks and $14,000 bonds. The sales were distributed among 35 securities, and the total was made up of nearly 300 separate transactions. Aside from the general weakness, the most notable feature of the dealings was the absence of any large blocks changing hands. Sellers did not press their orders, and buyers felt their way by bidding for small lots. The net results of the day, compared with the last previous close, were declines in 28 securities, unchanged prices for six and one net advance, the latter being Diamond Savings, which sold at 230 and 231, an advance of 11 points over last week, and a new high record.

The most active stock on the list was Crucible Steel. The common sold down to 15⅝, the lowest price of the year, and closed at 16¼, a net loss for the day of ⅜. The preferred declined to 84⅝, and closed at that price, a loss of ⅝. United States Steel also sold down to the lowest prices of the year, the common touching 36⅞ and the preferred 83⅝, but both rallied at the close and the net loss for the day was only fractional. Pittsburgh Coal declined to 27½ but recovered to 28⅛, while the preferred declined to 88½ and closed at the low point. River Coal common sold at 11 and the preferred at 40. Brewing common sympathized with the declining tendency, despite the fact that the directors raised the rate of dividend from 1 per cent quarterly to 1¼ per cent, and the preferred stock eased off to 47⅜. Westinghouse Electric was one of the weakest of the industrials at the opening, selling down to 100½, but the stock made a strong rally at the close, reducing the net loss for the day to 2½. Window Glass broke to 50, but recovered to 51½, a decline of 1¾. The preferred stock was down 1⅜, selling at 88¼, and the preferred after declining to 87½, recovered to 87½, a net loss for the day of 1. Philadelphia Company closed lower at 46⅞ for the common and 40 for the preferred.

There was less doing in the bank and trust company group, and with the exception of the advance noted in Diamond Savings, changes were unimportant. American Trust sold at 130 and was later offered at 128½. Federal National bank declined to 145 and Safe Deposit and Trust to 109 at the close. Pittsburgh Brewing 8s were 1⅝ lower, selling at 111⅝ at the close, and River Coal 6s declined 1 per cent to 112, being offered at that price at the close.

Allegheny Church Likely to Buy $28,000 Site—Pennsy Dealing in Pike Street. East End Sales.

D. M. Wallace has sold the properties at Nos. 117-125 Fourth avenue for $125,000 or $1,250 a front foot. The property is situated in the southeast corner of Fourth avenue and Decatur street, and is in two parcels. The two lots at the corner, 40x54 feet, were formerly owned by Mary H. Snyder, and were bought by Mr. Wallace last year for $50,000. The other three lots, 60x54 feet, have been owned by Mr. Wallace for a long time. Four brick blocks of four stories each and one two-story brick building, all used for stores and dwellings, occupy the lots. The reputed buyer of the property is Frank McCann. This purchase would give him a total frontage of 160 feet, extending in a solid block up from Decatur street and having a narrow street known as Filter alley in the rear. The Gazette a month ago gave Mr. McCann's plans for the erection of a large hotel near the proposed Wabash station, and this purchase, if made by him, gives him the necessary ground adjoining the Hotel Grand for a modern and costly hotel.

Proposed Site Will Cost $28,000.

The Central Presbyterian church of Allegheny, which sold its property at the northwest corner of Anderson and Lacock streets recently for $45,000, has secured an option on the Dr. Goehring lot at the southeast corner of Sandusky and North Diamond streets. The exact price secured of the option could not be learned but it is in the neighborhood of $28,000. The lot is 22x120 feet and has erected on the Sandusky street front a 12-room brick house. Several other sites have been considered by the church authorities, but as far as known no other options have been taken. A meeting of the congregation will be held Wednesday night to vote on the purchase of the Goehring lot. The board of trustees and the building fund committee have already passed favorably upon the property, and it is likely that the deal will be consummated this week. The church which it is proposed to erect on the site will be one of the best in Allegheny and will cost about $50,000.

Squirrel Hill Sale of $38,000.

Thomas M. Armstrong, president of the Armstrong Cork Company, has sold a fine residence site in Squirrel hill district for $38,000. The lot measures 188x354 feet in the east side of Lexington avenue near Reynolds street, Twenty-second ward. It is on the line of the proposed extension of Juniata street and adjoins the James F. Sterritt holdings. Directly opposite it in Lexington avenue is the handsome residence of Charles D. Armstrong. The buyer of the property is a prominent downtown business man, who is preparing to improve it with a costly residence.

A. M. Thorne, formerly with T. Mellon & Sons, has sold to William S. Van Dyke, assistant treasurer of the Real Estate Trust Company, his residence in the north side of Negley avenue, near Melton street, Nineteenth ward, for about $19,000. The lot has a frontage of 50 feet with a depth of 120 feet, and the residence is a fine center hall brick house containing 15 rooms, handsomely finished in hard wood.

Pennsy Wants Three Squares.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company is still seeking large blocks of property in the Lawrenceville district, and a deal is likely to be consummated soon, for the three squares bounded by Pike, Eighteenth and Twenty-first streets, and Mulberry alley. The total frontage in Pike street is 640 feet and the depth, 160 feet. Options are said to have been secured on practically all the property through the agency of C. Hamilton, the Allegheny Valley railroad, but owners have held prices above the market figure, thus preventing the purchase.

The sale is reported of the Allender farm, a short distance above McKeesport, for $80,000, or $900 an acre. It is situated one mile back from the Monongahela river and is well adapted for residence sites. The purchaser is said to have been a syndicate, which proposes to plot the property at once.

Nothing to Croak About.

October building operations, as shown by the report of Capt. J. A. A. Brown, superintendent of building inspection, although slightly below the record for that month last year prove conclusively that the bugbear of high prices and poor investments, as applied to building, is not affecting the growth of Pittsburg nearly as seriously as is generally supposed. During the month 374 permits were granted, the amount of which was $1,379,034. Of these 237, amounting to $1,050,187, were for new buildings, 92 embracing new $48,509 for additions and 35, amounting to $280,908, for alterations and repairs. October, 1901, showed 01 more permits issued the amount of which was $245,401, a relatively small increase over this year. Compared with March the last month made a poorer showing, the former month having 10 permits more, amounting to $912,228. This was due, however, to the fact that the permit for the Farmers Deposit National bank building was issued in September, while large buildings were authorized in October.

Building permits were granted yesterday as follows: Charles Newmans, six brick houses at Greenfield and Hazelwood avenue, Twenty-third ward, $24,000; J. M. Speer, six brick veneered houses at Sterrett and Bennett streets, Twenty-first ward, $30,000; Dr. Anna Bricker, house at South Negley avenue and Dunmoyle street, Twenty-second ward, $10,000; Anton Kempf, a frame house in Fifty-third street, Eighteenth ward, $1,300.

Better Chances Downtown.

A conspicuous fact is coming to light in connection with the stream of inquiries which is pouring in upon brokers from realty investors. This is that the great bulk of the inquiries are for downtown properties, or sites in the adjoining wards, which can be used for business purposes. A few years ago the conservative investor, who had a few thousands to invest, would very frequently ask for residence properties in the East End, which were then considered a good investment, either from a renting standpoint or from the point of appreciation in value. Within the last month or two, however, the rapid enhancement in both realty values and rents downtown has brought to the notice of these same investors the chances for quick returns at big profits or for big revenues to be derived from renting. While speculative values are not the only ones always the conditions that prevail in Pittsburg's business district are such that brokers have little trouble in interesting prospective buyers in any well located property. The difficulty is to find enough propositions of this kind to supply the number of properties on the market is much too small for the number of buyers.

Brokers Made Known.

It develops that the sale of the L. G. Woods property at No. 528 Smithfield street, mentioned in The Gazette Sunday, was made through the agency of Howard Brown & Bro. The exact consideration was $127,500 and the buyer is J. Murray Clark.

Coffee and Sugar.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Coffee futures opened steady, with prices unchanged to 5 points lower, this being a fair ruling considering early bearish cables. Immediately following the call prices turned quite sharply upward on the important buying of shorts and strong support from full quarters, the net at noon showing a net advance of about 9 points and a firm undertone. A late recovery in Wall Street stocks and a light demand for tomorrow's interior Santos movement, added to the confidence of investors and bull leaders in the afternoon and started a renewed and active buying movement, which was said to be on reports of a large flour business in Minnesota, while a prominent bull operator bought a large quantity of May through brokers. A good export demand was also a supporting feature. Primary receipts were 1,885,000 bushels, against 1,622,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 1,195 cars, which, with local receipts of 172 cars, 12 of contract grade, made total receipts for the three points of 1,367 cars, against 1,428 cars last week, and 1,337 cars a year ago.

Corn was rather quiet and the market held fairly steady, although there was considerable liquidation of December, which had a weakening effect. The prospect of a bearish government crop report was also the cause for liberal selling, but offerings were well taken. Local receipts were 145 cars, with 21 of contract grade.

There was very little trading in oats, the market being dull and without any special features. Local receipts were 235 cars.

Provisions ruled weak as a result of immense receipts of hogs at the yards and lower prices for the same. At the decline shorts covered freely, which steadied prices.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 235 cars; corn, 200 cars; oats, 200 cars; hogs, 30,000 head.

The leading futures as corrected by John D. Armstrong & Co., 209 Sixth street, members of Chicago board of trade:

ALL GRAINS LOWER IN CHICAGO MARKET

Trading Is Active in Wheat and Undertone Holds Quite Firm.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—There was an active trade in wheat on the board of trade today and while prices were somewhat lower the undertone on the whole was quite firm. December closed ⅞@⅝c lower, December corn, ⅜c lower and oats ⅛c lower. January provisions closed from 5c to 12½c lower.

Indifferent cables, liberal receipts in the northwest and the expectation of a large increase in the visible supply caused considerable selling of wheat early in the day. Later brokers bought freely for northwest account, which was said to be on reports of a large flour business in Minnesota, while a prominent bull operator bought a large quantity of May through brokers. A good export demand was also a supporting feature. Primary receipts were 1,885,000 bushels, against 1,622,000 bushels a year ago. Minneapolis and Duluth reported receipts of 1,195 cars, which, with local receipts of 172 cars, 12 of contract grade, made total receipts for the three points of 1,367 cars, against 1,428 cars last week, and 1,337 cars a year ago.

Corn was rather quiet and the market held fairly steady, although there was considerable liquidation of December, which had a weakening effect. The prospect of a bearish government crop report was also the cause for liberal selling, but offerings were well taken. Local receipts were 145 cars, with 21 of contract grade.

There was very little trading in oats, the market being dull and without any special features. Local receipts were 235 cars.

Provisions ruled weak as a result of immense receipts of hogs at the yards and lower prices for the same. At the decline shorts covered freely, which steadied prices.

Estimated receipts for tomorrow: Wheat, 235 cars; corn, 200 cars; oats, 200 cars; hogs, 30,000 head.

SALES OVER MILLION SHARES IN NEW YORK

Wall Street Has Active Day, With Some Heavy Drops in Prices.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS TO THE GAZETTE.]

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Today's stock market absorbed a heavy volume of liquidation and worked off a large amount of excited sentiment. As a net result the closing tone of the market was quiet and steady with many wide breeches in values completely restored and all of them much reduced. The day's business ran over 1,000,000 shares for the first time in many weeks and there were times during the morning's precipitated decline when the market was furiously active.

The motives of the selling were mostly of a general character, such as have been at work for some time toward crystallizing a sentiment that prices were too high and credits too greatly expanded for financial health. Saturday's sharp drop in prices had the result of spreading a wave of doubt all over the country, so that the wires brought into commission houses a large accumulation of selling orders to be thrown upon the market. Many commission houses also had sent out notices to customers that they must widen their margins or sell their holdings. The bears were also active in raiding the market to uncover stop loss orders. The dissemination of a rumor of J. P. Morgan's illness was traceable to the bear element and was promptly denied and followed later by Mr. Morgan's appearance at his office.

Given Object Lesson.

The troubles of one of the newer trust companies over its holdings of securities of one of the newly formed combines, which were ventilated on Saturday, seemed to be taken quite seriously as an object lesson, although not regarded as important in themselves. Nobody has any doubt that a large part of the enormous expansion of bank credits has gone towards the underwriting of new securities. With this large transfer of cred

EDWARD BURKE'S STORY OF CAULEY MARTIN'S MURDER

Defendant Acquitted After Describing Drunken Revel, in Which He Accuses Missing Man of Brutal Killing.

Edward Burke was yesterday tried before Judge Stowe for the murder of Cauley Martin on September 3 during a drunken brawl at Williamsburg, close to the city line. The jury acquitted him after a short deliberation, Judge Stowe having practically instructed it to that effect.

District Attorney Haymaker prosecuted the case, while Eody P. Marshall looked after the defendant's interests. Daniel O'Fee, John Broe, High L. Friel, John Roberts, Thomas Connors, George Knox, James O'Hara, William Fields, Joseph Reilly, Robert Bailey and Daniel Friel were placed on trial with Burke, but on motion of the district attorney the cases against all excepting Burke were nolle prossed. "Butch" Ruppert and Michael Harrold were indicted with the others, but have not yet been arrested.

Martin's death was the result of a drunken revel that began at Grant street and First avenue, when a party of men with a wagon and a large quantity of liquor left after dark for a picnic along the Monongahela river. At the place where the murder occurred Burke, Harrold and Ruppert, strangers to the wagon party, joined in the beer drinking.

What happened after that, during the hours before the killing the commonwealth's witnesses, the men of the wagon party were unable to explain. The district attorney would ask them in turn: "Were you one of the wagon party?"

"I was. We left the city and arrived where we drank the beer."

"Then what happened?"

"I saw three or four strangers join us."

"Then what did you do?"

"I went to sleep and somebody hit me on the head with a stone as I was sleeping. Somebody was throwing stones."

"Who?"

"I don't know."

"What did you do then?"

"I got up and moved away; then laid down and went to sleep again, waking at daylight."

None of the witnesses could tell of any events leading up to a quarrel or a fight between Martin and the others. Their brains were drink-fogged. But the cuts they received satisfied them of a fusillade of stones.

The defendant said that with Ruppert and Harroid he left the South Side to go and fish in the Monongahela. They joined the beer party, where he said he had a little spat with one of the men. It was over for some time when stones began flying. He was 50 rods away, but when he went back to the crowd he saw Harrold bending over the prostrate form of Martin, beating him with a stone or other instrument, he did not know what. He said, "My God, man, see his face is bloody; don't strike him again," and held out his right hand to shield Martin from the next blow. The blow meant for Martin struck him, breaking his hand.

Later, with Ruppert and Harrold, he took a freight train, reaching Cincinnati, where in attempting to make another freight, Harrold was left behind and Ruppert and the prisoner went on to Chicago. Burke then went to Omaha and back to Chicago, from where he was brought to Pittsburgh by Detective George Waggoner.

The morning following the fight several of the parties were found in a stupefied condition with bloody faces.

RESERVOIR CASE HEARD.

Supreme Court Hands Down Important Opinions for Western Counties—List Almost Finished.

The supreme court yesterday handed down a number of opinions. All of them, with but few exceptions, were per curiams. The court finished all but two cases on the list. These will be heard today, after which the court will rise.

Among the cases heard yesterday was that of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania ex rel. against John B. Larkin, city controller. It was the appeal of Larkin from a decision of common pleas court No. 2, in the matter of the action brought in behalf of the Mercantile Trust Company to compel Larkin to countersign a warrant for $11,140 12 for work on Highland reservoir No. 2. Other appeals heard were:

Appeal of Herman Fischer from a decree in the matter of the estate of Francis J. Wehrle, Jacob W. Miller, appellant, against the McKeesport Connecting Railway Company, an action for personal injuries; A. G. Smith, appellant, against David S. McCann, executor, an action over a contract for the sale of land; Martha B. Simpson, appellant, against J. Allison Reed, an action over property; Mary Wall, appellant, against the City of Pittsburgh, an action for alleged damage to property; Helen D. Shields and others, appellants, against James G. B. McAuley, an action over property; appeal of Robert Kirkpatrick from the Delaware county court, where he was convicted of murder of the first degree for the killing of his housekeeper in Chester.

Judgment is affirmed in the case of Charles Grether, who was convicted in Monroe county of murder. The victim, a man named Strunk, was about to arrest Grether. Strunk, who was a private citizen and without a warrant, attempted to take Grether for a felony. The court says the pursuit of the perpetrators of the felony, which was fresh, and that the right of a private citizen to make an arrest under these conditions cannot be doubted.

In the opinion in the case of the commonwealth against Harrold and others, an action in lunacy from Westmoreland county, the court comments on the actions of juries. The court says that how far jurymen may change their votes in deference to their views or arguments of their fellows, or even pledge themselves to acquiescence in results under certain circumstances, is not susceptible of exact definition. That 12 unlearned men should not always pursue logical methods in argument or in reaching conclusions is to be expected.

Other opinions were:

Ruggins estate, Leatherman's appeal from the decree of the orphans' court of Washington county. Decree affirmed.

R. G. Rafferty, against Pennsylvania Mining Company; common pleas court of Washington county. Decree affirmed.

Jacob's estate; Safe Deposit & Trust Company's appeal from the decree of orphans' court of Allegheny county. Decree affirmed.

Francis McCann against William F. Barclay; appeal from common pleas court of Beaver county. Judgment affirmed.

William M. Russell against John E. Stewart, S. A. Gibson and Ross White; common pleas court of Washington county. Decree affirmed.

Smith vs. Stevenson; appeal from the judgment of common pleas court No. 1 of Allegheny county. Judgment affirmed.

Beedle vs. Hilldale Mining Company; appeal from common pleas court of Washington county. Decree affirmed.

Robinson Machine Company against Hazel Kirk Gas Coal Company; appeal from court of common pleas of Washington county. Judgment affirmed.

McNicholas vs. Moran et al.; appeal from court of common pleas of Greene county. Judgment affirmed.

Davidson vs. Miller; appeal from court of common pleas of Butler county. Order modified and affirmed.

Baker vs. Morgan; appeal from common pleas No. 1 of Allegheny county. Judgment affirmed.

Agnew vs. Southern Land Company; appeal from common pleas court No. 1 of Allegheny county. Decree affirmed.

Commonwealth ex rel. Cope vs. Harrold et al.; appeal from common pleas court of Westmoreland county. Judgment affirmed.

LABOR POET'S WILL.

Karl Reuber Left Property to Be Used for Labor Temple—Friend Gets His Writings.

The will of Karl Reuber, known as the labor poet, was yesterday filed in the register's office. As announced by him previous to his death, he bequeathed property at No. 4 Boston street in trust for district No. 5, United Mine Workers of America, with the provision that within two years that organization erect a labor temple on the site. This property is valued at $1,200. It is further set forth that the "temple" shall not cost less than $20,000.

The testator leaves the proceeds of his life insurance to his sisters, Shelda Reuber and Sophia Reuber, and two nieces in Germany. His friend, T. Herman Lippold, is bequeathed $500, together with the decedent's writings, poems and books, for the purpose of publishing a book, if he sees fit.

The residue of the estate and that which shall remain, if the labor organization does not comply with the building clause, is left to the decedent's sisters and nieces as named above. The personal estate is worth $1,800.

SAYS SHE WAS MISLED.

Purchaser of Property Sues Alleged Agent for Damages.

A statement was filed in the case of Mrs. Allie M. Lytle against Harry L. Greer. The plaintiff alleges she employed the defendant to purchase property for her in Duquesne, and that he wrongfully, and intending to deceive her, fraudulently represented that the lowest possible price was $5,000.

The plaintiff alleges that the defendant obtained this sum to pay to J. L. Thomas, the owner of the property, but in truth the lowest possible price for the property was about $3,800, as the defendant well knew, thereby obtaining about $1,200, which the defendant is charged with having converted to his own use. She asks for $2,000 damages.

Reed Denies Charge.

An answer was filed yesterday by Carson C. Reed to the writ of quo warranto to oust him as a member of the Tarentum council. It was alleged that while he was councilman, as agent of two companies, he placed insurance on the borough's electric light plant. Reed admits that he placed the insurance, but says it was done before he was elected to council.

ECHO OF A TRAGEDY.

Attorney Asks Investigation of Mrs. Patrick E. Fitzgerald's Sanity. Husband Killed by Ed Biddle.

Attorney R. H. Jackson, who has been handling the financial affairs of the family of the late Detective Patrick E. Fitzgerald, who was murdered by Edward Biddle, yesterday went into court and began a lunacy inquisition against the detective's widow.

Mrs. Fitzgerald is a private patient in St. Francis hospital, where she has been confined for several weeks, and by reason of this Mr. Jackson is unable to attend to needs of the family legally. They have a considerable estate left from the fund subscribed for the family.

The court appointed Attorney William A. Jordon commissioner. He will at once take testimony and report the same to the court so that a committee can be appointed, if Mrs. Fitzgerald is shown incapable of managing her estate. Some time ago similar action was taken against her sister, wife of Attorney W. A. Golden, but a sheriff's jury decided Mrs. Golden was sane.

BAIL OF $20,000 WILL BE ASKED

Bruce Head's Friends Will Insist On Hearing Reason for Shooting.

SURPRISE FOR DUNCAN

Physician's Attorneys Only Expect Small Bail to Be Required. Story of Mysterious Attack to Be Brought Out in Court.

When Attorneys George Elphinstone and Clarence Burleigh enter court to apply for bail for their client, Dr. Ellis Duncan, who shot Bruce Head at the Greentree camp of William Kenefick & Co., recently, they will be treated to a surprise.

From an authoritative source it was learned yesterday that District Attorney Haymaker will ask the court to fix the bail at $20,000. Duncan's attorneys are figuring on having their prisoner released in $5,000 bonds, and may ask the court to reduce this amount to $1,000.

The district attorney will ask for such heavy bonds to insure Duncan's return to Pittsburgh for the trial. If the bail was fixed at a small amount it is feared the friends of the Louisville physician would rather pay the money than have Dr. Duncan divulge in court his motive for shooting Head.

It may be some days before Dr. Duncan is admitted to bail. His attorneys have not fully decided when they will go into court and ask for his release, but if Head's improvement warrants it they may do so during the present week.

Head Rapidly Improving.

Dr. R. L. Walker, Head's physician, notified County Detective Robinson and District Attorney Haymaker yesterday that his patient was improving slowly and doing as well as could be expected, and that he will soon be out of danger, and consent to the release of Dr. Duncan on bail.

That Duncan will be brought to trial in a Pittsburgh court for shooting Head seems assured. There has been a movement on foot for some time to have the case quieted, and strong pressure has been brought to bear on Head's relatives not to prosecute. Head's half-brother, J. B. Carter, general manager of Kenefick & Co., will not hear to any compromise, and it is said that Head also wants the case fought to the bitter end. He is still at sea as to Duncan's reason for shooting him, and proposes to make him tell it in court. Mr. Carter will have an attorney who will also argue that Haymaker's request for the large bond be granted by the court.

Attorney Burleigh yesterday said:

"I do not know when we will make application for the release of Dr. Duncan. I understand Head is improving rapidly and we will possibly go into court in a few days and ask that Dr. Duncan be let out on a bond. His friends are in a position to furnish any reasonable amount of bail, and the matter of our client's release will require but a few hours. The bail in this case should be small, as Head will be declared out of danger."

LOOKING TO THE FUTURE.

President Craig of the Local Commercial Telegraphers, Explains Attitude of the Union.

W. F. Craig, Jr., president of the local union of the Brotherhood of Commercial Telegraphers, alleges that the report published in The Gazette of yesterday relative to the movement being organized by telegraphers hereabouts, looking to a strike within the course of a year, was exaggerated. He defines the situation as follows:

"While it is true we have organized, and while the expectation of every union is to at some time better the condition of the members, it is not the intention to make any demands or strike at the present time. Our main object at present is to get together so that we may better know each other and discuss our work and the best methods of bringing about a better state of affairs. Any conservative man knows that it would be folly for an organization only a few months old to attempt anything radical. We desire to emphasize the fact that there is no prospect of a strike now or at an early date, either in conjunction with the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, or alone. When we do see fit to make such reasonable and just demands as we think are our due, they will be made only after careful consideration and every possible means will be used to prevent any possible rupture of the harmonious relations which now exist between us and the companies."

Ponies Have the Corn.

Justice E. R. Buetner of Millvale yesterday awarded Sailor Peter a $60 damages in a suit against John F. Kearney, of Bauerstown. The latter is keeping about 60 horses and ponies belonging to Pawnee Bill's wild west show during the winter. The horses broke into a corn field belonging to Peters. Kearney had no defense.

Brothers Injured by Valve Explosion

A steam valve burst yesterday morning in the plant of the Allegheny County Electric Light Company, at Thirteenth and Elms streets. Frank and Samuel Lauther, brothers, were badly scalded. They were taken to the Mercy hospital.
